INHUMAN MOTHER.

Hypnotist Told Her to Turn on Gas.

Billeck's Son Heard Him Plot the Death of the Vrzal Children.

Ordered Their Mother to Asphyxiate Them and She Obeyed.

Odor Escapes by a Window. Trips to California Brought Him Coin.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Herman Billeck, Jr., son of Herman Billeck, the fortune-teller and hypnotist under arrest charged with poisoning six members of the Vrzal family, made a confession to the police today.

He declares that he saw Mrs. Vrzal, the mother of the family, turn on the gas at her home, and leave it escaping, in an attempt to asphyxiate Ella and Bertha, two of her children, who were asleep.

HEARD THE TALK.

"I heard my father and Mrs. Vrzal talking about killing the children," he said.

He also stated that the attempt on the Vrzal children's lives was made about October 29.

According to the story the boy told the police, Billeck and Mrs. Vrzal discussed who should turn on the gas. Finally Billeck, the boy said, told Mrs. Vrzal to open the gas jet, and she did so.

Young Billeck said that a window was open in another part of the house, which saved the children's life, by letting the gas escape.

STANDISH YORK'S DEATH.

Young Billeck has given damaging evidence against his father, in connecting him with the death in Cleveland, O., of Standish York, a wealthy hardware merchant of that city, said to be a brother-in-law of Cassie M. Chadwick.

The boy said his father knew Mrs. York, and that she used to visit often at Billeck's house.

Shortly after York's death, his widow moved to California. A few months later, the boy said, his father followed, and when he returned he had $3000, which he intimated had been given him by Mrs. York.

After this money was spent, the son declared, his father again went to California, and returned with another $3000.

Just before his father left for California, the boy said, he signed his name as Czischesk, and was known under that name while in California.

Mrs. Mary Billeck was released from custody on her own recognizance today. The evidence in the hands of the police against Mrs. Billeck was considered insufficient to warrant her detention.

APPROVE MAIL REFUSAL.

Galvestonians Indorse Withdrawing Use of Post from New York Cotton Exchange.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The sentiment of the great majority of Galvestonians interested in cotton is in sympathy with the proposed withdrawal of the use of the United States mails from the New York Cotton Exchange.

No concerted action has been taken, but such is contemplated.

Among those denouncing the New York Exchange are W. L. Moody and Company, the biggest bankers and cotton factors in the State. They voice the sentiment of the growers.

SUES TARDY RAILWAY.

Broker Says Fifteen Hours Delay Damaged Him in the Sum of $100,000.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As an outgrowth of financial losses which he alleges are due to fifteen hours' delay in reaching Washington, of a train of the Southern Railroad on which he was a passenger, William H. Coe, a broker, today directed his counsel, James A. Allen, to begin at once an action in the United States Circuit Court against the railroad to recover $100,000.

MISSING WIFE HERE?

Creditors of Defunct New York Store Seek Woman Whom They Think Has Vanished Cash.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Determined efforts of the creditors of the defunct New York Store to ascertain the whereabouts of the wife of Herman Hoffman, one of the partners, were only partially successful.

Hoffman testified that she is in Los Angeles, but as to where she is living he professed utter ignorance. She is alleged to have some of the defunct firm's missing cash.

HANDED ADAM A LEMON.

Prof. Johnson Thinks It Was Citrus Fruit Which Attracted Eve.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—A dispatch to the Tribune from New Haven, Ct., says;

"The American Modern Language Association, now in special session at Yale, has decided that it was not an apple that Eve handed Adam.

"The association has set aside Saturday morning to discover whether it was not a lemon that caused the trouble in the Garden of Eden.

"Prof. Oliver M. Johnson of the Leland Stanford University of California, who has adopted a special study of tropical fruit, has been appointed to lead the discussion. He insists that there were no apples in the Garden of Eden."

Crown Order of the Second Class Can Be Worn Along With the Red Eagle by the Noted Psychologist. He Refuses Chair Once Held by Kant.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—Emperor William has bestowed on Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, professor of psychology at Harvard University, the Crown Order of the second class.

PROF. HUGO MUENSTERBERG, Harvard's noted psychologist, who has just been granted a decoration by the Kaiser.

This is the second time the Kaiser has honored Prof. Munsterberg, having previously decorated him with the Order of the Red Eagle.

Prof. Munsterberg has declined a call from the German government to the chair of philosophy of the University of Königberg. This noted chair was held over thirty years by the great philosopher Kant.

LICENSED TO WED.

Marquis d'Andigne of France Will Take for Bride the Daughter of Col. Goddard.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For their marriage, to take place Saturday noon at Hopetown House, the city home of Col. Robert H. I. Goddard, millionaire cotton manufacturer of this State, Marquis d'Andigne of France and Miss Madeline I. Goddard secured a license at the City Hall today.

The groom gave his full name as Marie Alexander Leon Rene Marquis d'Andigne, Compte de Saigne Gommes, Baron De Segrey, residence Paris, age 44, occupation proprietaire, born in London, Eng. The bride is the daughter of Col. Robert H. I. Goddard.

GUN FIGHTERS IN COURT.

Damage Suit of Once Prominent Mine Owner Against Denver Attorney Bitterly Contested.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Scenes never before witnessed here are attending the trial of the damage suit brought by Josiah Winchester, once a prominent Cripple Creek mine owner, against A. M. Stevenson et al. Stevenson is a prominent Denver attorney.

Winchester charges the defendants with having conspired to bring an injunction suit, which tied up 600,000 shares of the mining stock he owned. Because of this he could not sell, and lost his fortune and his home.

The feeling is so bitter that gun fighters, representing both men, were in the courtroom at a session held tonight. There was, however, no clash.

LEFT ALL ALONE.

Ethel Levey Leaves Her Hubby.

George Cohan, Playwright Makes Big Offer, but Is Spurned.

Actress Forsakes Company and Returns to Her Mother.

Husband Will Fight Divorce Suit Which She Will Institute Soon.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following numerous reports of the differences which terminated a week ago in her leaving a company presenting one of its plays in Cleveland, it was learned today that Miss Ethel Levey, as she was known to the stage, is about to sue for a divorce from George M. Cohan, actor, playwright and producer.

With her 5-year-old daughter she is visiting her mother, Mrs. Levey, in the Sonoma apartments on Broadway. Mrs. Levey said her daughter would begin proceedings immediately in this circuit on statutory grounds.

Cohan has expressed his intention of fighting his wife's action. It is said that upon her withdrawal from his company he offered her $100,000 as her share of the enterprises in which they were interested, and that she refused to accept it.

GEORGE IS "MUM."

George Cohan treats the matter lightly. He says: "I have not been served with the papers yet. But I haven't anything to say—it might interfere with the plans of my lawyers. I certainly will fight the case. It is a complete surprise to me.

"Mrs. Cohan came on with the company from Cleveland and left us at New York. But what is the use of taking it seriously? As a matter of fact there has been a breech between my wife and myself for some time. We agreed to disagree. Next thing I heard of was this report of divorce proceedings."

THAT CHICAGO SCANDAL.

In Chicago the announcement that Cohan is to be sued for divorce by his wife caused no surprise, for in theatrical circles there the differences between the couple have been known for some weeks.

During the engagement at the Colonial Theater of "George Washington, Jr.," in which Cohan and his wife were the leading characters, it is said they had frequent quarrels on the stage, and when Ethel Levey gave a birthday party at a downtown restaurant, Cohan absented himself from the gathering.

According to one story in Chicago Cohan found his wife drinking with two members of the company, and slapped her face. Then, it is alleged, he discharged the actors and then pummeled them.

Ethel an Angelena.

Ethel Levey is a Los Angeles girl who went on the road with a musical comedy company through the influence of a local theatrical man. She and George Cohan were married at the home of her parents in this city.

She had already made a good reputation and had bounded into immediate fame after her marriage to Cohan.

Shortly after that the celebrated "Four Cohans" vaudeville team broke up.

Miss Levey has been on the stage since then part of the time in a musical monologue, singing her husband's songs, her greatest success being "If I Were J. Pierpont Morgan."

Part of the time she has played in her husband's musical comedies. Her fame has always been mingled with his.

SAGE MONEY "SALTED."

Widow of Financier Will Not Throw It Away Promiscuously, but Will Give Some to a Few.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Mrs. Russell Sage, widow of the financier, today gave out a statement in which she declared that it was not her intention to distribute immediately the money left by her husband, and much less does she intend to distribute it everywhere and to everybody.

She declared that she has at her own doors plenty of cases of need which have a nearer claim on her than the people of other cities, whose needs, she believes, can and should be met by philanthropic persons in those States.

The earliest date at which her husband's estate can be closed up, she says, is one year from his death, and therefore present applications are "premature."

ANTHONY COMSTOCK REMOVED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Anthony Comstock has lost the second round of his battle with the Art Students' League. A telegram from Washington announced that the great American art censor has been deprived of his position as postoffice inspector, and at the studios in West Fifty-seventh street, tonight, a celebration was being held.

ADOLPH BUSCH IS NEAR DEATH.

MULTI-MILLIONAIRE IS STRICKEN WITH PNEUMONIA.

Coughing Fit Seizes Him While Playing Cards With His Friends at Home and Physicians Summoned Give Slight Hope Patient Will Recover from Disease.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Adolphus Busch, millionaire brewer, is seriously ill at his home of pneumonia.

Dr. Bernays, one of the physicians attending Busch, said today:

"Adolphus Busch is better today, but Adolphus Busch.

anybody knows that a man 64 years old, with pneumonia, is in a very serious condition."

Mrs. Busch is also ill and is confined to her bed in a room adjoining that of her husband. Her son stated that she is suffering from a severe cold.

At 1 o'clock tonight Dr. Bernays announced that he considered his multi-millionaire patient, Adolphus Busch, who was stricken at a card table, greatly improved.

Dr. Bernays earlier today diagnosed his illness as pneumonia, and intimated that owing to his advanced age, 64 years, his chances for recovery were slight.

Tonight, however, Dr. Bernays stated that Busch might be suffering with a severe case of bronchitis. The only member of his family in America and not at his bedside is hastening here from New York in compliance with a telegram. This is his daughter, Mrs. Hugo Reisinger.

Augustus A. Busch tonight, discussing his father's illness, said:

"My father had an attack of coughing Wednesday night while playing cards with several of his friends at home. He became ill at once and grew worse very fast. Drs. Luedeking, Fischel and Bernays were summoned right away and they remained with him constantly until this afternoon.

"We think now that the danger point is passed."

NO AMERICANS KILLED.

Mexican Troops Pursuing Yaqui Indians Who Slaughter Four Natives in Uprising.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 29.—According to the official report of the uprising of Yaqui Indians received by the government here, no Americans were killed and the total number of deaths was four, two men and two women, all Mexicans. Besides these casualties, four Mexicans were badly wounded.

Lencho, where the raid occurred, is within three miles of Torin, the military center of the district where 2000 troops are stationed. As soon as the firing was heard, Gen. Lorenzo Torres, in command of all the troops, took the field in pursuit of the Yaquis. The soldiers will remain out until the Indians are killed or captured.

HEARST'S CAMPAIGN BILLS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gherardi Davis, one of the members of the Executive Committee of the Corrupt Practices Association, was designated by Atty.-Gen. Mayer, today, as a special Deputy Attorney-General to represent the State in suits to compel W. R. Hearst to render a corrected and itemized statement of his election expenses in the last campaign.

BRYCE'S APPOINTMENT HAS UNUSUAL COURSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The United States is causing British officialdom considerable embarrassment, through its failure to send in its acceptance of the appointment of James Bryce as Ambassador to Washington. This must be received before the official announcement of the appointment can be published.

The appointment had been admitted by the foreign office and Mr. Bryce has announced it in a letter to his constituents, but the proclamation is lying on a desk, awaiting a cablegram from Washington. The moment this message is received, a special Gazette will be issued and formal information sent to the press.

The present occurrence is most unusual in Great Britain, where it is a very rare thing for an appointment of this kind to be made public until its publication in the Gazette.

While it is not known what the Cabinet will decide, it is pointed out that, although Sir Henry is retiring from Washington, it does not necessarily follow that he will entirely sever his connection with the imperial service.

"There is no diplomatic position open at present," said an official today, "but there are many posts for which Sir Henry is admirably suited, and it likely that he will take one of these rather than go to the House of Lords.

"Nothing has been decided in the matter of a peerage for James Bryce, and in this case, also, the general belief is that he will continue to be plain Mr. Bryce, both because of his own inclination and because of the opinion that Americans would prefer it."

ROOT MADE RESPONSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—When shown the cablegram from London, saying that the British government is embarrassed by the failure of the United States to send an acceptance of the appointment of James Bryce as Ambassador to the United States, Secretary Root tonight said:

"The British government was notified, both orally (through Ambassador Durand) and in writing several days ago, that the appointment of Mr. Bryce would be eminently satisfactory to this government."

GIANT OF NORTH.

James J. Hill to Retire in July.

Empire Builder Gives Out Announcement on His Own Initiative.

His Vast Enterprises on Safe, Sound Basis That "Will Endure."

Louis, His Eldest Son, Is to Succeed as Head of the Railway System.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway, will retire from the active management of his vast properties on July 1, 1907.

This announcement was made today by Hill himself.

Hill is the most remarkable character of the railroad and financial world today, and has been pronounced "The greatest transportation mind in the world."

ELDEST SON SUCCESSOR.

Hill's successor will be his eldest son, Louis W. Hill, now first vice-president of the Great Northern, who is personally extremely popular, and possesses in large degree the exceptional genius of his father, and who will still have at his disposal the guiding hand of "the empire builder of the Northwest."

CONFIRMS THE RUMOR.

From time to time in the past few years, there have been rumors that Hill was planning to retire. The definite time for the retirement has never been announced till today, when Hill himself named July first next, as the date for getting out of the harness.

He said: "I have planned to retire as soon as I could safely do so. By that time, I shall be able to leave the work of a lifetime, the business here, on a safe, sound basis that will endure."

FOLLOWED HIS DREAM.

For fifty years, or ever since he came to St. Paul, Hill has followed steadily his dream of the development of a new empire in the Northwest, and at the age of 68 he will retire with his work accomplished.

Hill now controls transportation facilities covering almost the whole of the Northern United States and Canada, steamship lines to Asia and a large number of other enterprises.

His personal fortune is supposed to be $100,000,000 or more.

NEGRO HEIR IS NOW MISSING.

MAN WITH $10,000 COMING CAN'T BE FOUND.

Nursed Brother of Lord Beresford Through Attack of Yellow Fever, and Is Remembered in Will—Mystery Surrounds Dead Man's Marriage—Wife Said He Had Died.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Investigation here fails to locate the negro nurse to whom J. J. Beresford, brother of Lord Charles Beresford, who was killed in the Soo wreck at Enderlin, N. D., has left $10,000 for nursing him through yellow fever.

A search of the records here today, however, reveals the fact that Beresford was stricken with yellow fever at a house on Camp street during the epidemic of 1897. He was removed to the Hotel Dieu, according to the statement of Mrs. Fannie Hibbard, landlady of the house.

In an interview today, she declared that Beresford was married and had his wife with him. The supposed wife returned to the boarding-house after Beresford's sickness, saying that her husband had died at the hospital.

According to his will now filed, he had no wife. This creates a romantic mystery about his life here, and it is believed he was quietly married without his family knowing it.

SUICIDE AT OTTAWA.

A. Russell Cameron, Who Has Brother at Redlands, Cal., Takes His Life for Reasons Unknown.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OTTAWA (Ont.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. Russell Cameron, a young member of Ottawa's best society, was found dead tonight. He lay in bed, a bullet wound through his temple, a 38-caliber revolver between his legs.

Whines of a dog on the bed near by drew the attention of Fred Addy, a government official, who found Cameron's corpse.

While it is supposed to be a case of suicide, the officials are investigating. He was well off, and no reason why he might wish to end his life is known. He leaves a brother at Redlands, Cal.

LABOR.

MANAGERS IN CONFERENCE.

Union Trainmen Must Make Fresh Overtures.

Two Brotherhoods Threaten a General Tie-up.

Firemen Claim Strike-breakers Come Guarded.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO (Ill.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following the statement made by officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers that unless some definite answer was forthcoming soon from the railroads, relative to the demand made November 10, a strike would be declared, the general managers of twenty-three roads entering Chicago today named a committee to confer with the engineers.

The meeting will be held tomorrow in the Railway Exchange building, but will be merely preliminary to a general meeting to be held at a later date. The questions to be discussed at the general meeting will be decided upon so that no time may be lost in reaching a settlement.

Both sides are anxious to settle the question of hours and wages, but the railway officials claim they never have received word from the engineers since refusing their original demands. They claim they simply have been waiting for the engineers to make some move.

On the other hand, the engineers assert they have been ignored and kept waiting for over a month till the men are in a hostile mood.

The probability of serious trouble between the western railroads and their employés, who have demanded a 15 per cent. increase in wages, became more likely yesterday, when the managers of the roads affected met and decided that no action would be taken until the trainmen made fresh overtures.

The trouble seems to be that few roads can afford an increase in operating expenses. An increase of 10 per cent. in the wages of all the trainmen, it is said, would take away the small remaining chances of dividends, and these roads would prefer to take chances with a strike rather than grant the increased wages without making an effort to ward off the blow.

DECRIES CHILD LABOR HORROR.

BEVERIDGE SCORES WEALTH FED BY YOUNG LIVES.

He Says Millionaires Who Coin Babies Into Pelf Are Too Rich and Country Is Threatened With Peril of London Hooliganism Because Greed Forgets Humanity.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Dec. 28.—Senator A. J. Beveridge addressed the closing meeting of the Nebraska State Teachers' Association here tonight, speaking on "The Schools and the Nation." He was introduced by W. J. Bryan, and said:

"Nothing shows how much greed forgets humanity as child slavery. There is something wrong with a prosperity which is so immense that it finally comes to feed upon the lives of little children. Men who make money by working infants are making too much money.

"There are at a low estimate half a million children under 14 years at work in cotton mills, glass factories, sweatshops, mines and like industries. Those whom such toil does not kill are being ruined for citizenship. We are turning out a low estimate of 200,000 adult London Hooligans every year, and these become in turn the parents of hundreds of thousands of other degenerates. And so this civic pestilence spreads.

"It must be stopped—if not for the sake of these children themselves, then for our own sake; if not for the sake of common humanity then for the sake of the republic's safety. For this republic is based on citizenship. We cannot sow the wind today without reaping the whirlwind tomorrow.

"If everybody, including the most earnest advocate of State rights, could agree on a national quarantine law to keep out yellow fever which does not kill twenty people in twenty years, how much more should we agree on a national child labor law to stop a practice that actually kills thousands of children, and irrecialmably ruins tens of thousands every year?"

BONAPARTE TALKS T- DEVLIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.—Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte and United States Attorney Devlin of San Francisco had a conference at the law office of the Attorney-General here today regarding the San Francisco school trouble. At its conclusion Devlin returned to Washington where a further consultation will be held tomorrow. Neither would discuss the meeting. Devlin said it was confined to a consideration of the legal aspects of the case and the method of procedure.

San Francisco Ranks First in the Percentage of Trouble, While Los Angeles Is Under the Average by More Than Twenty-four Per Cent. Causes of Trouble Various.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—According to the biennial report of State Labor Commissioner W. V. Stafford, which he has made to Gov. Pardee, there were 238 strikes and nineteen lock-outs in California during the five years from January 1, 1901, to January 1, 1906, covered by the report.

Forty-four of the strikes took place in 1901, involving 21,119 persons. In the last year covered by the report, 1905, there were only twenty-nine strikes, in which 2287 men and women were involved.

San Francisco ranks first in the number of strikes, having 111 of the total for the State, or 37.2 per cent. Of these, eighty-five were ordered by labor organizations and twenty-six were not. The percentage of successful strikes in San Francisco was forty-five, or 12 per cent. higher than the percentage for the entire State.

Los Angeles is second in the number of labor strikes, having had fifty-one. The percentage of successful strikes in Los Angeles is less than eight, and is under the average for the State by more than 24 per cent. In other words, while for the State as a whole one strike in three has been successful, in the southern city less than one strike in twelve has resulted favorably to the strikers.

The causes leading to the strikes in California have been varied. In ninety-seven instances the desire for an increased wage was the cause. An effort to compel employers to maintain a union shop was the cause in forty-six cases. Twenty-eight of the disturbances were brought about primarily by a desire for shorter hours. Twenty-three were for increased wages and shorter hours together, twelve were disputes over apprentices; nine were sympathetic strikes, and six were against reduction in pay, or increase in hours.

STRIKE-BREAKERS ARRIVE?

ARE CONCEALED, IS CLAIM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Dec. 28.—It is positively asserted by the striking members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen that the Southern Pacific has imported from Chicago and other points a lot of strike-breakers, who are concealed here in cars, under guard.

Acting Superintendent Wade of the El Paso division admitted that several men had been brought here to replace the men who had left the service, but denied that they are strike-breakers, or that they were under guard, although admitting that they are accompanied by the "company's representative."

The firemen have little to say beyond expressing confidence in winning the fight. One of them today enlisted in the United States Army.

LABOR BRIEFS.

Five Merchants Fined.

ALTON (Ill.) Dec. 28.—Five merchants were fined each $5 and costs here by Justice Nathan for violation of the child-labor law.

Strike-breakers Secured.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—Forty strike-breakers, firemen from St. Louis and Cincinnati, arrived here last night, and were located in quarters furnished by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. It is reported that union engineers are making no objection to the placing of non-union firemen on their engines, and this conciliatory attitude of the engineers is said to be due to their opposition to the present demands of the firemen.

New Way of "Striking."

EL PASO (Tex.) Dec. 28.—The result of the vote of the Mexican Central conductors on the proposal of leaving the company's service if a wage increase is not granted, has not yet been made public. It is stated that all will not quit in a body, but a few at a time, as they have a contract with the road by which they cannot all leave the service at once, either on a strike or by resignation.

Wages Are Increased.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—It was announced yesterday from the office of C. W. Smith, general superintendent of the New York Central Railroad, that the company had advanced the wages of 20,000 of its men, and that statistics of the general increase will soon be issued.

Government Forces Moderates to Radicalism by Prohibiting Political Meetings of Opposition—Terrorists Threaten Continuance of Intimidation of Aristocrats in Russia.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 28.—The "flying section" of the secret police, according to a report of Prefect Von Der Lauscies, made 585 arrests in this city during the last three days. The prisoners, who include thirty-three women, are charged with "revolutionary activity and illegal election agitation."

Further arrests and searches are proceeding vigorously. The activity of the police is due to the recent attempt on the life of Vice-Admiral Doubassoff, ex-Governor of Moscow, and the assassination of Count Alexis Ignatieff at Tver, December 22. The leaders of the revolutionists, by an overwhelming majority, have resolved to ceaselessly pursue "their just campaign of removal, intimidation being the only effective weapon against the iniquitous régime."

The more moderate members of the revolutionary party have been won over to the side of the extremists through the action of the authorities in prohibiting electoral meetings of the opposition parties.

SAYS MILLIONS NEED FOOD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Nicholas Shiskof, who was one of the trustees of the American famine fund of February, 1891, has sent to London, accompanied by an appeal for funds, an account of the awful famine conditions in Russia. "Fifteen years ago," said Shiskof, "when the famine was less serious, we had $4,000,000; now we have only $500,000." Shiskof estimates that about 30,000,000 peasants will need assistance.

LAY CHARGE OF DYNAMITE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Dec. 28.—Two hundred pounds of dynamite in sticks was found in the Rio Grande River under the American end of the Mexican railroad bridge today, by Mexican boys playing on the banks. One theory of the officials is that the explosive was hidden by smugglers and another that it was placed there by agitators.

HIGH OFFICIALS ARE ACCUSED OF FORGERY.

Grand Jury Indicts George W. Perkins and George S. Fairchild on Six Charges, Alleging Falsification in Book-keeping Entries.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The grand jury, which has been investigating the New York Life Insurance Company, today returned indictments charging forgery in the third degree against George W. Perkins, formerly vice-president of the company and a member of J. P. Morgan and Company, and George S. Fairchild, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, president of the New York Security and Trust Company and a member of the finance committee of the Insurance company.

Perkins was in court when the indictments were announced. He entered a plea of not guilty and gave bond in the sum of $10,000, his sureties being J. P. Morgan, Jr., and Cleveland H. Dodge. Fairchild is in Europe. The court assured Perkins that a double surety was not necessary but he replied that he preferred it.

Six indictments were returned against each of the two defendants, but all are based on the transaction known as the "Prussian loan," the specification as to forgery being alleged falsificatin of book-keeping entries. It is asserted that certain railway stocks were transferred by the insurance company to the Security and Trust Company in order to comply with the Russian law, but that the transfer was not bona-fide.

The grand jury, coupled with the indictments a presentment in which it places itself on record as convinced that Messrs. Perkins and Fairchild were "influenced by a desire to benefit the policy holders." The grand jury further says the indictments were returned only under a strict interpretation of the law as laid down by Dist.-Atty. Jerome.

The trial of W. D. Mann, editor of Town Topics, on a charge of perjury, before Recorder Goff, was interrupted in order that the grand jury might report. It had been an open secret for six days that Perkins probably would be indicted. The indictment of Fairchild came as a surprise, for he had not been publicly connected with the investigation.

The New York Security and Trust Company, of which Fairchild was president, was at the time of the "Prussian loan" controlled by the New York Life Insurance Company. The railway shares were transferred by the New York Life to the Security and Trust Company, and it is contended that, if a crime was committed, Fairchild must have been cognizant of it and a party to the transaction.

It is said that the discharge of the December grand jury, which followed the presentment of the insurance indictments, does not end the inquiry into the New York Life. The statement that the statute of limitations become effective January 1, with regard to any irregularities developed in the company during the Armstrong investigation is erroneous. The inquiry will be continued by the January grand jury.

The "Prussian loan matter" was developed during the Armstrong investigation. Some years ago the Prussian government adopted a law which excluded all American insurance companies from doing business in that country. American life insurance companies were active there and the law was a serious blow. They at once made an effort to reëstablish themselves by complying with the new law. As a result, a Prussian commission came to this country to investigate various companies. Among these was the New York Life Company. The commission returned to Prussia, with the recommendation that the companies again be permitted to write insurance, provided by selling stocks held as securities, it being a fundamental principle of Prussian law that no insurance company should hold as collateral any stock. Only bonds were permissible.

To meet this demand, the New York Life Company agreed to sell 10,000 shares of Chicago and Northwestern preferred and 5300 shares of Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul preferred. It is now charged that instead of selling these stocks outright the company merely transferred it to the New York Security and Trust Company, a subsidiary concern, where it was held in trust, not being actually disposed of until about one year later, when it was sold on the stock exchange at a profit to the company of $155,000. The Chicago and Northwestern brought a profit of $250,000, while the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul stock showed a loss of $95,000.

The indictments against Perkins and Fairchild set for that "the defendant, with intent to defraud, did feloniously make in a certain book of accounts called 'the old dates cash book,' belonging to, and appertaining to, the business of said corporation, certain false entries."

The entry on the first indictment appeared as follows:

"B. and S., 2000 shares Chicago and Northwestern preferred, at $235—$470,000.

"B. and S., 300 shares Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul preferred at $190—$57,000.

"Which false entries," the indictment relates, "then and there purported to set forth and inoicate, and did in substance and effect, then and there signify and declare, that the said New York Life Insurance Company on December 31, 1901, received in payment for 2000 shares of preferred capital stock of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company the sum of $470,000 and received in payment for 300 shares of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company $57,000; whereas, in truth and in fact, the New York Life Insurance Company had not received such payments, all of which the said George W. Perkins well knew was against the statutes and the peace of the people of New York."

APPLICATION DENIED.

BURNHAM MUST SERVE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Justice O'Gorman in the Supreme Court today denied the application of counsel for George Burnham, Jr., for a certificate of reasonable doubt on the conviction of Burnham for grand larceny growing out of the affairs of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Insurance Company. Burnham was counsel and vice-president of the insurance company. He was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to two years in the State prison.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Excess of temperature has piled up in Chicago until the record shows an even thousand degrees since the first of the year. From present indications, it is almost certain that the year will be unique from a weather point of view, in that no zero temperatures were recorded. The weather map tonight presented a "flat" condition. Chicago's temperature range was from 35 to 37 degs.

CHICAGO CHARTER CONVENTION.

The charter convention arrived today at the practical completion of its labors, and the new year will bring to the city, as its first gift, the draft of the new charter. Over a year of preparatory work and over two months of almost daily labor have been spent in the preparation of the laws under which, subject to the approval of the Legislature and the people, Chicago will in future take into her own hands the reins of government formerly vested in the State. Home rule for Chicago is the keynote of the new charter. All possible powers which may be conferred constitutionally have been granted to the city in a manner more comprehensive and far-reaching than those contained in any other American municipal charter.

PRESIDENT AND PICTURES.

The President will not permit his picture to adorn the walls of saloons and dives. Seven West Madison-street saloon-keepers know this to be a fact, although no general order has been issued from Washington. Rev. William A. Bartlett, leader of the Sunday closing crusade, wrote the President that he had found his picture displayed in disreputable resorts. The letter was acknowledged by Secretary Loeb, and three days later the pictures were found to have been removed. Rev. Bartlett intimates that secret service men did the removing.

COLUMBUS (O.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "President Roosevelt is almost insane on militarism, or at least, that is his fad," declared President Dabney of the University of Cincinnati, who attended the Ohio Colleges' Association convention Friday. Discussing the recent recommendation of the President regarding the establishment of target practice for school children, he said: "While the President is undoubtedly sincere, he has let his enthusiasm run away with his better judgment. He probably had as much fun out of the Spanish-American War as he would out of a bear hunt, and no doubt thinks other people have the same feeling."

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY OVERWHELMING IN SENATE.

French Minister of Education Says Purpose of Law Is to Compel the Pontiff and Catholics to Come Within the Law Whether Willingly or Otherwise.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Dec. 28.—The Senate today concluded the general debate on the new church measure and the principle of the bill was voted today by 187 ayes to 87 noes. There remains only discussion of the details of the various sections, and it is expected this will be completed tomorrow.

Minister of Education Briand called forth repeated applause by assurances of the government's determination not to enter upon superfluous negotiations with Rome and not to accede to the Vatican's evident desire for persecution.

"The Vatican," declared M. Briand, "has refused liberty. The bill does not violate the spiritual influence of the hierarchy," he continued, "and proof of this is found in the fact that many bishops, clergymen and influential laymen consider the law of 1905 acceptable, but are compelled to refrain from submission thereto because of an obedience to Rome," which the speaker said resembled slavery. The government had offered the church full benefits of the common law, hitherto demanded by the Pope, but it would not accord special rights to the hierarchy.

The church's loss of property was her own fault, continued the Minister. The present bill would place the church within the law in spite of herself and oblige the Pope, if he desired to continue resistance, to resort to private worship, and this measure never would be accepted by the Catholics of France. The cessation of public worship, if it came about, would emanate from Rome, M. Briand averred, and this would be clearly understood by the country at large.

CATHOLICS ASSAIL MASONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Dec. 27.—There were disturbances late tonight at the Masonic headquarters, where the police dispersed a crowd of Romanists who had forced an entrance to the building for the purpose of carrying out certain Masonic rites. Members of the crowd had formally made legal declaration at the prefecture of their intention to hold a public meeting. The demonstrants claimed that the formalities required for religious meetings apply also to free masonry.

BLACK POWDER MILL GOES UP.

One Man Is Disabled at Distance from Explosion.

Crash Rattles Windows Two and Half Miles Away.

Prominent Lawyer Prisoner Is Starving Himself.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SANTA CRUZ, Dec. 28.—With a roar that rattled the windows of this city two and a half miles distant, 300 pounds of black powder exploded shortly after 8 o'clock this morning at the Dupont Powder Mills, formerly known as the California Powder Works.

J. F. Brittsan, who was working in a mill 100 yards distant, had his hand injured. The roofs of two of the mills were carried away. The "charge" house was completely wrecked and all the windows in the neighborhood were shattered.

The explosion occurred in the blacking department and had it occurred ten minutes later the loss of life would have been great, as a crew of men were ready to enter the department at the time.

INTENDS TO FILL OFFICES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 27.—In an interview today Gov. Pardee said he would do his duty until his term of office expired and by that it could be inferred that he intended to fill all vacancies that may occur during his incumbency. He will appoint a successor to Judge Hart who was elected a justice of the Third District Court of Appeals and who today sent in his resignation to take effect January 4. Gov. Pardee said it might be inferred from his attitude that he would appoint successors to Judges Sloss, Lorigan, Burnett, in fact, fill all vacancies before he retires.

impure meats, and warrants were issued for his arrest. The charges grew out of the wholesale poisoning last evening of the complainants and eight other people, members of their families, all of whom partook of meat purchased from the shop in question, and were taken down with ptomaine poisoning. Remedies were immediately resorted to, and all will recover.

Quake Makes Wells Flow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27.—Two bored wells, each 175 feet deep, in the court of the United States Mint on Fifth street, were converetd into artesian wells by the earthquake of last April. The discovery was made yesterday when the pumps were stopped and taken out for repairs. Then it was found that the water, which stood prior to last April thirty feet below the surface of the ground, was bubbling over the top of both wells and flooding the court. The pumps were taken out last March, and the water did not rise any higher than thirty feet. It was water from these wells that saved the mint building from being swept away by the big fire.

Board Sustains Police.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—The following resolution was adopted by the Board of Police Commissioners today: "Resolved, that this board will sustain each and every officer of the police force of the city and county of San Francisco in the enforcement of the laws, State and municipal, and will take action to discipline or dismiss from the force each and every officer failing in his duty, when such failure shall become known to the commission." This resolution, it is said, means that Capt. Mooney is sustained in the campaign which he has been waging on tenderloin resorts.

Goldfield Operators Send Communication to Western Federation of Miners Suggesting That Body Appoint Committee to Discuss Existing Differences.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GOLDFIELD, Dec. 28.—The following communication ignoring the I.W.W. was sent to the president and financial secretary of the Western Federation of Miners. It seems probable that it will be the means of settling the strike and at the same time defeating the I.W.W.

"To the Miners of Goldfield: A communication through your president, D. Roundebush, and your financial secretary, W. A. Willis, realizing the necessity of coming to an understanding and an early adjustment of the present existing conditions between operators and miners of Goldfield, has been received. It is not only desirable, but an imperative duty, resting on all alike, that the parties in interest be brought together for conference. To this end a representative body of the operators of the district voluntarily assembled and appointed a committee of five, who shall represent them in such conference.

"The said committee is instructed to meet with a committee of the W.F.M. which shall be composed of miners actually employed in or about the mines of Goldfield for a period of at least six months previous to December 20, 1906, believing that a committee so composed is the only one qualified to discuss present issues. Should such a committee be appointed, the conference can be held at such time and place as the joint committee may agree upon. The following named gentlemen composing the committee to represent the operators, will be present: John W. Finch, J. P. Loftus, Thomas D. Murphy, Walten E. Dowlon and Marvin Ish.

"This step has been voluntarily taken to bring the parties in interest together in conference. The operators do so in a spirit of fairness, confident that, as between the miners and operators, there exists no spirit of antagonism or animosity, and that whatever differences do exist on the question of a wage scale can be readily and satisfactorily adjusted. Notice of the appointment of a committee can be filed with any of the gentlemen above named."

[Signed] JOHN W. FINCH, J. P. LOFTUS, THOMAS D. MURPHY, WALTEN E. DOWLAN, MARVIN ISH, Committee.

Four Men Force Their Way Into the Room Occupied by Mrs. Isabel W. Van Alstyne.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] More sensational than all other incidents in the stormy matrimonial career of Mrs. Isabel W. Van Alstyne, was the one which occurred at 4 o'clock this morning, when four men forced their way into her room in the Gilsey House.

They seized her four-year-old son from his bed, ran down four flights of stairs through the main lobby and disappeared with him, clad only in his night clothes, in a closed carriage.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The engagement was announced today of Miss Mary Sherwin, member of the famous Vincent Club, and a daughter of Thomas Sherwin, president of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, to Phillip Lee Warner, a wealthy Englishman. Miss Sherwin is considered quite a beauty. Her father and brothers are all Harvard graduates

Labor Agitators Begin General Campaign.

Dunne Rebukes Attempt to Remove Graft Case.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Aided by labor unions and Schmitz, the administration Japanese Exclusion League has opened a campaign to extend the exclusion of Japanese from the public schools throughout the State. The movement has gained considerable force in Oakland.

It is planned to secure the passage at the coming session ofthe Legislature of a sweeping bill making separate schools for Japanese and Chinese a regular part of school systems of all cities and towns where there are sufficient number of orientals.

Labor unions in several cities have already taken up the matter. The secretary of the Oakland labor organization received a letter today from Secretary Lemingwell of the San Francisco school board, applauding the movement and urging that it be continued until separate schools generally are established.

The letter says: "It is sincerely to be hoped that the views of the plain people in your county as expressed through the vigorous representations of organized labor will serve to impress upon the educators of your city the justice and the merit of the stand taken by the San Francisco Board of Education, to the end that white children may be safeguarded in our public schools to the last degree, and the welfare of our State at large effectively looked after."

DUNNE REBUKES GRAHAM.

RUEF MUST GO WITH SCHMITZ.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—Judge Dunne this morning administered a remarkable rebuke to Presiding Judge Graham when he learned that the latter is prepared to consider the motion of the attorneys for Mayor Schmitz to have his case transferred to another court. Judge Dunne not only directly accused Graham of interfering with the business of his department, but declared, with an air of finality, that if the Schmitz case is taken away from him the Ruef case must go with it.

On that account, he continued, proceedings looking to the setting aside of the indictments against Ruef until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time Judge Graham will have made it evident whether he intends to slice the Ruef-Schmitz case in half.

Addressing the attorneys, Judge Dunne said:

"I am not unfamiliar," said Judge Dunne, "with tactics employed by counsel defending co-defendants here, and I have also noticed that they invariably appeal to Judge Graham as a man of large sympathies and generous impulses. That judge has found it necessary and proper to interfere in the past with orderly conduct of business in this court and in that connection, and in connection with proceedings now before this court, it seems to me that I ought not be called upon to do idle and useless things.

"In other words, I ought not to be compelled to proceed with this inquiry in its present condition because if the application of these counsel should meet the approval of Judge Graham I want it understood that both cases will be sent to him. I cannot proceed under such circumstances of this case with the hearing of this matter with regard to defendant Ruef, and I would not feel justified in so doing. I submit the matter to you. You have my views."

These remarks were addressed to the District Attorney, and Heney was immediately on his feet to express his agreement with the attitude of the judge.

He said: "Two cases before Your Honor on joint motion are inseparable. I move that these proceedings go over until Wednesday at 10 o'clock." Judge Dunne ordered that this be done, and added as attorneys and grand jurors left their seats: "I may have something more to say about this later."

In Judge Graham's court the application of Schmitz to have the case transferred was continued until Monday.

GRAHAM PONDERS PLEA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—Judge Graham today postponed until Monday morning the hearing of Mayor Schmitz's motion for a transfer of his indictment case from Judge Dunne's court to some other department of the Superior Court. The postponement was ordered after a bitter interchange of words by the attorneys and at the request of Asst. Dist.-Atty. Johnson, who desires to file counter affidavits.

PLAN TECHNICAL FIGHT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—When the conspiracy case in which Chief of Police Dinan and Abraham Ruef are charged jointly with protecting a house of ill fame, came up for hearing in Judge Dunne's court today, Motions on behalf of both defendants were made to set aside the indictments. This means that a long technical fight will precede the actual trial of the case on its merits.

Prof. H. F. Osborne to Visit Sayoma Desert Where British Surveyors Found Bones of Small Mammal, Supposed to Have Been Related to Modern Pachyderm.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Prof. Henry Fairfield Osborne of the American Museum of Natural History, will sail for Egypt on January 5 to look for the prehistoric ancestors to the elephant in the Sayoma desert.

In 1902, members of a British surveying party unearthed the bones of a small animal which they were sure belonged to a prehistoric elephant of the pliocene or the oligocene age.

Morris K. Jessup, president of the American Museum, heard about the find, became interested, and organized the expedition which Prof. Osborne is to lead.

The professor will dig in the Sayoma desert at a point about seventy miles southwest of Cairo.

COMMERCE NEEDING CARS.

Shortage Has Marked Effect on Country's Traffic.

Government Issues Figures Showing Falling-Off.

Big Withdrawals of Land for Forest Reserves.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The car-shortage problem has had its influence on the movement on international commerce during the past month, according to a statement issued today by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

While the statement declares it is impossible to determine to what extent inadequate transportation facilities affected the movement of grain, live stock and meat products and in some localities lumber and coal in November, it says it can undoubtedly be affirmed that they would have been much heavier had the railroads been fully able to cope with the situation.

A marked decline is shown in movements of certain important staples when compared with November of last year, but an increase for the eleven months of the present year.

The total live stock receipts at seven interior primary markets during November aggregated 2,534,117 head, a falling off of about 200,000 head from the same months of last year.

For the eleven months of the present year, like arrivals aggregated 37,443,129 head, compared with 37,089,707 head for the like period of 1905.

A considerable falling off is shown in shipments in packing house products from Chicago during November, there being a total of 218,119,712 pounds against 296,060,362 for the same period of 1905.

The most noticeable decline is shown in receipts of grain, the total figures for fifteen interior markets during November have been 25,779,434 bushels, showing a falling off of over 17,000,000 bushels in November, 1905.

For the eleven months of the present year, grain receipts aggregate 1 732,944,871 bushels, exceeding like months in 1905 by more than 11,500,000 bushels. Decreases which occurred in the receipts of wheat, barley and rye were offset by an increase in the receipts of corn and oats.

WAITING FOR THE PRESIDENT.

CONGRESS EXPECTS MESSAGE ON COLORADO RIVER.

Complications Are Such That Lawmakers Leave Initiative in Hands of Roosevelt, Whose Recommendations Are Looked for Next Week. Cannot Buy Mexican Territory.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is understood that President Roosevelt will send a special message to Congress next week, asking legislative action to close the break in the Colorado River's bank in Mexico and protect Imperial Valley settlers in California. Just what Congress can do is not known. Director Walcot of the Geological Survey and Chief Engineer Newell of the reclamation service are trying to figure out something now.

California Congressmen are anxiously waiting to hear what the President has to say on the subject. None of them will introduce a bill providing that the government shall bear the expense of closing the river bank break, because that would look too much as though they are seeking to aid the Southern Pacific, which controls the California Development Company, and which is now engaged in building a dam across the break. That would be bad politics from a California standpoint.

Senator Flint and Representative Smith have proposed that the United States buy part of Lower California, that it may have complete title to the development company's water rights in event of the company turning over its plant to the government. This programme will be impossible, according to N. C. Blanchard of the Reclamation Service, who has just returned from a western trip.

Mr. Blanchard calls attention to the fact that the Mexican constitution makes it rank treason for anybody to even suggest alienation of a single foot of the country's territory.

It is doubted whether Congress will appropriate national funds to relieve a private corporation, especially where the seat of trouble is in foreign territory. The situation will be somewhat simplified if the company will cede its rights to the government, although there would still be complications growing out of the company's obligation under its Mexican charter to irrigate land south of the international boundary, if Mexican land owners want it.

It is reported that President Diaz has assured the United States Ambassador at Mexico that his government will not insist upon that right, but so far as Congress knows, there is no definite understanding to that effect, and unless such understanding is had, Congress will go slow in aiding a concern whose first obligation is to the Mexican government.

NEW FOREST RESERVES.

BIG LAND WITHDRAWALS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The acting commissioner of the General Land Office today announced the withdrawal of 537,920 acres of land for forest reserve purposes, included within the Sacramento range of mountains in South Central New Mexico. The lands are located in Otero and Chaves counties, south and east of the Mescaledo Apache Indian reservation.

The acting commissioner also announced the withdrawal of 218,720 acres in Routt county in Northwest Colorado, west of the continental divide, for similar purposes. He also withdrew for forest-reserve purposes 483,000 acres lying in southwestern Colorado, north and east of the Southern Ute reservation, near the town of Durango, and 155,580 acres in Northwestern California, lying in Del Norte county and adjoining the Klamath forest reserve on the west and the Oregon border on the north.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

Dredges for Isthmus.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Revised specifications have been prepared by the Isthmian Canal Commission for two pipe line dredges to be used at La Boca and Cristobal. Under the original specifications, bids were asked for on these dredges, delivered in this country. The new specifications ask for proposals on the dredges, delivered ready for work in Panama, one on the Pacific side of the isthmus and the other on the Atlantic side. Proposals are also asked on the machinery, laid down in Panama.

Devlin Goes to Baltimore.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—United States Attorney Devlin, who arrived in Washington last night, from San Francisco, called at the Department of Justice, today, to discuss with the Attorney-General the legal phase of the exclusion of Japanese children from the schools in San Francisco. The Attorney-General had gone to Baltimore for the day, and Mr. Devlin immediately took a train for that city in the expectation of having a conference with him there. The Attorney-General is expected in Washington tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Chief Sanitary Officer Gorgas, in a report to the Isthmian Canal Commission on the health conditions in the canal zone during the month of November, notes a steady decline in the death rate both among the employés and the population outside of those places.

Internal Revenue Collections.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The monthly statement of the collections of the internal revenue show that for November, 1906, the total receipts were $24,738,952, an increase, as compared with November, 1905, of $2,560,732. The receipts for the five months of the present fiscal year were $116,175,407, an increase of $9,722,858, over the corresponding period of 1905.

Relief Transport to China.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Quartermaster-General Humphrey has notified Secretary Taft that he has available two transports in which supplies for the Chinese famine sufferers may be sent. These are the Buford and the Warren, both at San Francisco. Secretary Taft, upon the reconvening of Congress, will ask for authority to use one of these vessels for the relief mission.

DANGER SIGNALS FAIL IN SCOTTISH SNOW.

Express Train Dashes Into Rear of Another Near Arbroath—Sixteen Persons Are Killed and More Than Thirty Injured.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DUNDEE (Scotland) Dec. 28.—In a railroad collision today, caused by a heavy snowstorm, sixteen persons were killed and more than thirty injured.

The accident occurred near Arbroath, on the North British Railroad, between Edinburgh and Aberdeen.

Among the persons injured is Alexander William Black, member of the House of Commons from Bannockshire, Scotland.

Owing to the heavy snowfall, trains from London for Aberdeen were held up at Arbroath. During the afternoon the line was cleared, and one train proceeded to Dundee.

It had stopped at Elliot Junction, and the danger signals were thought to have been set. They failed to act, however, being clogged with snow, and an express train dashed into the rear of the waiting train.

It is recalled that the Arbroath accident occurred on the anniversary of Scotland's worst railroad accident, the Tay bridge disaster of 1879, and within twenty miles of the scene thereof.

In that wreck, a bridge collapsed and precipitated a train with more than seventy persons on board into the river. None escaped.

ENGLAND SEVERELY SUFFERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—It is many years since Central Europe generally has suffered so severely from an Arctic visitation as it has this Christmas week. From France, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany and Austria-Hungary, the same tale is reported of heavy snowstorms, interruption of vehicular, telegraphic and railroad communication, loss of life and general discomfort. While Great Britain as a rule escapes wintry weather, she has suffered this year to an almost unprecedented degree.

According to reports tonight from northern points, the storm is growing worse. The heavy snowstorms which began several days ago continue. They are accompanied by violent gales and even thunderstorms in some places, and have resulted in a serious railroad accident near Arbroath, Scotland, in which about fifty persons were killed or suffered serious injuries.

Railroad traffic in the northern part of England especially in Scotland, is becoming completely tied up. Large towns like Edinburgh, Dundee and Perth are almost isolated. The telegraphic services are disorganized and would be completely useless, but for the extension in recent years of the underground wires. The snowstorms continue with equal severity in Northern Wales and in Ireland.

None of the trains that left London Thursday over the Midland railway has reached Edinburgh, while other trains are snowbound and passengers are suffering from cold and hunger.

Relief trains are being imbedded in the snow, and the railroad companies have issued official notices that it is impossible to guarantee traffic on schedule time so far as Scotland is concerned. There has not yet been serious trouble in Central and Southern England.

The gales have caused many minor casualties along the coasts. Among the worst sea disasters thus far reported is the wreck of the Japanese liner Awa Maru, through the snapping of her anchor cable. No lives were lost, but the steamer, which is on the rocks off Red Car, threatens to become a total loss.

Nine people were found frozen to death on the roads.

In London, snow continues to fall at intervals, and is bringing much discomfort, besides involving the authorities in heavy expenses to clear it away. Londoners who live in the suburbs are indulging in the unusual pastime of tobogganing.

A building at Covent Garden collapsed, narrowly missing fifty women.

In the mountain districts of France there is much suffering from the heavy fall of snow, and consequent floods are reported from the Highlands of Ardennes.

In Belgium, drift ice is forming on the Scheldt and other large rivers, and all communication with points in the Hertogen forest is at a standstill.

In Switzerland the weather is of unusual severity. The Upiands already are under six feet of snow, and some mountain villages are completely isolated. This state of affairs is drawing renewed attention to proposed measures to keep the Swiss passes open all the year through. Thus far the government has declined to contemplate doing this because of the heavy expense.

Austria and Hungary are also in the grasp of the wintry weather. Traffic on some of the railroads in Galicia has been suspended. In Budapest snow has put an end to street travel of all kinds on wheels.

Germany reports the heaviest general snowfall in many years and railroad traffic is considerably disturbed.

WAR THE ONLY WAY TO PEACE IN CUBA.

Prediction of High Official at Washington Points to Worse State of Affairs Than Has Been Made Public. Needed Advices Lacking.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Real trouble is brewing in Cuba. A crisis may come sooner than has been expected. War is probably the only way out of the difficulty."

The words quoted came from an exceedingly high administration source, and they were uttered today with a distinct value toward preparing the American public for the extreme of what is likely to happen.

The statement is warranted that the President and those in close touch with him respecting the Cuban problem have wellnigh despaired of settling the same amicably.

No telegraphic advices from Cuba have been received, either by the Secretary of War or the Bureau of Insular Affairs since December 24, and the War Department is very much concerned as to late developments in the island.

The Moderate leaders are declared to be stirring the negroes of the island to turbulence, and it is feared here that their efforts in this direction may precipitate conditions that will call for drastic treatment on the part of our government.

Gen. Bell's action in ordering troops to proceed to Santa Clara province, while it is openly pronounced to have been for the purpose of giving the men marching practice, is privately admitted by the War Department officials here to be intended as a movement to give moral support to the doctrine of independence which our government is bent on making known, forcibly, if need be.

Within a very few weeks, one of the largest fleets this government ever has massed will concentrate in Cuban waters, ostensibly for practice in maneuvers at sea.

The most significant thing is that the fleet, aside from its exterior prowess, will carry about four thousand marines, who could be landed at a moment's notice to meet any emergency.

COL. MANN ACQUITTED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The jury in the case of Col. William D. Mann of Town Topics, charged with perjury, tonight returned a verdict of acquittal. The case went to the jury at 7 o'clock, and the verdict was reached four hours later.

DEADLY DIRK DEEP-DRIVEN.

Italian Kills One Woman and Ends His Life.

He Also Stabs Her Mother-in-Law Fatally.

Confessed Murderer Rigidly Examined.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jealous because his love for the wife of Auturo Bignami was unrequited, Giuseppe Salvgnani this morning stabbed and killed Mrs. Jula Bignami and stabbed her mother-in-law, Mrs. Esther Vismora. The latter is not expected to recover.

The murderer ran from the Bignami home and later shot himself. He died early this afternoon.

The bloody affair is not unlike others which have occurred in the local Italian colony. "Affairs of the heart" in Portland's Italian quarter lead almost invariably to knives and bullets. The act of Salvgnani was peculiarly atrocious, because his victim sat washing and dressing her nine-months-old baby, when her throat was slashed almost from ear to ear by the crazed Italian.

The tragedy was enacted in the kitchen of the little home at Harrison and Water streets, in South Portland. Salvgnani, after committing the deed, went to No. 67 North Third street and killed himself. The Bignami family recently came here from Los Angeles, where Salvgnani also lived for several weeks, Portland being his home.

Salvgnani entered the kitchen of the Bignami home while Mrs. Vismora was bending over a wash tub, and Mrs. Bignami was preparing her nine-months-old baby for its morning bath. Almost without saying a word, Salvgnani drew a dirk and plunged it into Mrs. Bignami's breast. She dropped the baby and ran through the kitchen door and into the yard, Salvgnani pursuing her. Mrs. Bignami expired almost immediately, dropping at her assailant's feet.

Not satisfied with having killed Mrs. Bignami, the murderer rushed back into the kitchen and stabbed Mrs. Vismora in the back, and, thinking that she would die, immediately left the house.

HARRIS IS SUSTAINED.

STANDS BY CONFESSION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GOSHEN (Ind.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prosecutor Fletcher of Bedford tonight stated that he would remain here several days, inquiring into the confession of George W. Harris, who says he killed Sarah Schafer. Prosecutor Fletcher thinks, perhaps, Harris is a billposter, who disappeared from Bedford without drawing his salary due him, immediately following the Schafer murder.

Harris was kept under fire for five hours today, and maintained his original story of the confession.

NEGRO SLAYS CHINAMAN.

LATTER RESISTS ROBBERY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EL RENO (Okla.) Dec. 28.—Resisting an attempted hold-up in his laundry at 8:30 o'clock tonight, Lee Sung, a Chinaman, was shot and dangerously wounded by a unknown negro, who wore the uniform of the United States army. The assailant escaped. Soldiers from Fort Reno, the Sheriff's force, the police force and many posses of citizens are searching for him.

The numerous outrages perpetrated by negroes, supposed to be discharged negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, have aroused public sentiment to white heat, and this crime but adds fuel to the flames. Summary vengeance will probably be wreaked by the citizens should the man be apprehended, unless the strongest protection is given by torops from Fort Reno.

PENROSE IS SILENT.

WOUNDED CAPTAIN IMPROVES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

EL RENO (Okla.) Dec. 28.—Maj. Penrose, commanding at Fort Reno, tonight refused to make any statement regarding a report that he has a clue to the identity and whereabouts of the person, believed to be a discharged soldier of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, who shot and seriously wounded Capt. Edgar B. Macklin a week ago. It is believed here, however, that he has secured definite information and that the assailant will be in custody within a short time. Maj. Penrose says that Capt. Macklin's condition is showing much improvement, though it probably will require many weeks to restore his health.

CRIME BRIEFS.

Burglars' Rich Haul.

OAKLAND, Dec. 28.—Burglars made a rich haul at the Richmond postoffice at an early hour this morning. The thieves took away over fifty packages of registered mail to a vacant lot a block and a half from the postoffice and opened the packages and secured several hundred dollars' worth of bracelets, rings and other jewelry which had been sent as Christmas presents.

Minister Is Murdered.

UNION CITY (Tenn.) Dec. 28.—Rev. B. L. Holder, a Presbyterian minister, was assassinated last night at Troy, Tenn. His body was found near the railroad tracks.

Woman's Body Found.

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—The police of the West End district today found the body of a young woman upon the grounds of the Massachusetts Hospital, indicating that it had been dragged from a lodging-house on Blossom street. The body was identified this afternoon as that of Mrs. Nellie Murray of Charlestown.

Police Seeking Robbers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—The police of South San Francisco are looking for the perpetrators of the bold hold-up which was committed in San Pedro last night. The victim was C. Malerdo, a foreman for the Ocean Shore Railroad. He was severely beaten and robbed of foreign coins worth about $900 in gold.

Physician Ends Life.

NORFOLK (Va.) Dec. 28.—Dr. Charles L. Culpepper, a leading and wealthy physician of Portsmouth, was today found dead in his office with a bullet wound in the head and a pistol lying by his side. The words "broken health" in Culpepper's handwriting were found written on a postal card on the physician's desk.

Insanity His Plea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—To save himself rom the gallows, John Siemsen, former convict and confessed murderer, will probably rely solely upon a plea of insanity. John J. Greciey, Siemsen's attorney, admitted this to be the fact when he argued before Judge Cook today for delay in the case in order that a commission may take testimony in the Hawaiian Islands bearing on the defendant's sanity. Judge Cook denied the motion.

Shoots Wife and Self.

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—Fred L. Clark, said to belong in Belfast, Me., shot and fatally wounded his wife, Bertha, at a lodging-house on Center street, Roxbury, today. Clark, thinking that he had killed the woman, ended his life with a revolver, which he had used in his wife's murder.

Must Be Tried Quickly.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 28.—The War Department has sent instructions to the United States District Attorney that the long-delayed case of Lieut. Ralph H. Drury and Private John Dowd of the Ninth United States Infantry, who are under indictment for the killing of William H. Crowley, must be tried without further delay. The case has been hanging fire since the shooting of Crowley, September 13, 1904, when Dowd took refuge in the arsenal, remaining there for three weeks, protected by Lieut. Drury.

He Admits Shortage.

SEDAN (Kan.) Dec. 28.—Otto D. Stallard, defaulting cashier of the People's National Bank of Sedan, who returned here Wednesday, admitted to the officers of the bank yesterday that his shortage amounted to $22,533. He declared that he did not get the money and that he does not know who did. No information has been filed against him, and he is at liberty.

Negro Convicts Captured.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 28.—Three negro convicts employed at the prison powerhouse, situated just outside the penitentiary walls at Jefferson City, made their escape last night and rode sixty miles toward St. Louis this morning on the blind baggage of a passenger train. They were captured at Dundee.

Robbed While on Trial.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—A thief forced an entrance into the home of Dr. Alex Trautman yesterday while the doctor, his wife and maid were in court, and stole jewelry and silverware valued at several hundred dollars. Mrs. Trautman had gone to court to answer charges brought by Peter J. Hogan, she being the victim of mistaken identity.

NOTES

The Apollo Player Piano Has No Rival

The very fact that the "Apollo" is the only player piano in the world that plays 88 notes, or the entire piano key board, is reason enough in itself why the music lover should discriminate in favor of the "Apollo." But there are other equally important and absolutely exclusive "Apollo" features which place the "Apollo" entirely beyond rivalry. The transposing mouth piece, pneumatic fingers, reversing device, power storage system, and other features, all of which are conducive to the perfect execution of the greatest musical masterpieces as the great composers intended they should be rendered.

Whether you have a musician in your home or not, you may enjoy the charms of the piano by having in your home an "Apollo" player piano.

We make the terms so easy that you need not allow the question of finance to bar you from owning an "Apollo" now.

CASSATT GOES ON LAST TRIP.

RAILROAD PRESIDENT SUCCUMBS TO HEART DISEASE.

Head Official of Pennsylvania System Passes Suddenly as Result of Contracting Whooping Cough from His Grandchildren—His Rise from Position of Rodman.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—President Alexander J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company died suddenly this afternoon. The announcement of his death was made at his office shortly before 2 o'clock in the following bulletin:

"Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, died suddenly of heart disease at 1 p.m. today. The symptoms were those due to the profession as Stokes-Adams syncope, and as is often the case under these circumstances, death was instantaneous."

Mr. Cassatt died in his city residence surrounded by the members of the

A. J. CASSATT,
President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, now dead.

He had been ailing ever since he returned last summer from his summer home at Bar Harbor, where he contracted whooping cough from one of his grandchildren. The attack left him weakened, and he did not go to his office for several weeks, but remained at his country home at Haverford.

In the early part of October Cassatt felt much better and came regularly to his office for several weeks, when he was again stricken by illness, this time with a severe cold. He recovered sufficiently, however, to resume his duties and was driven to the Broad-street station regularly until December 8, his birthday. He was not driving as late as last Monday, not feeling as well as he had been. Cassatt arose from his bed today but did not leave his room. About noon, while sitting in a chair, the fatal attack came. He was instantly rendered unconscious and when his attending physician arrived he found him dead.

Alexander Cassatt was born in Pittsburg in 1839, was educated in Germany at the Troy Polytechnic Institute, entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad in 1861 as a rodman, became superintendent of motive power and machinery and in 1874 became general superintendent of the Pennsylvania system. From this time his rise was rapid, and in 1880 he became first vice-president. In 1899 he resigned and did not again hold any official position in the company until he was elected to the presidency in 1899.

It was he who planned and started the great New York City tunnel system now being completed by the company.

The news of Cassatt's death was at once published to the Broad-street station and was flashed to the financial and business sections of the city. Its effect upon the local stock market was not as great as might have been expected. Pennsylvania was quoted at 130 when the news was received and declined 2 points.

The executive offices of the railroad did little business was practically suspended. His condition had not been such as to suggest any definite plan for a succession to the presidency, and the board of directors will not until after the funeral, which arrangements have not yet been completed.

Several months ago Cassatt made a change in the organization of the company by which put new duties on the higher officials. Among these Samuel Rea, third vice-president, it was suggested at the time was equivalent to placing Rea in line for promotion. Pending the choice of a successor. First Vice-President Green will assume charge of the railroad company.

The position of the railroad in the east is said to have had much to do with the breaking of Cassatt's health. He was in Europe when serious developments in the Interstate Commerce Commission investigation were brought him home. During his rest abroad, he plunged into work until he went to Bar Harbor.

Before being the head of the Pennsylvania railroad, Cassatt was president of other companies and director of twenty-three concerns, including transportation companies, manufacturing companies. His wealth is estimated at between $50,000,000 and

FOR TELEGRAPH MATERIALS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today announced that, as telegraph lines along the railroads' right-of-way are essential to the safe operation of trains, a railroad company may lawfully contract to furnish free or reduced rate transportation to a telegraph company for such of its officers, men, materials and supplies as are required in connection with the construction, maintenance and operation of such a telegraph line and service upon its own right of way.

CONTRACTS FOR CARS.

MILLIONS TO BE SPENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Large contracts are now being placed here for cars for some of the leading eastern railroads. The Pennsylvania has ordered 2000 box cars, to cost about two million dollars, and the Erie is about to close orders for 7000 cars, 4000 of the steel-hopper type and 3000 box cars.

The Erie orders will entail an outlay of nearly seven million dollars.

JUBILEE TO HONOR NATIONAL PROSPERITY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—The Chicago Commercial Association is planning the greatest agricultural exposition ever held in this country. The facts were developed through a conference held with the Executive Committee of the Western Passenger Association with a view of ascertaining what rates the railroads would give for such an event.

The railroad men also were asked to find what the railroads would give toward promoting and carrying through the exposition. The plan is to hold a Harvest Home Festival next October or November. The railroad men said there was little doubt the railroads would do all in their power to aid the movement, providing it was made national in character and was on a comprehensive plan. The opinion was expressed that now is the time to promote a national prosperity jubilee and to have it in the metropolis of the Middle West.

In the discussion, it was stated that several of the large buildings in Chicago would be rented for the exhibits of the farm and of the forest. It is also expected to have an elaborate list of prizes.

The railroads signified willingness to make a very low rate for the event.

BRICK PLANTS BURNED.

Three Destroyed at Dover Point, N. H., Supposedly by Robbers Who Robbed Book-keeper.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DOVER (N. H.) Dec. 28.—Three large brick-making plants at Dover Point were destroyed by fire, tonight, which is believed to have been started by two men, who robbed the book-keeper, Charles Goldwaite.

Goldwaite was knocked unconscious by a blow on the head. The police believe that the robbers, fearing that they had killed Goldwaite, set fire to the buildings to conceal their crime. The value of the plants is estimated at $350,000.

MAY REACH PACIFIC SYSTEM.

HANNAHAN NOT DENYING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PEORIA (Ill.) Dec. 28.—That the strike of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen may spread to the Pacific system of the Southern Pacific Railroad, was not denied by Grand Master John J. Hannahan today. The announcement was made from the Grand Lodge of the brotherhood that Charles M. Massey, third vice-president of the organization, arrived today in San Francisco, and will deal with the officials of the Pacific system.

The contract between the Pacific system and the organization, although somewhat different to that obtained up to May on the Atlantic system, in the main terms gives the same rights to the brotherhood.

It was also announced from the general offices of the brotherhood that Fifth Vice-Grand Master Andrew P. Kelley arrived at New Orleans today, and took up the work on the Atlantic system, assisting Second Vice-Grand Master Shea, who is at Houston.

KILLED IN HER KITCHEN.

ADOPTED SON IS HELD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 28.—A dispatch to the Oregonian from Warren, in Columbia county, says that Mrs. Sarah Ayres was murdered on her farm tonight. She was shot dead while she was sewing in her kitchen. The weapon with which the crime was committed was found on the floor near the body.

Bert Holman, Mrs. Ayres's thirteen-year-old adopted son, gave the first news of the tragedy to neighbors. Later he was taken before the county authorities, and told his story. He said that he was preparing to go to bed in an upper room, when he heard a shot and heard someone running from the house. He ran downstairs and found his mother lying dead.

Owing to various circumstances, the authorities have concluded to hold the boy for further examination. The rifle with which Mrs. Ayres was shot belonged to the family.

Is There a Champion?

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Whether there is a champion at the 18.1 style of balk-line billiards is a question that is being debated by amateur and professional patrons of the game. The prevailing opinion is that the championship has lapsed, and the trophy which "Willie" Hoppe won from Maurice Vignaux has reverted to the donor, because Hoppe didn't ask for an extension of time when Sutton challenged him.

New Mexican Negotiations.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 28.—It was learned today from authoritative sources that the Mexican government had begun negotiations for the purchase of the Mexican Railway, from Mexico City to Vera Cruz. DELANEY SIGNS JEFF TO FIGHT SQUIRES.

Agreement Is for $30,000 Purse, of Which Winner Will Get Sixty Per Cent.—Jeffries Declares That He Is After More Money.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A contract was signed here today for a finish fight between James J. Jeffries and Bill Squires, the Australian champion. Delaney, acting under authorization of Jeffries, signed for the champion, while B. F. Taylor, representing the Rhyolite Athletic Club, also put his signature to the paper for the club. Ten thousand dollars has already been deposited to bind the match. Delaney and Taylor wound up their business, without friction or waste of words, in about ten minutes. The contract provides that the contest shall take place at Rhyolite, Nev., some time in April. According to the terms of the agreement the men are to box with five-ounce gloves under Queensberry rules. Squires is to be allowed transportation for himself and trainer from Australia.

The purse is to be $30,000, of which 60 per cent. goes to the winner and 40 per cent. to the loser. Delaney said he was acting under authorization granted him by Jefferies some time ago and that there was no doubt that the champion would stand by the compact.

As soon as the contract was signed Squires was notified by cable and an order was also cable for his transportation. If he carries out his plans, the Australian will sail for San Francisco on January 25th.

JEFF DOESN'T KNOW.
WANTS GOOD BIG PURSE.

Jim Jeffries, of course, is not the heavyweight champion any more (on paper,) but no matter if he gives his titles away every month, there is one that he can't bunco himself out of and that is the Champion Don't Know Kid. Gophers may eat his alfalfa and cockle burrs get into the tails of his cows, if he has any, but there is nothing that can Billy Nolan him out of the real one honor that rests so unblushingly upon him.

When asked last night about the rumor from San Francisco that he had been matched by Delaney to fight Squires, Jeff said he Didn't Know.

"I wired Delaney at San Francisco Thursday night not to do anything," said Jeff, "and if he has matched me to fight Squires, I don't know anything about it. Of course, I would trust Delaney for almost anything and would probably agree to anything he said, except as to the amount of the purse I would fight for. I want more than a $30,000 purse."

"Well, if you couldn't get anything better than $30,000, would you fight for that?" was asked.

"I don't know. I might not agree to that sum. Of course, the articles for a fight are not signed yet by me, but if I should sign for Squires, I would begin training right away and would probably do the most of my work in Los Angeles, where I could get into a handball court. I would want three or four months to train. I can't tell anything about what Delaney has done or what I would do, for I haven't heard from Delaney."

This is about the substance of Jeff's opinions on the Skinner tale from San Francisco. During the many conversations the writer has had with him in regard to a $30,000 purse, he has never said he WOULD NOT fight for that purse, but has declared time and time again that he wanted more. When such men as Burns and O'Brien can get $30,000, Jeff surely should be worth more.

FIGHTERS IN SHAPE.
GANS MAKING WEIGHT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Dec. 28.—Joe Gans and "Kid" Herman have completed the more serious work in connection with their training and from now until the day of the fight their exercises will consist of light road work and gymnasium labor only. There will be no more boxing in either of the camps and just enough exercises will be indulged in to taper off.

Gans weighed but a fraction over 133 pounds at the conclusion of today's effort and gave out the statement that he will easily make the requisite weight of 133 pounds two hours before entering the ring.

Herman gave an exhibition of fast gymnasium work this afternoon. He is below the 133-pound notch and if anything will aim to increase rather than decrease his weight.

The fighters and their managers were officially notified by Manager Riley of the Casino Athletic Club today that they would be required to weigh in at 1 o'clock on New Year's Day and that the lightweight battle will be started promptly at 3 o'clock, Pacific time. In the event of a prolonged contest Riley announced that the moving picture lights would be of sufficient power for illuminating purposes.

There was little activity in the betting today. Gans remains the favorite at odds of 2 to 1. Many small wagers were registered in the local poolrooms, Herman money being most in evidence.

RYAN TO MEET KELLY.
FOR MIDDLEWEIGHT TITLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Tommy Ryan and Hugo Kelly were today matched to fight for the middleweight championship of the world, the fight to take place at any time within four weeks of signing articles.

The agreed weight is 158 pounds ringside. It was agreed that the fight should not be for less than ten rounds and for any number of rounds between ten and a finish fight. The fight is to be held before the club offering the largest purse by January 5. The purse is to be divided 60 per cent. to the winner and 40 per cent. to the loser.

BAKER GETS M'DONALD.
ATTELL OUTGENERALED.

Frank McDonald has been engaged as trainer by Harry Baker, who will have to pay $300 for the former's services in preparing for the battle with Abe Attell January 18.

McDonald trained Attell for his battle with Jimmy Walsh and Abe took it for granted that he intended to act for him in the next match, but Abe failed to talk soon enough, and "Molly" went over to the enemy.

"I am in the training business, and it is immaterial to me which man I handle," said McDonald. "I am bound to accept the best offer. Harry Baker made satisfactory inducements to me and I accepted. I have no ill feeling toward Attell, for business is business, and I do not think he ought to feel that I owe it to him to act as his trainer. It is my business and I make the best engagements I can."

The engagement of McDonald by Baker puts a new complexion on the fight situation, for Baker's chances are considered much brighter. Eddie Webster trained Baker for his first fight with Attell, but he was considered too young for so important a position.

WELSH AS REFEREE.

Manager McCarey Might Select the San Francisco Man to Act for the Local Club.

Manager McCarey is going to be hard put to it to select a good referee to serve in the next two or three fights, for one is badly needed here. Eyton is an impossibility; Robinson is out of the question; Jeffries has the fighting bee buzzing in his bonnet; Tommy Burns has gone East; Jack O'Brien has other business on hand; other good men are scarce.

It begins to look as though McCarey will have to draw on San Francisco to secure a good man. Graney or any member of the fight trust is out of the question. Tim McGrath is returning to New York, having connected with a big Goldfield company to sell stock in the metropolis, but expects to be in Herman's corner in the New Year's Day fight. Billy Roche is connected with the fight trust indirectly as private secretary to Jim Coffroth. Others, with the exception of Jack Welsh, are undesirable. Welsh seems to be the only man for the place.

Welsh is to referee the Gans-Herman mill. After that he will be free of engagements. McCarey might make a ten-strike by landing him if Jack does not set too high a price on his services. Welsh has an excellent reputation and it is said that so well are his high principals known that he has never been approached with a proposition to deal crookedly in a match.

BALLOON RACE ENTRIES.

Contestants for Bennett Cup Have One Month in Which to File Their Names.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—But one month remains in which entries may be made for the next international balloon race for the Bennett cup, the trophy won in Europe by Lieut. Lahm of the United States army, and of the Aero Club of America.

The club is considering where the starting of the race should be. Two factors enter into this consideration—quality and quantity of gas and distance from large bodies of water. Denver has been suggested to the club, but it will probably fix on St. Louis. The Missouri metropolis is the best situated as regards distance from tidewater and if gas of a proper gravity can be had and it is in sufficient quantity, it may be made the starting place for the race for the Bennett cup and also for the Lahm cup. St. Louis is 700 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, 900 from the Atlantic Ocean and 2300 from the Pacific.

The competition for the Bennett trophy probably will be held in October, when there is the greatest likelihood of strong, steady winds from the west. By February 1 the list of entries will be complete. The Aero Club's officials believe the number of starters will exceed that in the race at Paris last summer.

SECURE CLUB FROM M'LEAN.

BOSTON PROMOTERS PLAN TO CONTINUE BOXING.

Alleged Deal by Persons Formerly Interested in Lincoln Club at Chelsea May Be "Bunk" for McLean Said Nothing of the Proposition Before He Sailed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Boxing will soon be started again in Boston, despite raids of the State police and fines imposed upon promoters. Lincoln Athletic Club, the holder of many big bouts, is dead, but Billy Pierce, Miah Murray, Jim McDevitt and others have resurrected an old club charter, never used, held by Alex McLean, now on his way to Australia.

A deal was made with McLean's associates for the charter, which is held under the name of the Winnisimmet Club, and matches will be held in Pythian Rink. The new club will confine itself to limited signed memberships, and no tickets will be sold on the streets, as heretofore. Open gambling will also be suppressed, as both were plain violations of law.

M'LEAN MAY BE JOBBED.

It is believed here that the fight promoters have jobbed McLean out of the charter. When McLean was in Los Angeles several days ago prior to going to San Francisco with Jack Johnson, he told local friends that he still controlled the charter and that neither he nor his associates entertained any idea of surrendering it. Moreover, it is said, McLean could not dispose of it legally, even should he choose to do so.

When the famous raid was made on the Chelsea Club, Billy Pierce was in Jamaica, West Indies. Whether this was a pleasure trip or a coincidence it is hard to say, but rumors have it that Chief Shaw of the State police had intended to gather in everybody connected with the club, when he was ready to throw his bomb. If boxing ever does start again in the vicinity of Chelsea, it will be necessary to conduct things on a different basis than that used by former promoters.

MORE SLUSH AT RACE TRACK.

NAGS HAVE HARD TIME PLOWING THROUGH MUD.

Nothing Startling Comes to Shock the Bettors Except the Victory of the Overlooked Succeed in the Second Race—Two Favorites Finish in Front Row.

After the turbulent scene at Ascot on Thursday, when hundreds of sports called the judges names on account of a ruling in the last race, the conditions were fearfully tame yesterday, for there was nothing to startle any one, except the very easy victory of the 12 to 1 shot Succeed, in the second race, and of the 8 to 1 Woodthorpe in the last event. The track was muddy and hard to run over and the time made was naturally slow. Only two favorites won out of six and about the only feature was the defeat of the 3 to 5 favorite La Gloria by Succeed and Revolt in the second race.

Results:

Six furlongs: Sir Caruthers, 104 (McDaniel,) 11 to 2, won; Betsy, 104 (Keogh,) 9 to 2, second; Sais, 107 (Harris,) 13 to 5, third. Time 1:16¼. Taylor George, Stoessel, Susie Christian, Judge Denton, Hirtle and Komombo also ran. Rodolfo, Mohur and Lucrece scratched.

Six furlongs: Succeed, 107 (D. Riley,) 12 to 1, won; Revolt, 112 (Keogh,) 5 to 1, second; La Gloria, 107 (Koerner,) 1 to 2, third. Time 1:16. Azora and Elizabeth F also ran. Commida scratched.

Five and one-half furlongs: Prolific, 103 (Koerner,) 6 to 5, won; Frascuelo, 95 (Harty,) 12 to 5, second; Dr. Crook, 95 (Archibald,) 8 to 1, third; time 1:10⅘. Nappa, Runsum and Aigro also ran.

Mile and fifty yards: J. F. Donahue, 113 (Harris,) 7 to 5, won; A. Muskody, 107 (D. Riley,) 3 to 1, second; W. H. Carey, 108 (Fischer,) 9 to 5, third; time 1:46⅘. Dusty Miller also ran.

Six furlongs: El Paisano, 109 (Kent,) 7 to 2, won; Robt. Mitchell, 109 (Koerner,) even, second; Happy Rice, 97 (McDaniel,) 10 to 1, third. Time 1:18. Seed Cake, Desmages, Remember, Pinta, Henry Mc and Vindicta also ran. Song of the Sea lost his rider at the start.

Mile: Woodthorpe, 107 (Preston,) 8 to 1, won; Viona, 104 (Keogh,) 11 to 5, second; Adonis, 104 (Koerner,) 9 to 2, third; time 1:45. Marpessa, Freeslas and Mosketo also ran. Mountebank scratched.

OAKLAND RACING.
TONY FAUST WINS FEATURE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—Tony Faust easily took the Fallen Leaf Handicap at Emeryville today. F. W. Barr, the favorite, was piloted into the heaviest going and finished last. A good thing was unloaded in Meada in the fifth. She was 40 to 1, and after the start never lost the head of the line.

Six furlongs: Escamada, 104 (McBride,) 5 to 1, won; Hersain, 108 (Sandy,) 12 to 1, second; Marie H., 104 (W. Miller,) 3 to 1, third; time 1:16⅘. Miss May Bowdish, Sea Lad, Bedford, San Remo, Burnolette, Daniel C. and Avontella also ran.

Seven furlongs: Bushthorpe, 101 (Knapp,) 7 to 1, won; Johnny Lyons, 102 (Roller,) 30 to 1, second; Cheers, 104 (W. Miller,) 3 to 5, third; time 1:21 3-5. La Rose, Alaric, Fairy Street and Mohawk also ran.

Futurity course: Banposal, 105 (L. Williams,) 5 to 2, won; Lord Nelson, 109 (W. Miller,) 9 to 10, second; Santa Ray, 105 (Brown,) 20 to 1, third; time 1:12 1-5. Silver Sue, Queen Anne, Pinaud and Kumis also ran.

Futurity course, Fallen Leaf Handicap: Tony Faust, 103 (W. Miller,) 16 to 5, won; Collector Jessup, 103 (Horner,) 13 to 5, second; Lisaro, 106 (L. Williams,) 7 to 2, third; time 1:11. F. W. Barr also ran.

Mile: Meada, 107 (Graham,) 40 to 1, won; El Chihuahua, 107 (W. Miller,) even, second; Yellowstone, 110 (McBride,) 5 to 2, third; time 1:46. Pachuca, Royal Red, Canejo, Cheripe, Chablis and Nabonassar also ran.

Mile: Anvil, 104 (A. Wright,) 2 to 1, won; Hooligan, 103 (Horner,) 10 to 1, second; Ray, 107 (Walsh,) 6 to 1, third; time 1:45. Inflammable, Capt. Burnett, Grigsi, Rolla and Love's Labor also ran.

New Orleans Races.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—Fair Grounds results:

Seven furlongs: Judge Burroughs won, Spider Web second, Sea Water third; time 1:28 4-5.

Five furlongs: Kohinoor won, Lussaroon second, John Peters third; time 1:01 1-5.

Five and a half furlongs: Pity won, Toboggan second, Refined third; time 1:06 4-5.

One mile: Kitty Platt won, Omar Khayham second, Delphi third; time 1:41 1-5.

Five furlongs: Sir Mincemeat won, Billy Vertres second, Belle of The Bay third; time 1:01 1-5.

SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Weather Permitting, Teams in Charge of Chance and Chase Will Try to Please the Fans.

The second of the series of ball games between teams captained by Chance and Chase will be played tomorrow afternoon at Chutes Park, if the weather is good. The line-up is about the same as it was for last Sunday's game, with the exception that in Chance's team Overall may pitch and "Muggsby" McGraw of the New York Nationals may play third base. McGraw is to have his team do its spring practice work in or near this city, and it will leave New York the latter part of February for Los Angeles.

The line-up for the game tomorrow is given out as follows:

Chance's Team.		Chase's Team.
Overall		Garvin
Mason	pitcher	Vickers
Donahue	catcher	Eager
Chance	first base	Chase
Mohler	second base	Wheeler
Devlin		Brashear
Shay	shortstop	Raymer
McGraw
Sheehan	third base	Smith
Shannon	center field	Bernard
Beckley	right field	Householder

Sunday Baseball.

There will be the usual baseball game next Sunday at Chutes Park between the Chance and Chase nines and the line-up will be about the same as last Sunday. Several of the boys are a little under the weather at present but expect to be in shape by Sunday.

HANDBALL ENTRIES.

Twenty-eight Men Listed to Take Part in Los Angeles Club Contest Next Week.

Entries closed Thursday for the big handball tourney that will begin at the Los Angeles Athletic Club next Wednesday, and twenty-eight men accepted the issue. The drawing for the games will take place tomorrow. The full list of entries is as follows: Sam Parsons, H. J. Mercer, George H. Hupp, A. Frankel, C. W. McQuigg, R. J. McHue, R. H. Dunnigan, F. W. Holbrook, W. B. Brain, Dan Long, J. Worthington, A. Hedderly, C. B. Moore, Bill Desmond, Charles Clemente, Frank Garbutt, Earl C. Orr, Charles L. Moon, T. E. Stanton, Stan Mitchell, Fred Siegel, Ray Dunnigan, L. W. Barnett, F. J. Morse, W. D. Whelan, R. Newmark, D. E. Wellcome and Sam Hall.

DATES OF SKATING RACES.

National Association Prepares for the Championship Contests on the Ice Runners.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The dates for the championship skating races have been given out officially by G. M. Clarke, secretary of the Skating Association of the United States. The first big meet of the season will be held at Saranac Lake on January 29, 30 and 31. Both amateur and professional races will be held there.

On the Montreal Athletic Association's track the Canadian championships will be decided February 2. United States championships will be held at Verona Lake, N. J., on Lincoln's birthday, February 12. The indoor world's championships will be held at Duquesne Garden, Pittsburgh, February 22 and 23.

LEGAL POT-HUNTING.

Amateur Lawmakers of Ohio Town Pass Queer Ordinance, and the Autoist Pays.

Everybody takes a shot at the automobilist in one way or another, but the amateur lawmaker is the worst. The latest titubation comes out of an Ohio town. The city fathers got together and passed a municipal law, forbidding bicycle riders clinging to passing automobiles—less dignifiedly, swiping a tow. This is as it should be, for the practice is dangerous, to the wheelman, the driver of the auto, who is apt to become nervous, and other persons using the streets.

But human nature is such that mere prohibition is not always sufficient. Even the city fathers did not expect the practice to stop immediately after their pronunciamento. A punishment had to be provided, and a fine seemed to fit the case. Consequently some one had to be fined. So the city fathers arose on their hind legs, and nodding their long silky ears in unison, decided that the person liable to fine should be the driver whose automobile was clung to. Suffering camshafts!

Pilot for Gas Lamps.

A recent novelty is a pilot light attachment for a new type of acetylene headlight, which has just been introduced by a British firm. By its use it is possible to cut off the light at any time, and yet have the burner and generator ready for instant use by turning on the shut-off cock. Continuous utilization of the small quantity of gas consumed by the pilot provides against any undue rise of pressure in the generator when the main light is not in use. It also insures immediate lighting of the headlight without leaving the seat, as turning on the main supply of gas is all that is needed—a convenience in rainy or windy weather.

Old War Horse Renovated.

Resplendent in a new coat of white paint, Whistling Billy, one-time chief war horse of the White garage here, is again basking in the public eye. The car, now more than three years old, has been renovated and last week was placed on display in the White garage at Chicago. In spite of its senility, the old steamer in which Webb Jay set the circular-track mile record of 48 1-5 seconds is said to be the fastest machine in Chicago. Webb Jay, who drove it, is now in charge of the garage where it is being exhibited.

Good Holding Power.

Cranking of motor cars is still a subject for witty remarks, and cannot be dispensed with, although starting on the spark is a common thing. Many cars have cylinders and pistons so well fitted that they hold their charge for a long while, but the champion story of the kind comes from New York. A Packard "30" was shipped from the factory at Detroit to the New York branch, being driven to the shipping depot. When it reached New York the tanks were filled, and from force of habit the driver switched on the current and ran his spark lever up and down. The engine started without any one touching the crank, as it had held the last charge of gas drawn at Detroit when it was stopped.

Air Brakes for Wintons.

There is a possibility that forthcoming Winton automobiles may be fitted with air brakes, although the catalogue announcements of the two models that are scheduled for 1907 make no mention of this. A patent has recently been issued to Alexander Winton and Harold B. Anderson covering an air brake for automobile use, and it has been assigned by them to the Winton Motor Carriage Company. The patent claim covers only the brake, and no mention is made of the compressed air source. The brake described is of the internal expanding form, operated by the piston of an air cylinder.

SEATTLE IS DESERTED FOR BUTTE BY HALL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the expectation of forcing the Coast League to abandon Seattle and permit it to join the Northwest League, Russ Hall, founder of the Seattle franchise, accompanied by Eddie Quinn, the Spokane manager, went to Butte, today, for the purpose of closing a deal whereby Hall becomes manager of the Butte team, leaving Seattle without a Coast League backer. It is understood Hall secures a big bonus and other liberal inducements incident to the transfer.

Those who talked with Hall and Quinn here, today, figure that a waiting game will ensue at Seattle that will force the Coast League into a disagreeable hole. They argue that the Coast League, rather than put funds to sustain a losing team at Seattle, will abandon Seattle, which would permit it to join the Northwest League without withdrawing from the pale of organized baseball.

It is agreed Seattle will not join the Northwest League as an outlaw organization, but with "Cupid" Dugdale having a corner on the available sites for a ball park in Seattle, and Dugdale an inveterate enemy of the Coast League and a friend of the Northwest League, of which he was one of the founders, the belief prevails here that it is but a question of time until Seattle will be wholly eliminated as a Coast League possibility.

Vessel Owners on Lakes Prosp[er]

Sixty-one Millions to Freight Ca[rs]

Past Season Most in Their Hist[ory]

A Chicago Special to the Plain Dealer says that was so much money paid freight in vessels on the during the season just rough estimate is $61,000,000 ore, grain and lumber of the vast sum which fo[ots] into the profit account of perhaps the largest in the lakes. In the olden day[s] the seasons when lake v[essels] larger percentage, bu[t] times the vessels were sm[all] action with the great [ore] form the bulk of the careful computations [of] earnings of typical steel a net profit on steel ships per cent. On wooden s[hips] from 2000 and 3500 tons c[ar]go have ranged in hig[her] and, where the boats have insured. The average on ch[ar]tered vessels has been above 25 p[er] the present insurance valua[tion] valuation is about one-third the ships originally cost.

"Humph," an owner of wo[oden] men, said in discussing hi[s] "27 old boats have paid me I could have sold them spring."

One of his ships showed a per cent. on the insurance The despised old wooden which passed men thought th[em] men, were no longer of any va[lue] were paid in profits great th[at] have been sold for, and the[y] have them yet.

The substantial profits of [the] steamers have kept th[em] busy, and every berth [in] in 1907 was long since c[on]tracted for. In the case of this great p[ro]portion of the demand of the co[al] and steel, and yet more [ore] and. The total movement of [ore] for the season was 27,513,539 tons. Of this 4,698,000 tons ov[er] both years represented the fa[ll] by of the mines.

Grain from Duluth moved in [the] volume than ever before. The shipped from the head of L[ake] nearly 51,965,000 bushels, as co[m]pared with 59,978,000 bushels in 1905. Duluth, however, again showed a falling off by lakes, dropping fr[om] 43,631 bushels in 1905 to 40,956,90[0] for the past season. Rail shipments [of] grain, rail shipments eastbound increased from 81,386,473 bushels in 1905 to 106,477,693 bushels in 1906. At the beginning of the decade the percentage for season after season of grain shipments from Chicago was 87 per cent. by lake and 40 per cent. by rail. This percentage was changed from 60 to 37 1-2 per cent. by rail. 62 1-2 per cent. by lake. Those who are of the opinion that the lakes will continue to lose in the grain trade until the season of 1900-ton barge canal from Buffalo to New York. The railroads from Lake Erie to the seaboard are to be unable to care for the business during the fall months, at the same time supporting over[land] fully for the longer haul from the head of Lake Superior to the seaboard cities. No[w] that the completion of the barge canal is claimed, will restore Chicago to its once commanding position in the grain trade of the West.

The soft coal, some 2,000,000 tons [of] which were sent out by lake in 1906 the past season, but hard coal showed a [fall]ing off of nearly 100,000 tons. Chicago received the most in the decrease in hard coal traffic. There was [also] a falling here in 1906, 800,000 tons, as against the past season, when [there] was but 751,320 tons. This leaves a short 209,430 tons in its coal [trade]. As there is a regular increase of 10 per cent. in the consumption of coal here, the railroads will have [to] do to supply the deficit. There is not to be a famine in coal before spring. While the Chicago trade was falling off, that of Duluth was increasing, the gain for the past being 250,000 tons of soft coal.

As an iron ore port, Duluth took first place in the world with [over] 27 tons shipped during the season. The port of Chicago, as a receiving port for ore, jumped from 21,230,000 tons in 1905 to 24,330,322 tons in 1906, a gain of [over] 3,000,000 tons. Waukegan, which has recently been a real [factor] received 54,857 tons of coal.

The season has been unprecedented in its volume of traffic [and] it is believed to be but a forerunner of a still greater [season] next year. Within a fortnight, [after] covering the larger part of the season, have been closed at [the] rates which governed the [entire] season. It is confidently anticipated that over 45,000,000 tons will be carried from the mines to the mills [next] year.

With the vast improvement in the [world] handling of cargoes, the full [capacity] of the lake fleet will not be [required] in transporting this magnificent [tonnage] of the iron mines. With [great] activity in the West, another large [crop] in the movement of grain is believed to be certain, and the [lake] trade, as a whole, will show [a] gain.

There will not be as much [activity] in the lumber boats are becoming [scarce] every year, and prophets to [the] effect that as the forests on Lake Superior [are] cut at the rapid rate at which they [are] being cut away this will [soon] result. Already the mills around [the] bay are beginning to show [the] falling off in shipments, the [output] of the present season being [about] 200 feet. New sawmills at Two [Harbors], however, increased their output from 31,500,000 to 51,000,000 feet [last] year. The aggregate movement of [lumber] from the head of Lake Superior for the season was 415,000,000 [feet].

There will be no holding back of [ore] at the opening of navigation [next] spring. They will be ready to [go] as soon as the ice is out of the [way]. For from the present outlook there [will] have all they can do during [the] months of unparalleled ac[tivity].

MILLIONS PAID BY SHIPPERS.

Vessel Owners on the Great Lakes Prosperous.

Forty-one Millions Was Paid to Freight Carriers.

Past Season Most Productive in Their History.

A Chicago special to the Cleveland Plain Dealer says that never before has so much money paid for carrying freight in vessels on the Great Lakes as during the season just closed. A rough estimate is $61,000,000 for coal, ore, grain and lumber. The share of the vast sum which found its way to the profit account of vessels was perhaps the largest in the history of the lakes. In the olden days there used to be seasons when lake vessels made a larger percentage, but in those days the vessels were small in comparison with the great ships which now form the bulk of the fleet.

Careful computations based upon earnings of typical steamers show a net profit on steel ships of about 20 per cent. On wooden ships of between 2500 and 3500 tons capacity the profits have ranged as high as 90 per cent, where the boats have been insured. The average on what class of boats has been above 25 per cent, on the present insurance valuation. This valuation is about one-third of what the ships originally cost.

"Enoch," an owner of wooden vessels, said in discussing his profits: "My old boats have paid me more than they would have sold them for last year. Six of his ships showed a profit of 100 per cent on the insurance valuation. The remodeled old wooden steamers, which vessmen thought three years ago were no longer of any value, have yielded in profits what they could have been sold for, and their owners have them yet.

The substantial profits of the large steel steamers have kept the ships busy, and every berth for delivery in 1907 was long since contracted for. The cause of this great prosperity is the demand of the country for coal and steel, and yet more iron and steel. The total movement of iron ore for the season was 37,512,589 tons, an increase of 4,036,685 tons over 1905, which nearly represented the full capacity of the mines.

Ore from Duluth moved in a larger volume than ever before. There was shipped from the head of Lake Superior 31,833,960 bushels, as compared with 27,976,660 bushels in 1905. Chicago, however, again showed a marked falling off by lake, dropping from 65,000,000 bushels in 1905 to 60,938,992 bushels the past season. On the other hand, rail shipments eastbound increased from 87,364,472 bushels in 1905 to 91,677,660 bushels in 1906.

From the beginning of the decade the percentage for season after season of the shipments from Chicago was 60 per cent by lake and 40 per cent. by rail. The percentage was changed the past season to 37 1-2 per cent. by lake and 62 1-2 per cent. by rail. Many vessmen are of the opinion that the rail will continue to lose in the Chicago trade until the completion of the 500-ton barge canal from Buffalo to New York. The railroads leading from Lake Erie to the seaboard will be unable to cars for the lake ore during the fall months, while at the same time supplying cars liberally for the longer haul from Chicago to the seaboard cities. Nothing but the completion of the barge canal, they claim, will restore Chicago to her commanding position in the grain trade of the West.

Of the soft coal, some 2,000,000 tons more were sent out by lake in 1906 than in 1905, but hard coal showed a falling off of nearly 200,000 tons. Chicago shows the most in the decrease in the coal traffic. There was received by lake in 1906, 9,000,250 tons, while in the past season the receipts were but 31,500 tons. This leaves Chicago 200,430 tons in its coal supply short. As there is a regular increase each year, in the consumption of coal, the railroads will have all they can do to supply the deficiency and there is not to be a famine in hard coal this spring. While the Chicago trade is falling off, that of Milwaukee was increasing, the gain at that port being 250,000 tons of soft coal.

Of the iron ore port, Duluth took the first place in the world with 11,000,000 tons shipped during the season. The port of Chicago, as a receiver of iron ore, jumped from 3,224,220 in 1905 to 4,469,400 in 1906, a gain of 900,000 tons. Waukegan, which has recently been a real lake port, received 34,857 tons of coal.

While the season has been unprecedented in its volume of traffic and tonnage, it is believed to be but a foreshadowing of a still greater commerce to come. Within a fortnight, contracts covering the larger part of the tonnage for the carrying of iron ore next season have been closed at the rates which governed the past season. It is confidently anticipated that 45,000,000 tons will be carried from the mines to the mills in 1907.

One great improvement in the handling of cargoes, the full capacity of the lake fleet will not be required in transporting this magnificent output of the iron mines. With good crops in the West, another large increase in the movement of grain is expected to be certain, and the season as a whole, will show its

RAIN RECORD CLOSE TO SIX.

SEASON'S INCHES CLIMB TO FIVE EIGHTY-SEVEN.

Total of Weather Bureau Is Somewhat Less, but the Difference Is Readily Explained by Locations of Gauges—Southern California Generally Soaked.

The rain has brought the fall for the season in Los Angeles up to 5.87 inches, according to The Times rain gauge, and to 5.53 inches, according to the Weather Bureau rain gauge, which is situated on the Los Angeles Trust building at Second and Spring streets, further away from the hill.

The Weather Bureau gauge for the twenty-four hours to 5 o'clock last night showed 1.32 inches. From then till after the rain was over early this morning there was a fall of .61 inch. Generally the places located nearer the mountains have received a greater precipitation and those nearer the seashore less.

A report from Robert H. Lindsey, weather observer for Garvanza, sent to The Times yesterday, reads: Rainfall for storm to 9 a.m., December 23, 2.54 inches. Rainfall for the season, 7.44 inches. Rainfall last season to this date, 2.85 inches.

Altadena is breaking all records for rainfall. The government gauge at 7 o'clock yesterday morning showed a total precipitation of 3.45 inches for the twenty-four hours previous, making 4.61 inches for the storm. This brings the total precipitation for the season up to 16.58 inches, a figure considerably above that of last year at the same time. All day yesterday rain fell fitfully, and a conservative estimate placed the precipitation between the hours of 7 o'clock in the morning and 7 o'clock in the evening at .50 inch.

In Pasadena the total precipitation for the season amounts to 7.70 inches, according to a down-town rain gauge and the fall in the northern section is probably somewhat heavier. At this time last year less than 3 inches had fallen.

IN POMONA VALLEY.

The rainfall at La Verne for the twenty-four hours yesterday had been 2.37 inches, making 3.91 inches for this storm, and for the season a total of 9.11 inches. At this date last year only 3.65 inches was recorded, and the year before 1.71 inches. The records show that during the past twenty-two years, the precipitation for the month of December has only exceeded that of this month's, twice, in 1889, when 13.59 inches fell, and in 1894, when 5.86 inches fell; this year 6.38 inches have so far been recorded for this month. The farmers and orchardists are happy, much plowing has been done, and the hay men are looking forward to big crops next season.

Gauges in that vicinity for the twenty-four hours to 7 o'clock yesterday morning, showed the following readings: Lordsburg, 2.39 inches; San Dimas, 2.04 inches; Claremont, 2.22 inches; La Verne, 2.37 inches; Pomona, 2.75 inches; Chino, 2.60 inches; Sierra Power Company power house at head of San Antonio Cañon, 2.06.

In Glendora yesterday the rainfall for the storm was 2.46 inches, giving a precipitation for the season of 3.49 inches, which is considerable more than at the same time last year. The ranchmen are pleased over the prospects of the season at this time, as the ground has absorbed practically all of the moisture and no material damage is done.

DOWN BY THE SEA.

The rainfall in Santa Monica for the past twenty-four hours to last evening, exceeded an inch and a half. This makes the total for the season a trifle above five and one-half inches as shown by one gauge and more than six and a half as indicated by another.

Long Beach was visited by a heavy rain Thursday evening which continued at intervals until yesterday morning. The gauge showed a precipitation of .80 inch, a total of 2.57 inches for the season, as against 6.14 the same time last year.

IN OUTSIDE COUNTIES.

In Colton the rainfall for Thursday night was 2.54 inches.

A total of 1.57 inches of rain fell in Riverside from 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening to 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning. This makes a total of 6.45 inches for the season to date, which is considerably in excess of the average up to the last of December. Orange growers have had quite enough and are hoping to see the clouds clear away. The orchards are now so thoroughly soaked that it will be impossible to get in to pick the oranges for two weeks. On account of the lateness of the season, shipments of citrus fruit from Riverside are already 600 cars short of last year's shipments at this time. With drying weather it is anticipated that the question of car shortage will become a serious one, as the fruit will then be rushed rapidly into the packing-houses. The storm was general over the county. Perris, Menifee and Elsinore report 1.25 inches and the rainfall was also unusually heavy at San Jacinto and Banning. The grain already seeded is coming up well, and ranchers are preparing to put in a greatly increased acreage.

Rain which was the heaviest of the season fell Thursday night at Corona. At noon yesterday the fall for the storm amounted to 2.50 inches. The total to date is 4.62 inches.

In Santa Ana a reading of the Southern Pacific gauge yesterday morning showed that 1.15 inches had fallen in the hours of darkness, making 4.07 inches for the season.

San Diego reports 1.34 inches for the storm and 3.12 inches for the season.

THOUGHT HIM A BURGLAR.

While nearly twenty citizens and officers surrounded and held Louis Miller, Henry Kaufman telephoned to the police that a burglar had been captured in attempting to enter his home at No. 949 Sunset boulevard early this morning. An investigation by the police showed that Miller was intoxicated and had wandered onto the porch. Kaufman discovered him and after throwing the old man down, raised a cry. Miller was sent to the City Jail upon suspicion.

WINNERS
In the Great Word CONTEST

ANNOUNCEMENT of the winners in our great word contest has been delayed somewhat owing to our inability to locate all contestants. More than three thousand people participated in the contest. The names of the three winners are printed below.

Besides these, a large number won prizes of $25, $50 and $100 each. These certificates, which we are prepared to honor upon presentation, are worth their face value in cash when applied on the purchase of any new piano in our house.

We were unable to supply many who called during the holidays owing to the unusual demand upon our stock, but now, with eight carloads of new pianos being placed on our floors, we are prepared to supply all.

1st Prize
$600 Knabe Piano

The Wiley B. Allen Co., City.

Gentlemen—As winner of first prize in the word contest I wish to express to you my gratitude and appreciation for your generosity and also for your patience and kind courtesy when making the selection this morning.

The Knabe piano has just arrived and I am more than delighted with it. It has a most beautiful tone and a delightfully responsive action. It will prove a source of great pleasure to me for many years. Cordially yours,

MRS. GEO. F. KEY.
114 West Avenue 57, Los Angeles.

2nd Prize

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17, 1906.
The Wiley B. Allen Co., City.

Gentlemen—Being the winner of second prize in the word contest, I want to thank you very much for the courteous treatment shown me when making my selection and the prompt delivery to my home.

The piano arrived this morning and I am highly pleased with it in every regard—tone, action, construction. I certainly consider myself fortunate in winning such a prize. Very truly yours,

EVA SMITH.
2130 Flint avenue.

3rd Prize
$400 Price & Teeple Piano

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17, 1906.
The Wiley B. Allen Co.,
416-18 S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

Gentlemen—Having won the third prize in your word contest I cannot tell you how thankful I am and want to express my appreciation of your courteous treatment and prompt delivery of the beautiful Price & Teeple piano. Again I thank you and wish you the success you surely deserve.

Sincerely,
MAUD I. HOWE.

Several Carloads of Delayed Christmas Pianos Just Arrived

To those who won certificates of credit and to all others who are interested in a new piano, we desire to announce that several carloads of fine pianos which have been tied up in the freight jam for some time are now on our floors and ready for your selection. These were intended to arrive before Christmas. These delayed shipments make our assortment remarkably complete now and include pianos of all styles and prices.

WE ARE SOLE AGENTS FOR THE

B&F
At The End Of The Year

Every Diamond bought of Brock & Feagans during 1906 can be inventoried new at more than the price paid.

The advance in the price of Fine Diamonds has been even more marked in 1906 than during previous years.

Our constant adherence to high quality standards and the superior purchasing power of our three affiliated stores, together with our "close to cost" plan of selling assures our patrons the best and safest possible Diamond value.

We approach 1907 with heavy reserve stocks of Perfect Blue White and Extra White Diamonds, which grades we know will, on account of their scarcity, advance more sharply during 1907 than the imperfect and off color grades.

Classified Liners.

Times Classified Rates: The rate for inserting "Want" ads in The Daily Times is 1c per word for each insertion; in the Sunday issue 1½c per word each insertion; minimum charge 25c.

The Sunday circulation of The Times exceeds 70,000 copies, and more "liners" are regularly printed in its columns than in the five other Los Angeles newspapers combined.

"Liner" (classified) advertisements for Sunday insertion received over the counter or by telephone after 11 o'clock Saturday nights will be inserted under heading "Too Late to Classify."

Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 10 o'clock Saturday nights. Rate 1½ cents per word.

Telephone your want advertisements. Ring up "The Times" any time of day or night, and secure prompt and careful attention.

The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

##

THE CITY IN BRIEF

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Cruelty Charged.

Jake Bolden was arrested last night on the charge of cruelty to animals by S.P.C.A. Officer Street. Bolden was sent to the City Jail and his bail was fixed at $50.

Falls from Car.

John Suchy of No. 292 Griffin avenue fell from an electric car in front of the Baker Iron Works last evening and sustained three lacerations on the forehead and two abrasions on the scalp. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

Mail Rush Over.

The Christmas rush at the postoffice is about at an end. With today's deliveries of parcels from out of town it is believed that the decks will be clear for the great increase in tourists' mail which sets in about the first of each year.

Small Lake Forms.

Storm waters on Avenue 61, south of Monte Vista street, delayed the University-Garvanza cars yesterday. During the heaviest downpour in the morning a lake formed, and traffic was continued during the day under serious difficulties.

Did Not Plead Guilty.

The bucket-shop men reported to have pleaded guilty in the Police Court on Thursday, really did not plead at all. They were simply released upon $50 bail instead of fined that amount. They will appear before Justice Chambers today for examination.

Peeping Alleged.

David Fisher was arrested by an officer of the Pasadena-avenue police station last night on the charge of violating the peddling ordinance. The police will investigate complaints made against him. It is said that he has been seen peeping in the windows of houses.

Condemn Lawlessness.

Members of the Blue Cross Society, whose membership is composed of colored women, met at No. 1146 Hoover street last night and passed resolutions condemning lawlessness in Mississippi and Colorado and calling on all good citizens in those States to bring the lynchers to justice.

Cash and Watches Stolen.

K. Tambota of No. 204 Garey street reported yesterday morning that a burglar had entered his home shortly after midnight, had forced open a trunk and secured $130 and two gold watches. Tambota says that he was called to the room of another man, and that during his brief absence the robbery was committed. The police have no clews.

Foreigners Sue.

In a suit filed yesterday in the United States District Court, Conrad Escher and Louis Rahn of Switzerland seek to recover $6796.80, with interest at 7 per cent. for a number of years, on bonds of the Perris Irrigation District, which for a long time has been buried in litigation and through investment in which many persons lost heavily. Oscar C. Mueller is attorney for the foreign plaintiffs.

New Schools Ready.

Three new school buildings have been pronounced satisfactory by William Downey, building inspector for the Board of Education, and at the next meeting of that body it is expected that they will be accepted from the contractors. They will be opened to pupils next Monday. The schools are the Logan, in the northwest part of the city; the Hobart-boulevard and the Washington.

Whirls on Engine Wheel.

C. A. Burgman, a young planing mill worker, who lives at No. 308 East Forty-first street, had a narrow escape from death yesterday morning. His clothing was caught in the fly-wheel of a gasoline engine in the plant of the West Coast Company, and he was whirled around in the air several times before the clothing gave way. He sustained five lacerations on the left leg. After his wounds were treated at the Receiving Hospital he was taken to his home.

Denied Death by Poison.

Mrs. Eliza B. Stevens of No. 717 Maple avenue tried to end her life yesterday afternoon by taking chloral. Recently she had been discharged from Levy's Café, where she was a dishwasher. She had been drinking quite heavily and was in poor health. She was found in her room by people in the house. The police were notified and she was taken to the Receiving Hospital. Surgeons used the stomach pump and antidotes and saved her life. She spent the night in the women's ward of the city prison.

No One Much Hurt.

Collapse of the roof on the ruins of the West Coast Produce Company's store, No. 621 East Third street, yesterday morning, threatened the lives of 100 poor people who were delving among the ashes for half-burned foodstuffs. Three boys were saved from death by sacks of peanuts which were piled up beside them, and which sheltered them when the timbers fell. The fire-weakened wall in the front had been torn down the day before and the roof had thus lost a part of its support. The falling timbers hurt no one seriously. A Mexican boy's ear was badly torn and a woman was somewhat bruised.

Juror Holds Out.

Because one of the jurors sent word to Justice Austin last night that he would maintain his stand as to the guilt of Bert Hall, a negro, who was arrested on the charge of "shooting craps," it was found necessary to dismiss the jury. Two colored patrolmen arrested Robert Ramey, Bert Hall and J. J. Laughlin on the charge of gambling. The men asked for a jury trial. Ramey found that the evidence against him was very strong and forfeited his bail. Laughlin and Hall stood trial. The jury acquitted Laughlin, but when the Hall case was balloted on there was one man who refused to vote for his acquittal.

Mired Wagon Delays Cars.

A heavily-loaded wagon stuck in the mud on West Pico street delayed the Pico street cars last night just at the dinner hour. For fifty minutes scores awaited an out-going car. The first through car, No. 322, proceeded west to Normandie avenue and stopped. Passengers were directed to step out into the mud, but they refused. Declaring the conductor was acting without orders, men and women held an indignation meeting on the car. A committee of three, consisting of S. G. Chappelle, No. 118 Court street; R. H. Martin and W. W. Martin of No. 942 Hobart boulevard, was asked to file a complaint with the company. The conductor declared he had been ordered to return to town. The protest will be made today.

STUCK IN THE MUD.

Mired Wagon Smashed by Trolley Car, Two Horses Killed and Driver Injured.

Despite the signaling of Mrs. J. C. Normando to the motorman, car No. 291 of the Boyle Heights line crashed into a wagon at Stephenson avenue and Indiana street about 6 o'clock last night. Normando was injured slightly and two horses were killed.

Normando and his wife were returning from Whittier to their home at No. 1048 South Soto street. The wagon became mired and the woman, seeing the east-bound car approaching, attempted to signal it, but the motorman paid no attention to her, witnesses say. Normando was removed to his home.

AFRAID HE IS INSANE.

Wife Has Green Sent to Hospital After His Skull Is Fractured in a Fight.

Suffering from mental derangement, Peter Green of No. 1513 Jesse street was sent to the Receiving Hospital last night, where he will be detained until action upon his case is taken by the authorities. As the result of trouble over a team of horses Green was struck on the head by J. M. Breen and his skull was fractured, on December 12.

Green was the foreman of the American Transfer Company and Breen was a driver. After the fight Breen stated that Green ordered him to take out a team, which he (Breen) thought were too tired to work. Breen said that Green insisted and he refused. Breen claimed that Green picked up two rocks and chased him.

It was when Green was about to strike him, Breen says, that he turned upon the foreman and struck him on the head with a large stick. Green was sent to the Receiving Hospital and a piece of his skull was removed. He was then sent to the Pacific Hospital. Although Breen expressed sincere regret over the occurrence, he claimed his act was in self-defense.

For several days Green has been confined to the hospital. Recently he went home, but has acted peculiarly. His wife has been fearing that he would become violent and last night when he became more demonstrative than usual, officers were called and Green was sent to the hospital.

BRYAN IS COMING.

Statesman of the Platte Will Devote Lecture Proceeds to Lark Ellen Home.

William Jennings Bryan will speak in Los Angeles on Monday, January 28. The place will, probably be Simpson Auditorium.

Mr. Bryan has not yet indicated his subject, but, of course, it will be of political nature.

It is said that he speaks for charity more than any other man on the American lyceum platform today, and whatever may be the truth of this assertion, he will live up to it in this city.

The principal proceeds of his lecture will be devoted to that well-working organization, the "Lark Ellen" Newsboys' Home, named in a pretty compliment to Ellen Beach Yaw, who has had a protecting care over the home ever since its beginning.

Mr. Behymer, who will manage Mr. Bryan for this State, says that much interest has been taken in the forthcoming lecture, and that by all appearances the famous politician could fill an audience chamber several times the size of old Simpson Auditorium.

STABBED FIVE TIMES.

Victim in Hospital and Alleged Assailant in Jail—Said to Have Quarreled.

With five stab wounds in his body, A. Major of No. 340 East Second street is in the Receiving Hospital and James Haskett is held on suspicion of having assaulted him. Haskett's arrest followed an investigation of a quarrel in the Germania saloon, No. 142 North Main street, about 6 o'clock last night.

Although the saloon men denied that a fight had taken place, an officer found Major near the saloon, making a feeble attempt to escape. Soon after the man was sent to the hospital Haskett was arrested on description.

The police say that Major became involved in a quarrel with Haskett over 50 cents. Both men were very angry and Haskett is said to have stabbed Major with a large pocket knife. Major's condition is not necessarily serious.

IN IMMENSITY IT LOOMS UP.

Power Plant at Redondo a Giant of Cement.

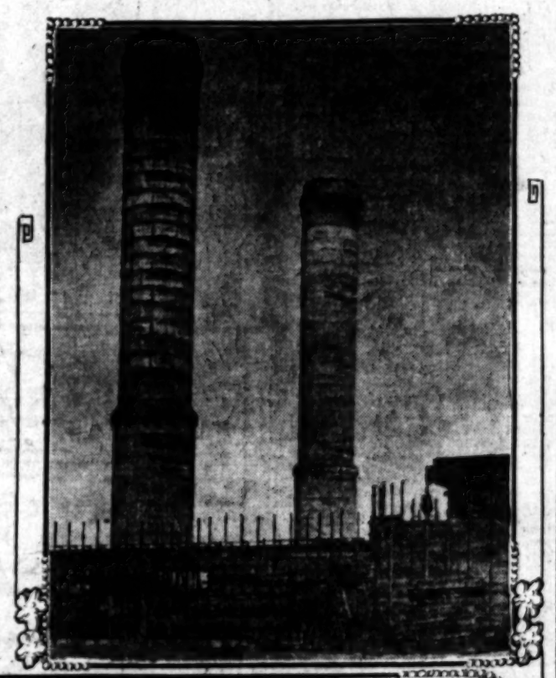
Two Thousand Cubic Yards in Single Slab.

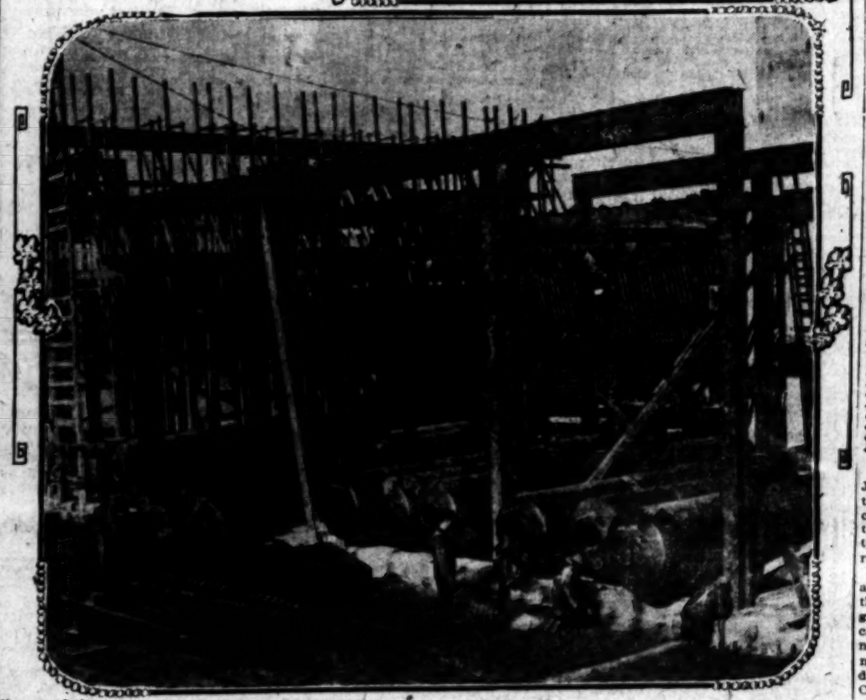
Same Water Used Always to Make Steam.

The $1,500,000 electric power station which the Pacific Light and Power Company is having built at Redondo, and which will be the greatest electric plant on the Pacific Coast, has reached the stage where the first concrete idea of its immensity can be secured.

Located on the beach at the outskirts of Redondo already two 125-foot stacks have reared their length into the air, and about their bases over 200 workingmen toil with might and main to complete the plant which will furnish power to many industries of this vicinity.

The plant will be capable of generating 25,000 horse power, and in case of emergency can furnish an additional 25 per cent. of efficiency, which makes the possible output about 30,000 horse power.





Glimpse of the power plant at Redondo. Below is shown a mere corner of the boiler room, in which men appear no larger than flies, and in the upper picture are the towering concrete stacks, looming above the thirty feet of completed wall.

The building which will house the powerful machinery will be the largest reinforced concrete structure on the Coast, and in it will be used over 25,000 barrels of cement. In the construction of this massive building, unique plans have been followed out. The foundation necessary for the giant steam engines which will drive the generators and sustain the constant vibration have been put in, and they are enormous.

TWO THOUSAND-YARD SLAB.

One concrete slab measures over 128 feet long by 63 feet wide, and is 6 feet thick. This is but the sole upon which the foundation proper of the engines rests. It contains a total of 2000 cubic yards of concrete, though only the beginning of the foundation. About this slab towers for fourteen feet a second foundation of concrete reinforced with twisted bars of steel. Upon this solid rock-like formation will rest the engines.

The suspicion with which cement has been looked upon by the contractors of the city since the Bixby Hotel disaster has caused Carl Leonardt, who is the contractor for the power plant, to subject the cement employed to what is perhaps the most rigorous series of tests the material has ever been given. Leonardt says that not one carload of cement has been used that has not been subjected to all three of the tests generally given to concrete or cement. It will have to bear a tremendous strain.

WILL COVER AN ACRE.

When completed, the power plant will cover, with its foundations, exactly one acre. This will not include the several subsidiary structures which will be built adjoining.

The work was started three months ago, and tremendous pressure has been used to have it completed with all possible dispatch. The date for the completion of the first power unit of the plant has been set for April 1. There are altogether three units in the station, and the last unit is expected to be turning out current by September of next year.

As an illustration of the speed with which the work is pushed, suffice it to say that the contractor is under a penalty of $1000 a day for every day after April 1 that he has not completed this work. This penalty applies only to the machinery men, as it has been found necessary to use pressure to secure shipments of machinery from the East at the scheduled time.

The machinery equipment of the plant will consist of eighteen Babcock-Wilcox tubular boilers, three main engines of the Mackintosh-Seymour type, each capable of turning out 5000 kilowatts in electrical efficiency. In addition, there will be seven auxiliary engines to man the pumps, etc., which will have a total of 1000 horse power. The machinery is being installed by the Charles C. Moore Company of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

HUGE WEB OF STEEL.

An interesting feature of the building is that reinforced concrete has been used in the solid foundation work, which generally is permitted to stand simply as a mass of concrete without steel reinforcement. This building is practically one huge web of heavy steel bars incased in a box of solid concrete, because these bars run through every part of it.

The system of water condensing in the plant will be unique, and, in fact, the only one of its kind in existence. The water will be drawn from the ocean by two big pipes, each fifty inches in diameter. This will be used only to condense the steam from the boilers. Fresh water will naturally have to be used in making steam, but it will not only be used once, but practically forever. As the steam leaves the boiler it is caught and carried through a condenser, which is cooled by steady streams of sea water pouring over it, and the steam is condensed into water again, and returned to the boiler by the feed pumps.

INNER HARBOR KNOT TO CUT.

IMPROVEMENT IS BLOCKED BY TIDELAND LITIGATION.

Apparently Little Prospect That Government Engineers Will Approve Applications of Railroads and Banning Company for Establishment of Lines in Wilmington Bay.

There is little likelihood that the application for the establishment of harbor lines in the Wilmington lagoon, according to plans presented by the railroad corporations and the Bannings, will be approved by the government engineers. Wilmington and San Pedro have entered formal protests against the plan, and the Wilmington Dock Company objects to it, but the chief reason for expecting that it will be turned down is that the government has refused consistently to build an inner harbor at Wilmington so long as the water frontage is controlled by private interests.

There is no substantial objection to the method of construction or to the lines proposed, which provide for a mole or peninsula in the lagoon with wide channels on the sides. The defect, from the government's point of view, is that the peninsula would be the private property of the railroads, and the harbor would not be free to the public. No plan of improvement which contemplates private monopoly of the greater part of the water front will be approved by the engineers, and there will be no harbor at Wilmington above the turning basin until the conflicting interests are reconciled and the rights of the public established.

Title to the tide lands of Wilmington lagoon is in litigation, and may not be settled for ten years. The case is complicated, and may be taken eventually to the United States Supreme Court, unless a compromise can be effected. It is understood that the Bannings, who hold title from the State, are disposed to consent to an arrangement that will insure perpetual public use of a large part of the water front, if such an adjustment is proposed by the persons who are attacking their PROMISES NEW INDUSTRY.

Local Company is Formed to Manufacture Ore Furnace That Has Interest for Mining Men.

Promise that Los Angeles will be the place of manufacture of ore furnaces that will have wide sale throughout the mining regions is made by a new company just formed in Los Angeles—the Globe Metals Extraction Company—of which Johnstone Jones is president, John R. Taylor vice-president, and W. H. Motter secretary. Local foundries and iron works, it is said, will make all the necessary machinery and it is asserted that the industry will become one of importance.

It is claimed for the furnace that it recovers from 90 to 95 per cent. of the ore values at a cost far below that entailed by other processes. Mining men are being interested in the project, and it is said that a demonstrating plant will be set up here within a short time.

"CUPID" REJOICES.

Sam Kutz, for fourteen years the official "Cupid" of Los Angeles county, and now clerk in Department Eight of the Superior Court, was rejoicing yesterday because he is a grandfather. On Thursday there was born to Mr. and Mrs. B. Foley of No. 3723 Trinity street, a son.

JAPS SECURE REALTY HOLD.

Now They Plan to Build and Colonize.

Five-Story Block on San Pedro Street.

Thousand-Acre Tract Near Los Angeles.

More than fifteen thousand Japanese are now located in Los Angeles and immediate vicinity. More are coming every week. Here is the programme for Jap "expansion" as mapped out by the leaders of the colony:

A great cooperative land-purchasing company has been formed, and has secured its first city property, to be followed by other purchases as rapidly as possible.

A modern steel and brick five-story building is to be erected as a Japanese commercial headquarters at Jackson and North San Pedro streets.

A great colonization scheme is to be put into effect whereby hundreds of Japs are to be induced to come to this part of California.

One thousand acres, as an initial purchase, is to be secured in this vicinity, and on this the colonization company plans to settle at least one Jap for each five acres. In the center of the tract is to be laid out a Japanese village, so that all the business of the settlement may be handled exclusively through Japanese channels.

The Japs see in Southern California a great opportunity to make money, and they propose to work it for all they possibly can get out of it.

The latest feature of the remarkable Japanese invasion of Los Angeles is the definite plan of leaders of the colony to pluck golden winnings from the Southern California realty situation. The Japanese are to become realty dealers on a large scale.

With all the aptitude shown in their adoption of other American methods, the Los Angeles Japanese leaders have grasped the modus operandi of American real estate hustlers, and there has now entered the local field the "Japanese Land Investment Company," duly incorporated under the laws of California, and even in its infancy operating with such success that thousands of dollars has been made in the increase of valuation on its holdings.

The Jap real estate men have even adopted the American way of signboard advertising; and down at the southwest corner of North San Pedro and Jackson streets a huge signboard rears itself, gay in red and green and yellow and white.

Every word of its announcement is in the Jap characters and it sets forth that on the corner where it stands the Japanese Land Investment Company will build a modern brick and steel structure of five stories; and that those who wish to secure quarters in the new building must apply to certain offices. Isn't that American-like?

The new realty company has ambitious plans for Japanese development in Los Angeles and Southern California. And while the personnel of its officiary shows the names of the leaders of the Los Angeles colony, the provisions of the concern are such that every ordinary Jap day laborer in Southern California may participate in the affairs of the company if he can scrape together $5 a month.

It is a remarkable fact that a large number of ordinary laborers are doing this, and the payments all go into a common fund, from which land purchases are to be made from time to time as rapidly as the money accumulates.

Both city and country lands will be purchased by the Japanese company.

Japanese realty signboard at Jackson and North San Pedro streets, announcing that a five-story block will be built there.

NEW HANDS TO TAKE HOLD.

Juvenile Court Committee Makes Detention Home Charges—Mrs. Hyatt Appointed Matron.

In pursuance of the action of the Supervisors in giving the Juvenile Court Committee control of the Detention Home, the following temporary appointments were made yesterday by that committee to go in effect the first day of the New Year. For Matron, Mrs. Hyatt, who has been acting for some time as assistant matron; Miss Schumacher, the cook, has been retained and will live on the premises to assist the matron; Frank Reyes will be day guard and Peter Reel night guard.

The Detention Home is still in the experimental stage, and the Juvenile Court Committee hopes to make some beneficial changes in management. After January 1, the Juvenile Court will hold daily sessions, so that a boy may not be kept longer than twenty-four hours in the home waiting for a hearing from the judge.

QUICK TO AID CHINA'S NEEDY.

LOCAL RELIEF WILL GO TO THE VICTIMS OF FAMINE.

President's Appeal for Succor for Millions in Grip of Want Causes Ministerial Union and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce to Extend Help to the Suffering.

Prompt response has been made in Los Angeles to President Roosevelt's appeal for aid for the famine-stricken millions of Central China. The Ministerial Union and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, each in its own way, have taken hold of the relief work and immediate results are expected.

The Ministerial Union has appointed a committee to promote concerted action among churches of all denominations in Southern California, and it is probable that at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Church Federation next Monday a day will be named upon which all ministers in this section will be asked to present the matter to their congregations and to call for offerings.

Relief supplies and money thus obtained probably will be distributed through the mission boards of the several denominations having representatives in the Chinese field.

George Lem, leader of the Chinese of Southern California, called a meeting of the local Chinese Chamber of Commerce last evening at No. 417 North Los Angeles street and a plan was outlined for extending aid to their suffering countrymen. Several wealthy Chinese merchants made large contributions of cash, and within a few days it is expected that a fund amounting to $3000 or $4000 will have been subscribed by the 2000 Chinamen in this immediate vicinity. The money will be forwarded to the Chinese Minister at Washington for distribution.

The famine in Central China is the result of unprecedented rains in June, July, August and September. Forty thousand square miles of territory in the lowlands was flooded, it is reported, destroying all growing crops. Practically all means of subsistence for 15,000,000 persons has been wiped out, according to the reports of missionaries in the field.

In some sections the only food for starving thousands consists of gruel and sweet potato leaves.

The greatest suffering is reported in the provinces of Kiang Su, Che Kiang and Nganhui. In some places the desperation of the famine sufferers is so great that they are said to be drowning and poisoning aged relatives and children.

One missionary describes the Chinese officials as being brutally indifferent to the sufferings of those around them. They say they have too many of the poor, anyway.

Natives are said to be in rebellion in some sections—as willing to die by the sword as by starvation.

Prices of all necessities have risen rapidly. Flour that was considered dear a year ago at 22 to 30 cash a catty now sells at from 50 to 60 cash. Fuel also is scarce and has more than doubled in price.

Reports received here from missionaries in various sections of the flooded district all tell the same tale of starvation, ruin, death and even disorder.

HOME AND LOTS SOLD.

Jones & Ryder report the following sales within the last few days: George F. Sloan to H. C. Lichtenberger, eight-room two-story residence on a lot 50x150 feet at No. 2361 West Twenty-third street, price $7250. The same agents also report the sale on the Poole & Jones tract to Marion Aubury of a lot 50x132 feet on Normandie avenue near Thirtieth street, price $2100. E. L. Pettills sells, through the same agents, to A. Snyder, lot 50x132 feet on Normandie avenue near Jefferson street, the consideration being $2000.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Mayor McAleer has prepared a veto message in which he sets forth the need of a gas and gas meter inspector in the city's officiary, and recommends additional legislation looking toward better service from the gas companies. This message will go to the City Council Monday.

The Municipal League has invited the Chamber of Commerce and the M. and M. Association to join with it in appointing a commission to outline new legislation for the control of the liquor traffic in Los Angeles.

The Board of Public Works yesterday made a compromise with the ranchmen along the old outfall sewer whereby possible damage suits against the city will be avoided, and the sewage flowing from breaks can be cared for at nominal expense.

Judge James yesterday held adversely to the contentions of the Los Angeles College of Osteopathy and the graduates, who were party plaintiffs in a suit to compel the State Board of Examiners to recognize the college and to grant certificates to the individuals, but he decided that the Board of Examiners is exercising unconstitutional powers.

The Tropico Water Company and the old board of directors yesterday began suit against Hugh Glassell and others to compel them to cease acting as directors. Allegations of fraud are made and a receiver is asked for.

The Jaxon murder trial is being long drawn out and it is not certain that the prosecution will close its case today. So far, there have been no sensational developments.

Michael McGrath was accused by May Flouise of slapping her in the face with a beefsteak. The novel case will be tried in the Police Court on January 12.

Pedro Vasquez could not put on the rubber coat which he said belonged to him because its sleeves were still stuck together. Justice Rose gave him sixty days for petty larceny.

AT THE CITY HALL.

MAYOR SEEKS NEW GAS LAW.

WILL VETO KNOCK-OUT OF GAS INSPECTOR READ.

Declares This Official Is a Necessary Adjunct to City Government, and Urges Council to Adopt Amendments to Gas Ordinance Suggested by Inspector's Annual Report.

Mayor McAleer is determined to do all in his power to save to his appointee, L. Cabal Read, the position of City Gas and Meter Inspector, which the City Council is attempting to legislate out of existence.

Yesterday, Mayor McAleer prepared the following veto message, which will be presented to the Council on Monday:

I return herewith, without my approval, an ordinance entitled an ordinance regulating the sale of gas and electric lights and the inspection of gas and electric meters, and the charge for telephones and telephone service and connections.

I am firmly of the opinion that a Gas and Gas Meter Inspector is a necessary officer in the city government, and that so far from abolishing the office, the powers and duties of the Inspector should be increased, and that additional provisions should be made by ordinance for the better regulation of gas service in this city.

In this connection I beg to call your attention to the annual report of the Gas and Gas Meter Inspector, and the recommendations that he made therein relative to amendments to the existing ordinances regulating the sale and use of gas.

The Gas and Gas Meter Inspector recommends, and I most heartily concur with him, that the ordinances regulating the sale and use of gas in this city be amended so as to cover the following points:

First—Providing for the maintenance of a continuous, regular and uniform gas service with governed pressure in the consumers' pipes of not less than one inch nor more than three inches water pressure, with adequate penalty for non-fulfillment.

Second—Providing for a minimum illuminating power of twenty candles and a minimum heat value of 650 B. T. U., with proper penalty for noncompliance.

Third—Providing that the purity of the gas be such that it contains not more than twenty grains of total sulphur and five grains of ammonia in all forms in 100 cubic feet, and that there be no sulphuretted hydrogen present, with proper penalty for violation.

Fourth—Providing for the inspection of all meters before being put into service by any company, at the company's expense, and the testing of meters on complaint of either customer or company, as the fees before mentioned, and providing that it shall be unlawful for any one to place or keep a meter in service which has been tested and found incorrect; a meter to be deemed correct when it is not more than 3 per cent. fast or slow when working at its regular capacity.

It was deemed necessary by your honorable body to pass an ordinance under the provisions conferred upon the city by its charter, to regulate the sale and use of gas and provide for the inspection thereof. I did not agree to the ordinance because I thought the requirements for the quality of the gas to be furnished were not sufficient, but upon the general principle of gas regulation I am thoroughly in accord with any ordinance which seeks to attain that end.

I am convinced that the city charter contemplates that the sale and use of gas shall be regulated and that the inspection thereof shall be provided for by ordinance, for the charter expressly empowers the city to do those things. And if the charter did not, there is on the statute books a law passed by the State Legislature authorizing and requiring the City Council of all cities having a population of more than 100,000 to fix a standard of quality and illuminating power of gas, and which law provides for the office of gas inspector.

In view of the provisions of the city charter and of the State law which may be operative today unless superseded by the charter, I am satisfied that sound public policy requires that the city of Los Angeles have a Gas and Gas Meter Inspector and that there be some officer whose duty it is to enforce the provisions of our own city ordinances upon the subject. I am of the opinion that other and further ordinances for gas regulation should be adopted in accordance with the recommendations of the Gas and Gas Meter Inspector in his annual report to which I have referred.

I therefore return the ordinance without my approval, for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

Liquor Limitations.

Plans have been formulated by the Municipal League for the creation of a commission, composed of representatives of the league, the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, to investigate the liquor business of this city and outline legislation most advantageous to the city for the control of the traffic. The resolution adopted by the league is as follows:

Resolved, That the Municipal League hereby requests the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association to join in the appointment of a special commission of seven to consider what permanent legislation is needed in this city on the subject of the liquor traffic; said commission to hear witnesses and gather data of the experience of other cities, and within three months to report a plan covering the following points and such additional matters as the investigation may develop:

1. Limitation on the number and kind of liquor-selling establishments.
2. Zones to be observed in granting of licenses.
3. Amount of annual license tax.
4. Frontage consent to be required for locations.
5. Distinction between saloons, restaurants and wholesalers.
6. Police regulations pertaining to same.
7. What points should be covered by charter, what by ordinance and what by police commission regulations.
8. Use of initiative in conjunction with proposed legislation.

The league would recommend to your honorable bodies that the same courses of procedure be followed as in the case of the railway accident commission, viz.: That the sessions be executive; that witnesses be called to include all classes of parties interested, including the class most directly interested, to-wit, the public, and that the report when finally framed shall be made to the public and filed with the executive committee of each body, leaving it open to each body to indorse or not as they see fit.

We believe that such a commission would be able to get at the root of many of these vexed questions and work out a solution that would be satisfactory to a majority of our citizens.

Librarian Lummis—His Work.

The report has been in circulation that directors of the public library would ask an explanation of Librarian Lummis over the fact that he has been summoning attendants from the public library to his own home in the Arroyo Seco, and that he has been employing them there while their duties require their presence at the city library. Librarian Lummis is reported as having stated yesterday that he did not deny the charge that he had sent for attendants to work at his home; but that they have been employed on his annual report, which, it is said, will be a voluminous affair, and that as he had a pride in making the best possible showing of the work accomplished by the Los Angeles library, he had been paying these attendants out of his own pocket for the work they have done.

Mayor McAleer Kicked.

A colt, without due fear of the august head of this municipality, did with malice aforethought kick the shin of Mayor McAleer Wednesday night. At the time it was thought the injury was of no consequence, but the Mayor was laid up by it yesterday, and last night was reported as suffering much pain from the blow. As a result of his absence from the City Hall yesterday, there was no meeting of the Fire Commission. The last meeting of this commission will be held Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Compromise on Sewage.

As a result of the heavy flow of storm water, some of which is bound to find its way into the regular sewage system, the Board of Public Works is meeting with almost daily reports of new breaks in the old outfall. Many ranchers have been making pilgrimages to the City Hall to ascertain what could be done to check the sewage from overflowing their lands. Yesterday the board announced that it had effected a compromise with the ranchmen. In future cases where there are breaks the city is to have the right to construct temporary ditches across the lands so as to drain the sewage to low places. In return for this privilege the ranchers are to have such sewage as they may need in the dry season for irrigation, and also water from the city mains, if necessary. This also averts possibility of suits for damages against the city.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

OSTEOPATHISTS MADE HAPPY.

POWERS OF EXAMINING BOARD UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Judge James so Holds in Suit Brought by Los Angeles College and Graduates to Compel Recognition of Institution and to Have Certificates Issued—Case Dismissed.

The State Board of Osteopathic Examiners is out of business if a decision handed down yesterday by Judge James is upheld. In the case just decided, the court holds that the attempt has been made to delegate power to the board which the Legislature has not the right, under the Constitution, to confer.

The Los Angeles College of Osteopathy and several graduates sued the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to compel the board to recognize the college as having a standing high enough to entitle its graduates to certificates to practice in this State, and also to compel the board to issue certificates to the individual plaintiffs. A demurrer was interposed on the ground of misjoinder of parties, and for that reason the plaintiffs are not entitled to relief.

Judge James determines that the college has no right to become a plaintiff in an action to compel the board of examiners to recognize the institution. In the petition it was claimed that a majority of the Board of Examiners are interested in other colleges which are competitors of the Los Angeles College, and to this fact the refusal of the board to recognize the Los Angeles College was ascribed.

The court decides that while the local college has no right to demand any action on the part of the Board of Examiners, its graduates have the right to submit their applications for certificates and to exhibit their diplomas. They have the right severally to do this, continues the decision, as a separate certificate is demanded by each applicant, and consequently the college has no right to sue for itself or jointly with its graduates, and the graduates have no right to join with the college in such an action.

So far the demurrer is sustained, but the real question involved, which the court draws special attention to, affects the very life of the legislative act itself. "There is only one course prescribed for the applicant for a certificate to practice osteopathy to pursue," says the court, "namely, to present a diploma from a legally incorporated college of osteopathy 'recognized' by the Board of Examiners. The act provides nowhere for any examination of applicants for certificates who may desire to practice, after the first day of August, 1901. No standard is fixed—a college may be a legally incorporated college of osteopathy but with the course of education wholly insufficient to educate the students in the thorough knowledge of the science or art it pretends to teach."

The act leaves it to the Board of Examiners to decide what qualifications shall entitle a college to be "recognized" by them. The Legislature might have provided that graduates of a school or college having a prescribed course, and of good repute, should be admitted by the board; this was not done. The privilege of taking an examination to test proficiency is denied by the act. The court, therefore, says that the act appears to be clearly unconstitutional. If the conclusion is upheld, the Board of Examiners has no further functions to perform, and therefore none to be directed, even if the writ sought should issue.

For these reasons the demurrer is sustained and a judgment of dismissal ordered.

PROSECUTING JAXON.

COLORED WITNESSES TESTIFY.

It seemed for a while yesterday as if J. C. C. Jaxon might be identified positively as the murderer of "Jimmie" Logan, the quadroon, on the Hotel Raymond golf links.

Franklin S. Jenkins, secretary of the Long Beach Hotel Company said that on the night of the murder he started after dinner to take a walk, as is his usual custom. He lives about two blocks from the Hotel Raymond. He walked toward the hostelry. When he reached the road opposite to the hotel waiting depot, he saw two men and thinking one was a friend of his, he called out. As there was no answer, he crossed the road and then saw that he had been mistaken. He observed in the shadow of the waiting depot a third man. As a passing car shot its light upon the two men who were talking together, he saw that one was white and that the other seemed to be Mexican. The latter wore a derby hat and dark clothes. He could not tell whether the third man in the shadow was white or black but he wore a slouch hat.

Mr. Jenkins stated that the white man and the man with olive skin walked slowly down the road, and that the third man sauntered after them, about twenty paces behind. He identified the supposed Mexican as being Logan, a picture of the dead man being submitted for his inspection. Who the white man was even the prosecution does not pretend to know, but the jury is being asked to believe that the man in the shadow, who strolled after the white man and Logan, was Jaxon; and that at that very moment he was fingering the iron puffer and was in anticipation beating out the brains of Logan.

Most of the witnesses yesterday were called to show at what time Jaxon appeared at the meeting of the San Gabriel Investment Company, which met at Jaxon's store on the Friday night of the murder. All of these witnesses were colored men and there was direct contradiction in their testimony.

William Prince, the secretary of the organization, stated that Jaxon came late. He walked with Jaxon two blocks and caught the 10 o'clock car to his home. Making allowance for standing around and talking after the meeting, he approximated the time of adjournment at about 9 o'clock.

Another colored witness, Littleton Baker, was more positive. He said that it was after 9 o'clock when Jaxon appeared. Jaxon afterward had heard the time he had fixed for his arrival, the witness said, and showed him the minute book and told him the details of the business that had been transacted that night in an attempt to persuade him that he, Jaxon, had been present about 8:30. "But I imperatively repudiated what he said," remarked the witness.

As this effort on the part of Jaxon to prove to Baker that he had been present at the meeting early was made before his arrest, the prosecution holds the testimony important.

Mrs. Laura E. Young, the mother of Logan, testified that she knew there was considerable feeling between her son and Jaxon, but she was not permitted to tell anything in this regard.

TWO SETS OF DIRECTORS.

TROPICO COMPANY'S TROUBLES.

The Tropico Water Company is again in trouble, and claims that if aid is not forthcoming from the courts, it will be bankrupt. To avert this and other disasters suit has been begun by the corporation, A. W. Collins, E. W. Richardson, D. Griswold, W. O. Borthwick, and R. F. Bear, against Hugh Glassell, M. E. Carey, M. R. Rogers, R. Rogers, W. G. Glassell, W. Ransom, Charles and N. Harris, and others, to enjoin them from doing many things that are set out in the voluminous complaint.

It is claimed that Hugh Glassell and other defendants manipulated certain stock so that they elected themselves as directors, and that despite the fact that a judicial decision has held that they were not legally elected, they remain in office pending an appeal, and are trying to wreck the water company.

It is asserted that Glassell has attempted to exchange 1855 shares of treasury stock with one of the defendants, Ransom, his brother-in-law, for a water system which in fact belongs to Glassell himself and which is of no value. As an added consideration for the deal it is alleged that Glassell pretended to receive 437 shares of the Verdugo Cañon Water Company. It is claimed that if Ransom ever handed over this stock, it must have been as Glassell's agent, for he (Ransom,) it is stated, never owned a share of stock in the Verdugo company. Moreover it is averred that the Verdugo stock carries no water with it, and that it is not worth the paper it is written on.

It is a fight between the old directors who hold over, as they claim, under a court decision, and the alleged self-elected directors. The latter have levied an assessment of one-tenth of the par value of the shares and are intending to sell out the small shareholders, it is claimed. In addition to these several causes of complaint it is stated that the Tropico Water Company is indebted to Oliver O. Clark for $8000, alleged to have been borrowed to improve the pipe lines some years ago. This amount is now due and Clark has instructed the Title Guarantee and Trust Company to sell the property.

The regular directors sold 1800 shares of the treasury stock for $9000 to H. H. Davenport and the money is now in escrow, but upon making claim upon the alleged illegal board of directors for the stock handed over to Ransom, the board refuses to consider the claim and retains the stock, it is alleged.

Glassell had called a meeting of the alleged irregular board, for yesterday, and the suit was brought to prevent that body from taking any action and still further complicating matters. The court is asked to determine that the old board legally is in office, to appoint a receiver, to declare void the transfer of stock to Ransom, and otherwise strighten out the affairs of the water company.

TO STATE HOSPITAL.

THREE PATIENTS COMMITTED.

Mrs. Matilda Fregd wanted to lead a prayer service in Judge Gibbs's courtroom yesterday. She stood up, gesticulated wildly and exhorted those present, though her language was not exactly saintly. Mrs. Fregd claims to be a divine healer, and recently refused to take any nourishment. She said that God told her to fast and that she would abstain from all food. She was committed to the State Hospital at Patton.

Annie Adams, a resident of South Pasadena, who has been subject to epileptic attacks, recently developed a suicidal mania and she also was ordered committed.

Fay Martin also is subject to epilepsy and is mentally unbalanced. While serving in the Philippines he was shot in the head. He, too, was sent to Patton.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

FOOT AMPUTATED. Frank Johnson has begun suit against R. H. Moray, to recover $16,000 as damages. The plaintiff was baling hay for the defendant, and while filling the press, the horses became frightened and plunged forward, catching Johnson's foot in the frame of the press. It had to be amputated.

CHANGES PLANS. S. E. White and Charles Wandries are suing Elizabeth A. Hodgkins to recover $16,000 as damages, because the plans of a certain building were changed. The plaintiffs leased the two upper floors of a building being built by the defendant. According to the plans thirty-nine rooms were to be on the two floors. Plaintiffs signed a five years' lease at $258.50 a month, and later discovered that the plans had been changed and the rooms reduced in rental value, they claim, from $8 a week to half that amount.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

CHARGES SLAP WITH STEAK.

WAITRESS ACCUSES COOK OF IMPOLITE BEHAVIOR.

Chef Will Be Tried in Police Court for Alleged Offense—Claims Innocence—Robert Latham, Charged With Forgeries, Bound Over to the Superior Court.

Michael McGrath is accused of an unusual crime. According to May Flouise, Michael slapped her in the face with a large, raw beefsteak. He will be tried for this alleged offense in the Police Court on January 12. He was arrested yesterday on a warrant. Battery is the specific charge.

Michael is a cook in a Spring-street restaurant. May is employed as waitress in the same establishment. The episode occurred in the kitchen.

According to the police, the slapped young woman says that she and McGrath had words over an order. The words became sharp and the irate cook, who was about to place the steak on the range, struck her in the face with it. Then, she says, she left the kitchen in tears. Later she went to the office of the city prosecutor and made a complaint. McGrath says that he isn't guilty of battery at all.

Latham Bound Over.

Robert Latham, who was arrested last week, charged with a number of forgeries, was yesterday bound over to the Superior Court under $1500 bonds on each of two charges. Latham is said by the police to be a professional forger, who has been doing considerable work in that line in Los Angeles.

Talks Too Much.

H. Fischer came very near "talking himself into jail" in Justice Rose's court yesterday. When the justice had given Fischer, who had brought charges against Fannie and Abraham Cohen, a severe rebuke, the man still wanted to argue. The court finally told him that he would go behind the bars unless he held his peace. The Cohens, it appeared, had called on Fischer, and Mrs. Cohen had left her pocketbook at his house. When she secured the purse she claimed that $35 was missing from it.

Fischer was sent to the Police Station, but was released. Then he caused the arrest of the Cohens, alleging that they had disturbed his peace. The court discharged them.

Alleged Wheel Thief.

John Haynes, who was charged with stealing N. L. Culver's wheel on Commercial street, was bound over to the Superior Court on a charge of grand larceny yesterday.

Sportive Celestials Fined.

Sam Lee, Louis Gin, Lee Gin and Ah Fook each paid a $50 fine in the Police Court yesterday for gambling. Chinatown officers had captured these Celestials and confiscated a lottery and fan-tan outfit.

Hughes Carries Cannon.

P. Hughes, who came here from Arizona and brought with him his big, single-action 45, was fined $25 in the Police Court yesterday for carrying the weapon. Patrolmen had arrested him as a suspect and had discovered the gun when searching him.

Crap Shooter Sentenced.

Louis Whitzel is one of a bevy of crap shooters recently arrested by the police. He was given ninety days. The department has begun a crusade against sidewalk gamblers. Whitzel was arrested near Ascot Park.

Stealing Purse Charged.

Roy Foul, who is accused by Ida Spencer of stealing her purse, eyeglasses and other articles, will be tried in the Police Court on January 15. He was released on $50 bail yesterday.

Pedro's Hard Luck.

Pedro Vesquez was making good headway with a plea of not guilty to a petty larceny charge until he encountered a queer obstacle. This caused him to go to jail for sixty days. It happened in Justice Rose's court yesterday. Pedro was accused of stealing a rubber coat. He strenuously averred that he had bought the garment three days before the alleged theft.

"Does it fit you?" asked the court.

"Yes, sir," murmured Pedro.

"Try it on," said the court, and Pedro began to slip on the coat. Unhappily for him, the sleeves still stuck together; they had never been used. Before he recovered from his confusion, he was on his way downstairs with a sixty-day sentence ringing in his ears.

RECORDS MAY "TURN UP."

Santa Fe Is Moved to Make More Diligent Search for the Documents Wanted by Grand Jury.

With the Federal grand jury's resumption yesterday of its inquiry into the alleged payment of rebates by the Santa Fe, it was reported that the railroad company was taking a good deal more than ordinary interest in finding records wanted by the inquisitors. Some of the documents already had been produced, but they date back only a year, the company explaining that papers of earlier date could not be found.

As United States Dist.-Atty. Lawler has the right to make a thorough search for the records desired, and this fact has been impressed upon the transportation company's officials and attorneys, it is expected that continued search by the company will reveal the remainder of the books and papers; it might be more agreeable than to have the Federal attorney take up the hunt himself.

The grand jury's work lagged yesterday because of the lack of the records, and the energies of the body were bent toward obtaining the evidence it seeks. The session will be resumed today.

The plant of the Quaker City Flour Mills Company in Philadelphia yesterday was damaged by fire to the extent of $80,000.

ARISTOCRATIC CHICK BIRDS.

Poultry Carnival Will Open on New Year's.

Champions and Heavyweights in Training for Prizes.

Automatic Autocratic Egg Producers.

The annual exhibition of the Poultry Breeders' Association of Southern California at Chutes Park will be opened on New Year's Day, and the poultry carnival will continue for the balance of the week. Entries are all in, the elite of poultrydom will be there, and the event promises to be the banner show of the West this season.

Los Angeles has, for some years, vied with Oakland for popularity as a show city, and now, the North being crippled by the recent earthquake disaster, nearly all the National Club cups that California are being put up for competition at the great southern show.

The silver trophies of the National Club, the Wyandotte Club and the Buff Orpington Club of America have arrived, also the cups for the National Island Red Club, the National Andalusian Club and the Columbian Wyandotte Club of America, also the beautiful trophy offered by the Game Club of America.

BANTAMS POPULAR.

Of recent years much attention has been paid to the breeding of the bantam, a miniature of the larger fowls, and this will be the first year that any special attempt at a display of these little pets has been made.

Many winners in Golden and Silver Sebright bantams from the Madison Square Garden show have arrived and are being groomed for the show. They are owned by Mrs. A. E. Halsey and were purchased at great expense by this enthusiastic fancier.

There is also to be a large display of Japan bantams, Black and White Rosecombs and the ever-popular Frizzles, not to speak of the dainty little Andalusian bantams of W. H. Lee and the Bluette bantams of Dr. Boyce.

ORPINGTONS AND REDS.

In the larger breeds, two comparatively new productions will compete for the honor of being the largest entry in the show. The Orpington family has been gradually creeping to the front for the past few years, closely followed by the Rhode Island Reds. The former is purely an English production, while the latter, like the Wyandotte, is the national bird.

Poultryland's choicest Orpingtons are now in Los Angeles, quite a few of them have been here but a few weeks. The best yards in America have been stripped of their choicest specimens in the Rhode Island Reds. All are bound for the big show at the Chutes Park, and the coming week will see the placing of the ribbons.

The Poultry Breeders' Association has secured the services of three Englishmen for the Orpington and Game classes, while the Rhode Island Reds will be passed upon by H. Bowditch, son of Groveland, Mass. Mr. Bowditch was one of the committee that revised the last Rhode Island standard, and may be depended upon to place the awards where they belong.

The three Englishmen, Messrs. W. Purdy, Ralph B. Randall and John Wood, have all handled Crystal Palace birds on their native heath recently, and bring with them the last new and up-to-date in Orpington lore. The Orpingtons and Rhode Island Reds will comprise an entry of something over 200 birds.

AMERICAN BIRDS.

The American classes will be out in their usual entry. Barred Rocks, White Rocks, White, Buff and Partridge Wyandottes being the popular birds. The Columbian Wyandotte, the coloring of the Light Brahma, find favor in Southern California and a large entry of this newest variety of Wyandotte has been made by breeders, Messrs. Durnell, Ironside, Harley and Memmler, while Partridge Wyandotte will be represented by some forty birds, owned by Messrs. Andrews, Goodwin and Prof. L. E. Berkey.

The Wyandotte family, owing to its many good qualities, has grown to large proportions, and now consists of Silver-laced, Silver-penciled, Golden Partridge, White, Black and Buff, and, in view of a tremendous entry in all these varieties, the Wyandotte Breeders' Association deemed it best to procure one of the most expert judges of Wyandottes in the country to pass upon this breed. C. C. Hilson, secretary of the Golden Buff Wyandotte Club of America, is now en route from Minnesota for the purpose of making the awards in these classes.

A large entry of the show will be made by Arthur Letts, owner of the Poultry Farm of East Hollywood, who has the honor of making a larger entry ever made at any poultry show. Mr. Letts is much interested in the welfare of poultry in the Southwest, and, in order that he may improve the poultry business for the future, will have well-bred stock as a result has imported from England, the Eastern States the finest stock money could buy.

He has all kinds of pedigreed poultry to be found at Holmby Poultry Farm, ducks, geese and peafowls, the prize-winning strains. Mr. Letts's entry will consist of 200 birds.

AN EXHIBITOR.

The largest exhibitor will be Mrs. Pinkerton, who is the proud owner of 3200 White Wyandottes at her home at Inglewood. Mrs. Pinkerton is a breeder of strong commercial birds, and was attracted to our city and mild climate by the great possibilities for profitable poultry-keeping in Southern California, and has reaped a harvest during the recent egg famine, with eggs selling as high as 75 cents per dozen.

It is considered that a flock of 200 pullets will produce an average of 15 eggs per day, or the neat sum of $3 per day, at 10 cents per dozen, of which it will be realized what a profit can be done. Mrs. Pinkerton is a firm believer of incubators and appliances, and bids fair to be the greatest poultry farmer in the country.

The outlook for poultry in Southern California never better, and it is looked upon as New York, Chicago and Boston as centers that support two shows in a season. As time goes on Southern California is being looked upon as the poultry center of the United States, each year gaining in importance of its poultry farms and fanciers, the two going hand in hand.

Poultry fanciers with a knowledge of the future are flocking westward before the chilling blasts of the frozen East, and ere long California will be able to produce all her own poultry and eggs. The poultry exhibitions create interest and the poultry associations disseminate knowledge to guide those about to embark in the poultry business.

TUNNEL CRASH BLOCKS TRAINS.

TRUANT CABOOSE CAUSES BAD WRECK ON ESPEE.

Traffic Through San Fernando Hole-in-the-Ground Is Held Up. Freight Train Breaks in the Middle and Another Smashes Into It—Mud and Wreckage Being Cleared.

A curious wreck in the San Fernando tunnel tied San Francisco traffic by the valley route into a hard knot yesterday.

A freight train on the way north, Thursday night, broke in two in the middle in the tunnel. Coming out into the light again, after the long dark tunnel, the train discovered itself to be in the predicament of the little dog that left its tail behind.

The engineer took a chance and went back into the tunnel, to recover the part that had been cut off.

The washing of four and a half inches of rain had filled the tunnel with a deep slush of mud standing three or four inches deep on the track. It was slow going through this.

The rain and the mud had also put the block system out of commission, so that there was no protection from trains coming through the tunnel in either direction.

The Santa Barbara local freight, No. 233, after waiting fifteen minutes at San Fernando for the extra to get through, went plowing up through the tunnel, driven by two of the largest locomotives on the system, driving in front the lower end of the opening through the hills at about the same time that the head end of the extra was backing to find its lost section.

In the muggy atmosphere due to the driving rain outside and the streams of water pouring through the roof, there was no ventilation in the tunnel, and the passageway was so filled with gases and smoke from the train which had just passed through that the crew of No. 233 not only could not see a foot ahead of their engine, but could hardly breathe for the noxious vapors. So it was that the heavy local freight crashed resistlessly into the rear end of the extra, although proceeding through the tunnel at a very low rate of speed. By the time the engineer could shut off his steam two freight cars and the caboose were jammed into the barrel of the tunnel like a wad into the bore of a shot gun. Miraculously enough no one was injured, although the train crews were obliged to block their engines and crawl for their lives on their hands and knees to the tunnel entrance and await a clearing of the gases before returning to their posts. Fireman W. H. Bennecker was asphyxiated, and carried half a mile into the open on the backs of two comrades, who crept through the slime and ooze of the tunnel in the pitch dark, feeling their way by the touch of their hands upon the ends of the ties. Although in a very bad condition when taken out, Bennecker recovered yesterday and was able to report for duty last night.

In spite of the fact that two wrecking outfits and more than 200 men were rushed to the scene of the trouble, it was not until 8 o'clock last night that the way was cleared and the first train, yesterday's southbound Owl, sent through, thirteen hours late. The two sections of No. 8 followed immediately. No. 7 of Thursday night, followed by the Owl of last night, were then sent through the tunnel north bound, and the back of the blockade, which tied up the line for twenty-four hours and stalled some fifty trains, was broken.

LAUGH AT DUEL STORY.

Police Discredit Night Watchman Cornwall's Tale of Desperate Battle With Thieves.

Signs of burglars failed to materialize after W. A. Cornwall, a night watchman in the employ of the New York Suit House on South Broadway had sent for the police. He claimed that he had driven two crooks from the rear of the store after a desperate pistol battle yesterday morning. Cornwall's story is doubted by the police, who have made an exhaustive investigation.

Officers responded to a telephone message to the Central Station to the effect that Cornwall had fired five shots at the thieves. Cornwall claimed that the crooks were in the rear of the store and that he leaped on the back of one of them. A second criminal, he said, came to the assistance of the first. Then the watchman told of a pistol duel in the semi-darkness at the rear of the store. At the end of the duel the men, he said, fled. Blood on a stick was pointed out by Cornwall.

"There is," said Captain of Detectives Paul Flammer, "seeming reason to doubt the man's story. Talamantes and Rice went over the case and the bloody stick is in itself a suspicious thing, so far as the truth of Cornwall's tale is concerned."

Apparently blood had been smeared on the stick. On Cornwall's cheek was a fresh scratch and the detectives say that this was bleeding when they arrived. "Cornwall told us," said the detectives, "that the scratch had come from shaving two days before. There were no footprints to be seen and odd details in the story made us discredit it."

Cornwall was taken to the Central Police Station and questioned closely yesterday and the department officials concluded that his story was a fairy tale.

JAPS GET REALTY HOLD.

While it has large plans for city activities, its even more ambitious scheme is a great colonization effort in the country, somewhere near Los Angeles.

AFTER THOUSAND ACRES.

Early in the new year the company will purchase a tract of 1000 acres. It has several neighborhoods in view, but the choice has narrowed down to a probable selection of lands in the vicinity of either Gardena or Tropico.

In either case it is the hope of the officers of the company that this will be but an initial purchase, and that hundreds of other acres will be necessary for their colonization scheme.

The scheme is to subdivide the first 1000 acres and to place a Jap on every small subdivision. Intensive farming is to be encouraged; and with their present control of the strawberry fields of many sections, the Japanese hope to be able to reach out and dictate the market rates on numerous Southern California products, as a northern Jap is doing on potatoes.

In the center of the first Japanese farm settlement is to be located a strictly Jap village, which will be a sort of chearing-house for all commercial transactions. A large boarding-house will care for the laborers, and the scheme plans for such control of the affairs of the colony that all its business may be handled exclusively by the Japanese.

Outside of the colonization scheme, the Japs now have control of 300 acres of land at Moneta, 500 at Tropico, and 300 acres each at Monrovia and Arcadia. It is expected that the new Japanese center will also handle much of the business of these leaseholds.

Within the next few weeks the Japanese Land Investment Company will begin building the first strictly Japanese business structure in Los Angeles. This will be located at the southwest corner of Jackson and North San Pedro streets, the first purchase of the company in this city.

The lot has a sixty-five foot frontage on San Pedro street, and extends 162 feet on Jackson. The whole space will be covered by the new block. It is to be a five-story brick and steel structure. The first floor will be divided into business rooms, and offices and suites of apartments will occupy the upper four stories.

PROFIT OFFERED ALREADY.

The lot was purchased shortly after the company was incorporated, September 22, and the purchase price was $22,000. Since obtaining possession of the property the company has received offers from American realty dealers, whereby it could have cleared up several thousand dollars profit; but believing the district one which will be the center of Jap activities for a long time to come, it decided to hold on to the place for a business center.

The annual meeting of the company will occur on January 9. At that time it is expected the capital stock will be largely increased, and provision will be made for the purchase of other properties which the company now has tied up with options.

In Los Angeles and immediate vicinity it is estimated there are more than 15,000 Japs; and they are coming in by almost every train. The ramifications of the Jap land company are extensive, as its cooperative plan causes its membership to extend clear to San Diego and into almost every Japanese settlement. The contributions of $5 per month from Jap laborers all over Southern California mean a source of income which allows for many realty speculations.

That this institution is a representative Japanese concern is shown by the personnel of its officers. Its president is S. Inouye, who is also president of the A.B.C. Trading Company of this city and the Yamato Company of Riverside. The secretary is H. T. Komai, one of the large contractors of Japanese labor in Southern California. The treasurer is T. Uchida, president of the Yamato Company of Los Angeles and a prominent merchant in Japanese goods. Other members of the board of directors include M. Takekawa, cashier of the Japanese-American Bank; G. Yuasa, editor of the Japanese American; J. Iimo, editor of the Daily Japanese New World; K. Eijima, cashier of the San Francisco Japanese Bank; S. Mihara, general contractor; and M. Kameoka, one of the most extensive of the Japanese farmers.

BEEKEEPERS MEET.

Andrews of Covina Re-elected President, Honey of Orange Secretary of the Association.

Election of officers and the discussion of various matters pertaining to bees and honey occupied the delegates to the seventeenth annual convention of the State Beekeepers' Association, in the committee room of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday morning. L. L. Andrews of Covina was re-elected president of the organization, E. A. Honey of Orange, secretary-treasurer. The several vice-presidents are not elected by the association. They are the county bee inspectors throughout the State.

The questions which came up for discussion related chiefly to diseases of the bee and methods of marketing honey.

Matters of commercial importance to beekeepers will come up at the annual meeting of the California National Honey Producers' Association, which is the executive branch of the State Beekeepers' Association. The convention will open January 2 in the Chamber of Commerce.

GRAND OFFICERS COMING.

B'nai B'rith Members Planning Various Social Events in Honor of Prominent Jewish Visitors.

Members of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith are planning for a series of social events upon the annual visitation of the grand officers of the order next week.

George N. Black of this city, who is the first grand vice-president of the Fourth District, including California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Utah, Nevada and British Columbia, is now in San Francisco and will accompany the other officers on the trip to Los Angeles. The visitors will be Grand President Benjamin Scholoss and Grand Orator Edmund Taussky.

A public meeting in the interest of the order of B'nai B'rith will be held in the Temple B'nai B'rith on Sunday evening, January 6, at which the visitors, Rabbi S. Hecht and other local speakers will give addresses, to be followed by a general reception.

On Monday evening the local lodge will tender to the visitors a banquet at Levy's; and on Tuesday night at the lodge hall, Pico and Flower streets, will take place the initiation of newly-elected officers, with the grand officers in charge.

Those to be installed are Julius R. Black, president; M. J. Finkenstein, vice-president; Ellis Elkeles, financial secretary; S. S. Maas, J. E. Jonas and M. Lustig, trustees.

Besides these formal gatherings there will be several private social affairs in honor of the visitors; and during one of the days a delegation of lodge members will accompany the grand officers on a trip to many of the points of interest surrounding the city.

"Washington had come to be filled with as fine a band of plunderers as ever besieged a National Congress."

Ida M. Tarbell.

In her new chapter of "The Tariff in Our Times" in THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE for January, Miss Tarbell tells of the raid of special interests on Congress in 1869.

It is not a pretty picture—this horde of railroad lobbyists, tax swindlers, land grant agents, and suppliants for government aid—all seeking to turn Congress into a Relief Bureau and to evade their just share of the War Debt.

But it is a true one, and makes vastly illuminating reading for the man who is puzzled about the railroad, trust and tax problems of the day. If you want a new outlook on these questions, by all means read Miss Tarbell in

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE

For January

Miss Tarbell's great political history is but one of the things that will make 1907 a notable year for The American Magazine. The work of the other Associate Editors promises to be quite as effective. Read Emporia and New York, William Allen White's witty contrast of life in the country with that of the metropolis; and An Extraordinary Experiment in Brotherhood, by Ray Stannard Baker, describing Mrs. Katherine Tingley's attempt to apply theosophy to actual life. Arethusa, a Princess in Slavery, F. Marion Crawford's new serial, is really a great piece of fiction. You must read this love story of old Constantinople. The Negro Crisis, by Washington Gladden, is a striking contribution to a vexed question.

Pen Points

Swear off swearing, you fellows who are in the habit of making the air blue.

From now on all the other booms would do well to steer clear of the Roosevelt boom.

Senator William A. Clark seems to be determined to do for Nevada what Montana did for him.

Constitutional government in Persia seems about to be inaugurated with the usual blood-spilling.

In making its reappearance in the trouble zone Lods need not hand in her card. She was expected.

If there is to be a potato war, let us look well to our ammunition chests. It will be dollars against tubers.

Perhaps the reason the anarchists in Chicago are fiercer than those in Russia is that it is safer in Chicago.

Jim Jeffries will not fight again for less than $50,000. It would take even more than that to make some men fight.

Jupiter Pluvius must be unusually sorry to see this year die. He seems to be absolutely unable to quit weeping over it.

While California farmers have been trying to corner a few Japs, the Jap seems to have been engaged in the cornering business himself.

Responsibilities must rest lightly on the incoming City Council. The members have already been assured that "Citizen Fixit" will attend to everything.

The attention of Congressman "Red" Hayes is called to the fact that a Japanese has cornered California spuds in restraint of trade and against the world's peace.

Are we to infer from remarks attributed to him by the Evening Express that Walter J. Wren has delegated himself as the sole spokesman for the new City Council?

It must help the Czar considerably to head off these secret plots against his throne, to have them announced in the newspapers in advance by the plotters themselves.

The Mayor-elect appears to be settled on at least two things, which are that Nathan Cole, Jr., and Dr. Edelman will be appointed to something, no matter how things go.

The front pages of the newspapers, these days, ought to make the best kind of reading for those who insist that the world is plunging headlong to the devil as fast as its legs can carry it.

A Chinese woman who says she is descended from the Duke of Chou claims to be the rightful Empress of China. At last reports, however, Tai An was not laying awake nights giving the matter consideration.

There are thousands upon thousands of acres of vacant land in California that are at least good for growing trees. And the man who has trees to sell twenty years from now will also have automobiles to ride in.

Taking into consideration the way things are balled up on the ground, there can be no question that the aërial navigation people are losing a good deal of valuable time, not to speak of the dividends they might be earning.

Lindsey Hicks, while in his living tomb in the Edison tunnel near Bakersfield, expressed a desire to come to Los Angeles as soon as his release could be effected. He felt just like those people in the East who are buried in winter.

With its water supply coming from the heart of the Sierras, and its sewage emptying into the sea, Los Angeles will be the most healthful city in the world, as well as the most beautiful and one of the greatest.

While Christmas brought an unusual amount of good cheer, charity and brotherly love with it, there was also a tremendous amount of hell-raising, if the press dispatches are a criterion. The conclusion is that the happier the world tries to be, the more disgruntled a certain class of people become.

Now that a statute has been discovered which prevents members of Congress who absent themselves from their seats from collecting their salaries, there will be some interest manifested in the question as to whether or not William R. Hearst will disgorge.

It is a memorable day when "Citizen Fixit"—he of the Municipal League—does not issue some sort of proclamation telling the citizens of Los Angeles what they ought to do. Now he appears to be aiming for another job and seeking to tie the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association to the tail of his kite. Why not appoint "Citizen Fixit" a perpetual commission to investigate everything and fix it? What's the use of having a City Council or a Board of Public Works or a Mayor?

ANONYMOUS, BUT GREAT.

This year's statistics, now quite complete, show that during 1906 the vast sum of $1,500,000 was given to charity and the cause of education by men and women who declined to have their names mentioned or published in connection with their beneficences. About $50,000,000 more was given to charity and education by people who sent in their names with their donations.

It would be unjust, of course, to withhold praise from those who gave and made themselves known in the giving. Men like Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Rockefeller and others of lesser wealth who quite invariably connect their names publicly with what they give are not to be denied the thanks and the gratitude which is their due. But the fact that a million and a half dollars was given away by people who preferred to remain unknown in their generosity is far more important to the world than that $50,000,000 was given by those who desired to have themselves published.

What is better still to know is the fact that these anonymous gifts to the welfare of the race were in many individual instances very large. One was $500,000, and several others exceeded $100,000 each. So it is seen that there are those who can give away a king's ransom and still be content to remain in obscurity.

Beyond a doubt the most difficult acquirement of human nature is self-effacement. Man is naturally vainglorious. He craves praise and longs for the acclaim of the populace. Even the man of good heart, who is gentle, kindly and generous, likes to have it known that he is in the habit of helping out his neighbor whenever the opportunity offers. This being true, what a hopeful sign it is that the world is growing greater in its nobility, to know that in one year alone, a million and a half in money was donated to charity and education anonymously. Evidently, when the Master spoke from the Mount long ago, that time in Galilee, His words fell not all among the cockles.

"Therefore," He said, "when thou doest thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. . . . But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth."

TWO POSSIBLE STORM CENTERS.

The New Year's sun bids fair to dawn next Tuesday morning on a brighter world outlook than on any New Year's Day in the history of our globe. But there are two little clouds no bigger than a man's hand, one far to the eastward and the other far to the westward, which have a more or less threatening aspect.

The news dispatches in the papers on Friday morning conveyed information seemingly from a well-informed source that the Russian peasantry is only taking a nap preparatory to an outbreak more general and terrible than any occurring heretofore. The revolutionary leader who makes this announcement states that the throne of the Russias is to be shaken and as he thinks into ruin.

From away west of us news is brought of the unusual activity in Japan, which is making headway in three separate directions. The army is to be enlarged far beyond the strength reached at the beginning of the war with Russia. At the same time the enlargement of the navy is to be carried on with still greater energy, and then third there is no end of industrial extension being planned for the immediate future.

These three lines of great activity in Japan will call for an amount of money astonishingly great for so poor a people to contemplate. The expenditure for the navy calls for $23,500,000 more than last year. The total money planned to spend on new ships is $100,000,000. The little island empire asks for an appropriation of nearly half a million dollars to send a squadron merely on a junketing trip to the United States next summer.

Both Russia and Japan are heavily overloaded with public debts. These are due for the most part to the United States, England and France. The total due from these two empires is of enormous proportions. The best informed persons in Japan look with much misgiving upon the incurring of further indebtedness. It is scarcely possible that Japan can raise a foreign loan from any source. The people of the United States were warned three years ago of the dangerous proceeding in lending the government of Japan the large sums of money that we put in their hands. We are beginning to see what we have done by this great liberality in enabling our rival for Pacific trade to build up both a navy and a commerce on the Pacific Ocean. England was better justified in aiding Japan for the reason that it was England's interest to have the Russian power crushed and she had little or nothing to fear from a people so remote from her own shores as Japan.

England is intent above all things upon maintaining the peace of the world. She has Russia put out of the question as regards war for the next quarter of a century. With this accomplished there is no further purpose in her aiding Japan to strengthen her power on either land or sea, especially on sea. Where Japan will get money to carry on this triple line of advancement is not easy to see. She can scarcely obtain it from her own people. If she attempts to finance these undertakings upon her own account, there is more than a little danger of an enormous crash which would bring everything to a standstill in Japan for a long time to come.

It is easy to recall that the industrial depression prevailing all over the world from 1890 to 1896 began far away from all the financial and industrial centers of the civilized world in the republic of Argentina. Similar undertakings had been going on there for a good many previous years. The Baring Brothers of London had financed these industrial undertakings in the South American republic. They proved to be unwise ventures; failure followed; and from the bankruptcy of that far-away and comparatively unimportant country, one nation after another, England first and ourselves last, suffered from the depression brought about by these extravagant undertakings in South America.

The two possibilities spoken of in Friday morning's dispatches, of a revolution in Russia and financial bankruptcy in Japan, could not take place without the most serious effects upon every country in the civilized world. Of course, they are only referred to as possibilities and rather remote ones. There is not enough surface indication at the present time to justify saying that either of these events is a probability. At the same time it will not do for the world to close its eyes to even such comparatively remote danger.

WORLD'S GREATEST SAILING FLEET.

Listening to the piteous plea of the ship subsidy beggars, one might be lead to believe that the American merchant marine has disappeared from the seas, and that a ship flying the American flag is about as rarely seen as a white crow. The actual fact is that there are more sailing vessels under the Stars and Stripes than any other nation on earth owns. The net sailing tonnage of the United States, as shown by Lloyd's Register, is 1,310,741. England comes second with 4324 tons less, Norway third with only about half the American tonnage, and Germany a bad fourth with 471,000 tons. There is more sailing tonnage under the American flag than is owned by Germany, France, Russia, Denmark, Holland, Belgium and Austria combined.

In steam tonnage England is far ahead of all other countries, with Germany second and the United States third. England builds and operates steam vessels more economically than other countries because she has to do so. She is necessarily a trader and carrier, and maritime commerce is her specialty. Having no great internal resources to develop, the energies of the English people have been directed naturally and necessarily to the building up of the carrying trade.

The American people have been busy for the last half century in opening up a continent, producing raw material and building factories, and they have not been forced by pressure of population in a restricted area to take to the open sea for a living, as have the British islanders.

We have not built so many steamships as have the islanders, not because we could not build them, but because we have not needed to do so, and because we have had other things to do. It has been cheaper to hire the English to carry our products to foreign markets and to bring us the goods we need than to do it ourselves.

But we have developed an enormous trade along our own coasts, and have built the greatest sailing fleet in the world to carry it on. Our entire merchant marine, steam and sailing, exceeds the combined tonnage of France and Russia, which is fairly good evidence that the American hasn't forgotten how to build ships nor how to sail them.

The American merchant marine needs no wet nursing. When capital seeking investment finds it more profitable to go to sea than to build railroads and factories and open up mines ashore, American ship yards will have plenty to do and it will not be necessary to bribe any one to fly the Stars and Stripes over deep water.

CALIFORNIA'S CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

The State of California should be the most jubilant these holiday times of all her sisters in the great American Union. Providence has been lavishing upon the State a Christmas present more extravagantly liberal than usually falls to the lot of any people. From the Oregon to the Mexican line and from the mountain tops to the breakers on the ocean shore the whole State has been drenched with an abundant and warm rain, practically assuring us abundant crops of every kind throughout the whole extent of the State. Not only this, but the snows covering all the mountain slopes insure water for the operation of the mines along these mountain sides during the whole of the coming summer.

Here in Southern California this is the second soaking downpour of the rainy season. They have come almost exactly a month apart and they have fallen with a moderate gentleness which has permitted almost every drop to soak into the ground where it will be treasured for the maturing of the crops all the way from May to next October. At the present time the seasonal rainfall in Southern California ranges from 6 to 10 inches on the plains and to perhaps as high as 15 inches in the higher mountain ranges. This is from two to three times more than at the same date a year ago. Taking the State as a whole, about the same conditions prevail, the rainfall being from two to four times greater than during the holiday season at the close of the last year.

The southern part of the State has had but few drenching seasons of rain in seventeen years. The last flood year was in 1889 and with the exception of 1893 there has been no season of more than an average rainfall since then. Indeed most seasons have fallen decidedly below the general average. During the past sixteen years the general scantiness of the rainfall has lowered the average of the thirty-year period by nearly an inch. We could very well stand this season a rainfall of from 20 to 25 inches. Of course, the rainy season is really but just begun. We have three coming months during which the precipitation is usually on a liberal scale.

THE CUBAN SITUATION.

The news from the island of Cuba is decidedly disquieting. The people of the island, that is the majority of them, seem utterly unable to grasp the problem of self-government. This is not an unexpected outcome of the liberation of the island and the putting of its affairs into the hands of the inhabitants. While there is a considerable element of highly intelligent and patriotic persons among the people of Cuba, that class is decidedly in the minority. The large majority are the opposite type of men. They are of all colors and mixtures of colors. They have had no experience in self-government; they are uneducated; and in thousands of instances brutally vicious.

The latest dispatch from Havana ends by stating that "Farce and comedy are chasing themselves upon the Cuban political stage. The play amuses and entertains but grows stale, or rather the audience grows impatient for the last act." The Cuban people would better realize that the last act is likely to be neither farce nor comedy; the curtain is likely to fall upon a bloody tragedy. The United States government is responsible to the world for the good behavior of the people of Cuba. The American people are not noted for shirking responsibilities or failing to do their duty. We have not the least desire in the world to interfere in any way with the internal affairs of the island any further than the people of the island make our interference a necessity. Peace must be kept in Cuba; the investments made by outsiders must be safeguarded; the developments of the island's industry must be permitted to go on without interruption; and above all, not only the property of foreigners but their lives and personal safety must be guaranteed. We are the guarantors and we shall see that the necessary conditions are maintained upon the island of Cuba. It may seem a comedy to the streaked half-breeds who are creating these disturbances, but if the United States sends a fleet convoying transports with a lot of Texas rangers and Rough Riders from Arizona and the cowboy States, then there will be something doing in Cuba besides laughing at the farce.

NEWEST PHASE OF THE JAPANESE CRISIS.

THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER.

A Good Sort of a Man.

We may find fault with the things you do,
There may be times when we could censure you,
And there may be folk who can quickly see
You're not as good as you ought to be,
For the best of us have a fault or two,
And each man on earth must possess a few.
But you can't be wholly, blindly bad
If you've got a boy that calls you "Dad."

It's a homely word, but a shibboleth
Of the good in you, on his boyish breath,
And we know that he with his mystic art
Has the inner view of your hidden heart,
That he sees some trait that the world can't find—
For the world, you know, is too often blind—
And you're not a chump, and you're not a cad,
If you've got a boy that calls you "Dad."

You may be blunt and you may be gruff,
And you may downtown be considered rough,
And your friends—ah, they will take quickest note
Of the blot or blur, or the scar or mote—
Your friends may sigh as they sadly tell
Of the failings which they can see so well—
But you've got one thing that they never had
If you've got a boy that calls you "Dad."

He, a boy knows men as a man may not,
And he knows the soul and the heart you've got,
And he never asks that you analyze
What you do or say, but he trusts his eyes
And he banks his hope and his faith and trust
On your deeds and words—and a boy is just.
And you need not be full of gloom, or sad,
If you've got a boy that calls you "Dad."

And you'll notice this, if you've such a boy,
That the world is tuned to the song of joy,
That you've got good friends, that you have few foes,
That you stand up firm to misfortune's blows—
Yes, the best of us have a fault or two
And each man on earth must possess a few
But you've got good cause to be mighty glad

The Advantage of Wealth.

"I observe," said Old Man Giddles, "that the richest man in the country has been interviewed, and that he has abandoned his usual custom of letting his money talk for him. He says we are too prosperous—which is something they'll have to tell me a great many times before they get me to believe it. But the one point on which I rise to make these few remarks is this: When the gentleman was asked whether we are drifting, or words to that effect, he is quoted as replying:

"'Etaiounununplhmgfd.'

"For the moment contemplate the awful arrogance of wealth, as well as the splendid isolation of self-complacency which enables a man to turn aside a soft question with the blunt, crushing 'Etaiounununplhmgfd.' If I were to ask a man a question and he should tell me that I should immediately do one of two things: I should shrink and shrivel until I left nothing but my hat and clothes to bear mute witness to my having existed, or I should arise in the might of a free-born citizen and make him eat his word.

"Suppose you or I should get the Etaiounununplhmgfd habit. Where would we get off? If the grocer or the butcher or the baker meekly inquired whither we were drifting and intimated that we ought to drift his way with that little balance, how far would we get with him if we told him to Etaiounununplhmgfd?

"If anybody else asked us anything, poor men as we are, and we used such language, wouldn't we be looking into the eyes of twelve good men and true before another week?

"Still, that may be the only happiness money can buy."

THE RAMBLER.

The Cricket.

The cricket is the poet of the year,
And sings one perfect lyric, sweet and brief,
When April buds are flushed in tender leaf,
Or when October fields are turning sere.
The gladness of the earth he chants, the cheer
That holds no fellowship with hopeless grief.
He sings of rain and sun on bending wheat,
And cold autumnal twilights, crisp and clear.

O poet true, whose theme is never dope,
Thy sweet recurrent word hath magic power
To drive the clouds of doubt and bring the sun,
And glorify for us the heavy hour.
New hopes are reaching upward, one by one,
As bright and fragrant as a spring-time flower!

Told Over the Turkey.

The huge Christmas turkey was disappearing with startling rapidity. Don, the Scotch collie, relegated to the rug before the open fire, watched the happily hungry guests with jealous, uneasy eyes. The skeleton would ultimately be his, he knew—but would those gluttonous outsiders leave any pickings on the bones? He had his doubts, and every now and then a suppressed "Wow!" of protest could be heard.

"Why, Don," said his master, reprovingly, "I never suspected you of such selfish ill-breeding! You surely would not have us stint our guests?"

Don hung his head, closing his eyes in resignation.

"A remarkably intelligent brute," said the man with the drumstick, regarding Don with the fond appreciation of a true lover of dogs. "He reminds me of a dog I once knew in Ohio. Hector was a collie, too, almost as fine a specimen as Don here. —is intelligence was wonderful.

"Hector was owned by my grandmother, and these two were generally the best of friends. But a certain cushioned easy chair, in a sunny window, once became a bone of contention between them, and a cause for strategy, if not for actual warfare. Hector used to appropriate this chair, and would not leave it when my grandmother wanted it. She simply could not oust him—neither threats nor blows were of the slightest avail.

"Then grandmother hit upon a brilliant plan of action. Hector was snoozing comfortably in the chair one day, when she hurried into the room, calling out, with well-feigned excitement, 'Cats, cats!'

"Hector was out like a flash, and grandmother triumphantly took possession of the vacant chair.

"But the intelligent dog remembered how he had been tricked, and did some thinking on his own account, too. A day or two later, finding grandmother once more in the coveted chair, he put his own little ruse into operation. Rushing to the window, he began to bark violently. Of course, grandmother's curiosity was thoroughly aroused. She left the chair in haste, and when she came back Hector was in it, pretending to be sound asleep.

"He who says that animals don't reason," the man with the drumstick concluded (though he had now also become the man with the wing,) "is certainly not a very close observer of their actions. They do reason, and often as intelligently as we humans."

Resolutions.

Well, what if you make 'em to smash 'em and break 'em? What though you forget 'em tomorrow? They may be a bracer, a solace, a stay, sir, a spar in the sea, son, of sorrow. So scratch 'em down gladly, not grumpily, sadly, as if they were blotting out heaven. The old year is going, and soon you'll be knowing that flip little rascal '07.

He'll give you the wink, sir; he'll ask you to drink, sir; he'll offer you rope in cheroots. But say to him: "Nixy! You're foxy and tricksy—a'count with your junketing toots! I've writ resolutions that even the Rooshians, with dynamite, couldn't demolish; I'm rounding a sentence of earnest repentance, and giving it point by its polish."

'07, on the morrow, will beg, steal or borrow that document rich with effusions. He'll take it and tear it, and slyly declare it held nothing but foolish delusions. My son, do not heed him, but smilingly read him the riot you kept in reserve. When he sees you mean business, 'twill cause him dizziness, but you'll win the victory you deserve.

Complied With Request.

She had just returned from the blackboard, where for five minutes she had been demonstrating a problem which to her very youthful mind seemed difficult.

"Now, children, are you positive sure that you understand?"

There was a murmur of assent.

"Do any of you wish to ask a question?"

In the back of the room a small hand was raised aloft. The teacher, looking into the earnestly eager face that glow of satisfaction which comes from experience in assisting a budding intellect.

"What is it, Annie? What do you wish to know?"

"Miss M——, are your teeth false?" demanded the earnest little questioner in a shrill treble.—[Lippincott's Magazine.

MIDWINTER NUMBER.

The Midwinter Number of the Times, to be published on January 1, will fully sustain the reputation earned by these special editions of The Times, during the past seven years. It will contain a mass of valuable information concerning Los Angeles and Southern California, presented in attractive, readable form. The number will consist of a seven bound magazine section, printed in form to the Sunday issue of the magazine, aggregating over 200 pages, with a special part devoted to the city of Sonora, in addition to the regular news sheets. There will be many full-page illustrations.

It is unnecessary to say that this is an exceptional opportunity for advertisers desiring to reach the eyes of the thousands of people in the mountains, who are hungry for information about Southern California. No advertisements for the Midwinter Number can be received after December 27.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Children's Day.

A posy garden filled with little human flowers, round baby faces, surrounded with huge perky bows of pink and blue, dancing little feet, eager, wide-open eyes, little sister in party dress, little brother in best attire, proud mothers and fonder grandmothers were seen at the Ebell auditorium Saturday afternoon. It was the very prettiest day of all the year for Ebell members and Ebell members, for the occasion children's party is the prettiest bit of child play ever seen. Yesterday was given over entirely to the little people.

The front seats were ribboned off for their accommodation, and the program was arranged especially for their delight by Mrs. William S. Cross and other child lovers, Misses Marion and Agnes Green. Suddenly the piano struck up an old-fashioned air, and a troop of merry cvhildren came on the stage and played that old English favorite, "Oats, peas, beans and barley grow." What a good time they had during the game, and what pretty little boys and happy little boys they were. The audience craned its neck and perched up in its chair, and, when the game was over, there was a burst of merry laughter that bubbled and rippled in natural childish glee.

The children who played the game were Alice Wright, Marian Kellogg, Marjolyn Grady, Dorothy Davis, Elizabeth Keys, Corinne Eisenmeyer, Marian Ashley, Katherine Ashley, Louise McCarthy, Helen Blakeslee, Ruth Myers, Marjorie Smith, Edna Hooker and Roger Johnson.

Then came a little German dance or two, merrily tripped by Roger Johnson and Dorothy Davis, while the other children behind the scenes sang the little song that accompanied it. "The Bridge of Avignon" was one of the prettiest of all. It was danced by tiny dames with powdered hair and ruffled petticoats, and two very little men in knee breeches and long-tailed satin coats and wigs. The stately minuet finished this star performance, with bows and graces quite to match. Eleanor McCormick and Ida Crary, with Peyton Hawes and Alfred Bowles were the particular delight of the tiniest mite of the four, little Ruth McCormick, waving her bit of fan and directing her partner, and pulling him into place when he was to though the whole performance rested upon her bewitching little shoulders.

At the end of this dance the audience swelled to larger proportions and produced the most rapturous demand and the affair had to be gone over with again.

"Whoop, Whish!" Every one proceeded to shudder, for ten wild Indians came rushing on the stage. They had wondrous feather headpieces and were brandishing the most dangerous of bows and arrows as though they were for gore. But, alas! Some one sang the familiar classic, "One little, two little, three little Indians," and one by one the braves had to die. First went an arrow, and a chief dropped in his tracks, to rise no more. In several cases he was able to sit up and see the rest die. It was great sport, and especially enjoyed by the small boy contingent. The war party which met with extinction was composed of Columbus Ames, Oliver Ames, Harold Blakeslee, Jack Blakeslee, Jack Vansant, Lyman Bixbur, Oliver Johnson, Samuel Charles Henry Edmunds, Verdi Ames and Walter Moroose.

"The Wheel of the Year" was a pretty little play, written by Miss Ashby and presented by the children. A group of little time fairies fluttered in and began to work on the wheel. Miss Ashby was the beautiful Spirit Ames was one of the hours, Louise McCarthy and Helen Blakeslee were the seconds, and the tiny minutes were: Marian Kellogg, Marjolyn Grady, Laura Myers and Dorothy Smith; Miss Marian Green was the part of Old Father Time. Time came in to see if the wheel of the year is done. The Herald, Edwin Ames, announced the advent of the year, and Father Time gave a spoke to wheel to each month of the year.

The months made a hit. January was little Arillus Haskill, as Jack Frost; Wilmer Bennett was the month of storms; March, the windy one, was Ruth Blakeslee, with a great deal of fly; April had an umbrella, and as you peeped under, there was Helen Blakeslee; Ruth Allen was May, with her spring flowers, and June, whose was the sweetest little face of all ever was seen, with roses and posies from head to foot; Marjorie Myers was dressed in an American flag, for she was July, that has a glorious Fourth, when boys spend their pennies to celebrate; little William Ames, with beautiful dimples in his fat face, was August, in bathing suit. He was pleased with all the applause he received at the front for a moment, bowing the audience, looking with his dear face to reassure him in the midst of such popularity; Alice Vansant was a dear little school girl. September, just as September should be, and Margaret Kellogg was October, with bright autumn leaves blown about her white dress; Corinne Bixbur made a beautiful little November maid, for she was November and tell about the first Thanksgiving and dear little Paul Wilbur Ames came and brought up the rear, a fascination of months.

The New Year, a fascinating mite, Miss Margaret Hawes, was greeted by all the players marched down the auditorium and led a grand march about the room and then upstairs to the other part of the building where ice cream, pink and white, and other delicacies awaited them. Their table, from the tiniest up to the boys and girls, at a table to themselves, were wreathed in smiles. And the more became toys and candy and money and all sorts of things came in a huge pile downstairs for some less fortunate little folks on the very same day.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

The Times freely publishes the views of correspondents without holding itself responsible for them. Letters should be brief, write plainly, and the space of 250 words, as the limit allowed for the expression of an opinion or the presentation of a point. Writers may be liable to be declined entirely on account of their length.]

A Timely Word.

ALHAMBRA (Cal.) Dec. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Your Friday's issue contains the statement that Harriman is to choose the break of the Colorado and trust to luck for part of the money to be returned. I am wondering if the howlers about "railroad bond holders" and "railroad wreckers" will cease their howlings when they see that for the railroad companies alone a couple of millions for the benefit of the country, I am as old as the railroad in this country and know what they have accomplished with them success.

Silks, Plain and Fancy, At Half

Naturally enough after such a whirl of business as this silk section enjoyed before Christmas, there are left the most and the finest remnants of all sorts we ever had on hand. And they must go—we've no room for oddments in a stock from which the most critical women of Southern California do their buying.

So if you can possibly use lengths of from 1½ to 15 yards of plain black silks in this season's most favored weaves, white silks in taffeta, messaline, louisine, etc., handsome crepes de chine, checks, stripes, pompadours, warp prints and all the other beautiful silks we've displayed so lavishly this fall and winter, be on hand early today, for every piece is half its usual fair price.

Values range from 75c to $1.50, today 37½c to 75c a yard.

$45 Suits for $25

Do you want to make $25 do the work of $45—almost twice its value? If so, here is the chance, in our pre-inventory sale of the season's best suits for which we've been getting between $32.50 and $45.00, at $25.00.

There isn't a poor style among the lot—any woman familiar with out splendid stocks won't need to be told that, every suit is this season's style (no hold-overs here) and every one fully worth what we originally marked it. All the fashionable colors and materials are represented, of course.

Another group of $48 to $72.50 suits is selling for $38, and $25 to $32.50 suits are marked $18.50. Plenty of separate skirts specially reduced, too.

Bargains in Men's Furnishings

Men's fancy vests—we sold hundreds of them recently, and some of those in the number that are left show signs of handling over; a trip to the laundry will quickly right that, however, and you get a bargain because of it. Third off for any of the handsome patterns on display.

If you can wear any of these odd sizes in men's wool underwear, we will pay you liberally to take them away. As good to you as is we had all sizes, of course.

Men's outing flannel night shirts, in extra lengths, new patterns, good value at $1, specially marked at 75c each.

Extra weight outing flannel outing flannel night skirts, 60 inches long, cut bell shape, extra good at $1.50, specially priced at $1 each.

ANDERSON & CHANSLOR GROCERS

BIBLE LESSONS.

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHERS AND OTHER BIBLE STUDENTS.

Prepared for The Times by J. S. Kirtley.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 30.

FOREWORD

The lessons begin with the Tuesday of his last week and close with the ascension, a period of about eight weeks. The most colossal events of human history occurred in those fifty-five days.

HIS LAST TEACHINGS.

1. About the great commandments. Mark xii, 28-44. It was on Tuesday, the day of conflicts. His enemies were trying to entrap Him into saying something that would offend the people and violate some of their laws, in order that they could arrest Him without being mobbed by His enthusiastic admirers.

Questions had been asked Him and he had humiliated the questioners. But here is a proper question asked by a discreet exponder of the law, in a seemingly good spirit. Jesus gives the answer and clears up many problems. The greatest of all the commandments is that which seeks to put us in right relations with God and the next greatest is the one that sets us right with men. That which makes us right in both cases is love. Love for God must be as far above love for self as God is above us and love for others must be the same as love for self, because they are on a level with us. It is clear to every one that this view of the matter is right. Other duties wait upon these two in one. When one loves that way he will refrain from injuring the object loved; he will be led to perform all duties. It is not surprising that the scribe saw the fine discrimination of the Master and admired Him or that Jesus should say that the man was close to the great kingdom of love. Yet one can be near it in his perception of its character without submitting himself to its loving requirements.

(2.) About preparation for the great emergencies.

This was in the parable of the Ten Virgins (Mat. xxv, 1-13.) The great emergency before the disciples was twofold, that of the destruction of Jerusalem and that of his further coming in power. He himself had brought up the former subject as they left the city that Tuesday afternoon and noticed the beautiful stones of the temple and they brought up the latter subject, as they now stood on the Mount of Olives overlooking the city, that same afternoon on the way over to Bethany to spend the night. They wanted to know as to the time and the details; He told them how to be ready for it, and that was far more important to them. They must be ready for any emergency—for long delays and sudden surprises, just as five of the young ladies, invited to the wedding, made only the ordinary preparation and the other five took along extra oil in their vessels in addition to what was in their lamps. It was a matter of destiny with them.

(3.) About Fidelity to Opportunity.

That was in the parable of the money. (Mat. xxv: 14-30.) It followed upon the parable of the young ladies invited to the wedding. The money was in the largest denomination, called a talent, the gold talent being equal in purchasing power to about $1,000 of our money today. This rich man gave out the money to the men as they were able to take care of it, and the arrangement was fair and right. He owned the men and their time, the money and its time. When he returns he should have the men and the money back and something additional to show for their time—in each case more man and more money. He will get it, if they are faithful. They are able, for he knows them; they have the opportunity, for he has given it to them, just suited to each one's ability. On his return, he found that two men, with different ability, had been equally faithful and in each case he got back the man and the money together with more man and more money. He rewarded each one with approval, with privilege, with fellowship, and with more opportunity. In the case of the other man he got back only the money—nothing to show for the money's time, nothing for the man's time, not even the man, for he was atrophied into uselessness.

HIS FESTAL OCCASIONS.

(1.) The Feast in Bethany.

There He was anointed by Mary. (Mat. xxvi: 6-14.) The whole occasion was opportune, and a preparation for the ordeal coming on. He was among appreciative friends; He was the guest of honor; He was given the finest token of sympathetic and intelligent love He had ever received; He saw the evil genius of His company partly revealed in his true light, and that was a relief. The complaint of the traitor at the waste was contagious but not fatal. The deed of devotion was a blessing to Jesus, as it anticipated His death; it was an object lesson to all who saw or have read about it; it stimulated an interest in the poor that has been bringing them manifold love and kindness ever since.

2. The Last Passover and the First Lord's Supper. (Mat. 26: 17-30.)

His disciples were His family and He longed to celebrate the Passover with them, because He was a good Jew, and loved to commemorate God's past mercies, while He was also the real Passover lamb that was to be slain for the deliverance of the people from their sins. At that supper He taught the lesson of humble service by washing the feet of the disciples. At the close of that supper He identified the traitor to Himself and allowed Him to leave the room. Then He put the elements of bread and wine to a new use—made them stand for His own body and blood to be given up for them in death. This was followed by the long talk in which He sought to show them how they were knit to Him and to each other and to the Father and to heaven and by a prayer in which He lifted them to God.

HIS SUFFERING AND SHAME.

1. Gethsemane.

In Mat. 26: 36-50 we find one account. It must have been just about the midnight hour, that Thursday night, April 6 A. D. 30. He gave Himself to His destiny. He came to this olive orchard where He had often prayed, because He knew He was to be arrested and He would be in prayer there. He was beginning to suffer that something He called death, separation from God with the sins of men upon Him. Through prayer He was able to compose Himself though He still held on to His purpose to save men at any cost and He never lost His confidence in God. He suffered death in advance. There was the shame of being left alone by His weak disciples, betrayed by a former friend, deserted by all the disciples and carried like a criminal before a court that had already decided to put Him to death.

[illegible] oedurbe enkern CIucCfi-grina

2. Before Caiaphas. (Mat. 26:57-68.)

They took Him from Gethsemane to Annas, the ex-high priest, whose judgment and influence they wanted in framing a charge and carrying it through. They charged Him with blasphemy in saying He would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days. He did not say it. Then they passed Him on to Caiaphas, the high priest, who finally got witnesses to swear to the charge. Men who were bitter enemies to each other, united against Him; told a lie; got others to swear to it; doomed Him to death, although He was the very one they and their fathers had been looking for through the anxious centuries. After the informal session of the Sanhedrin a regular session was held after day-light as required by law. At that time the decision was confirmed and Jesus was sent bound to Pilate.

3. Before Pilate. Luke 23:13-25.

They could not put Him to death without the sanction of the Roman government and Pilate their Governor, had come up from Caesarea. He was irritated that the Jewish officials wanted him to confirm their decision without knowing the charge, and also that they would expect him to act on such a patent trick as they were trying to play on him. He was still more angry that they wanted him to condemn an innocent man and thus gratify their malice. He was still more angry that they put him in a corner and compelled him to condemn Jesus or appear to be harboring a rival of Caesar's and an insurgent against the Roman government. After making several distinct efforts to save Jesus—one of which was to send Him to Herod, who was then on a visit to Jerusalem, and Jesus was from Herod's province—but finally he had to decide whether he would do right or run the risk of losing his position. He yielded. During the time Jesus suffered all kinds of coarse and cruel indignities.

4. On the cross (Luke 23:32-46.)

Love was slain by hatred. But that gave love its supreme opportunity to slay hatred, as with His cross Jesus has been doing ever since. He showed His divine character and His mission by praying for forgiveness for His enemies, by having the desperado at His side; by entering into the agony of separation from God, and by laying down His life of His own free will. In that death, the basis for His future work for man, was laid.

HIS GLORY AND HONOR.

(1.) His resurrection. (Mat. xxviii, 1-15.)

He rose by His own power. That spirit of His gathered the body and spiritualized it and made it live. Because it was necessary in order to finish His work, and present a perfect humanity to God; because He said He would rise again. He did it though His enemies did everything they could to prevent it, with stone and seal and soldiers. He restored Himself to His disciples in such various ways that at the end of forty days He could leave them. He seems to have begun with those who needed Him most and could scatter the news most widely and quickly. He met them by ones and twos, and increasing numbers till He showed Himself to above five hundred.

(2.) His ascension. (Luke xxiv, 36-53.)

He belonged to heaven and His body was now fitted to live there. He would ascend by spiritual gravitation unless He compelled himself to stay here. He can do His work on earth from there a great deal better. The Holy Spirit can spiritualize Him, but if He were here He would be localized and that would limit His work. As He left them in clouds and with angels, He will so return.

LESSONS FROM THE LESSONS.

(1.) That the kingdom of love is for those who are willing to live under the law of love.

(2.) That no one is ready for life at all without being ready for its emergencies and ready all the time.

(3.) That the best kind of ability is reliability.

(4.) That nothing is wasted that expresses and stimulates love to Christ.

(5.) That Jesus provides us with a lasting memorial of His devotion to us.

(6.) That He who never failed us when our all was at stake expects us to be equally true, now that His interests are in our hands.

(8.) That no one can do wrong and escape responsibility for it.

(9.) That the love which can voluntarily submit to death for others is able to do anything else for them.

(11.) That as He was God's man on earth, He is man's God in heaven.

Christian Endeavor.

A HUMBLE HERO.

Terse Comments on the Uniform Prayer-meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies for December 30. "Carey and Mission to India." Isa. liv: 2, 3.

By William T. Ellis.

It is but little more than 100 years ago that India's pioneer missionary sailed from England to enter upon his life work in that country. Discouraged by public sentiment in England, the missionary enterprise in India was slow in unfolding, but the advent of missionaries in that country marks the actual beginning of the great Protestant missionary movement of modern times. The name of the first English missionary in India, William Carey, stands foremost in the annals of missionary achievement.

William Carey was born in England in 1761, the son of a weaver, and early in his boyhood he was apprenticed to a shoemaker, lacking thus all advantages of education: Poverty, however, did not prevent him from pursuing his studies, having as the ideal of his life the preaching of the gospel. As he worked day by day at the humble cobbler's bench he made himself familiar with Latin, Greek and Hebrew, while near at hand hung a large home-made map of the world which he covered with notes regarding the religion, population and condition of the different countries.

The shoemaker soon became a preacher, which, he was wont to remark, was the business of his life, while he merely cobbled shoes to pay expenses. The great passion of his life, however, was mission work in foreign lands, and he was but awaiting the opportunity which should open to him the door to this new field of labor.

"Expect great things from God; attempt great things for God," was the text of Carey's famous sermon at Nottingham, as a result of which the first English missionary society was formed in 1792, and Carey was at once sent to India as its first representative.

All Europeans not in public service were at this time forbidden to set foot in the East India Company's territories in India, without special license. So inflexible was the official opposition to the missionaries that Carey and his companion, an English surgeon, John Thomas, were obliged on their arrival in Calcutta to register as indigo planters to avoid expulsion. For six years this young missionary, the one representative of Christian England in India, was obliged to lay aside his cherished plans and to engage in the occupation of the planter. In this obscure way began the work of English missions in the great empire.

Carey's familiarity with the language soon won for him a position as professor in Fort William College, Calcutta, for which he received a salary of $2000 a year. For himself and family he reserved $200 a year, giving the remainder to the missionary work.

Carey was an evangelist, a preacher and a teacher, but his great achievement was translation. This "consecrated cobbler," as he was sneeringly called by Sydney Smith, translated the Bible into twenty-four languages and dialects of India, thus opening the scriptures to 200,000,000 human beings. His success as a translator has won for Carey the title of "the Wycliffe of the East."

After seven years' residence in India Carey was joined by two other missionaries sent out by the English Baptist Society, Marshman and Ward. Having been ordered to leave the country, these two men had taken refuge at Serampore, and here they were joined by Carey, who was also glad to escape from British hostility. Together these three men lived and worked as missionary statesmen, breaking every path which has since become a highroad of missionary activity in India. They laid the foundation for almost every subsequent missionary endeavor, whether in school or college, in organizing native preachers and workers, or in endeavoring to abolish the crimes committed in the name of the Hindu religion.

A characteristic story is told of Carey in connection with his efforts to abolish the custom of the burning of widows on the funeral pyre of their husbands. When, in 1829, the government sent him for translation a proclamation fixing the penalty for this act, he threw off his gown, despite the fact that it was Sunday, and at once began to work instead of to preach, lest another life be lost through delay.

Christian England laughed when Sydney Smith sneered at William Carey as a "considered cobbler," going on a fool's errand to convert the heathen. But when Carey died at the age of 73 years, he was visited by the bishop of India, the head of the Church of England in that land, who humbly invoked the blessing of the dying missionary. Carey had been denied a landing place when he arrived in India, but when he died the government dropped all its flags to half-mast in honor of a man who had done more for India than any of their generals. The universities of England, Germany and America paid tribute to his learning, and today Protestant Christianity honors him as one of its noblest pioneers.

NEWS AND NOTES.

Philadelphia druggists have organized to secure one day of rest in seven, preferably Sunday. They have asked the cooperation of the public, stating that many of their customers are church members.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon of Omaha, who first came into public notice as the author of the book, "What Would Jesus Do?" is to visit England next March on a three months' mission in behalf of temperance reform.

Union Seminary, in New York City, will hereafter make provision for lectures on Baptist polity, for the benefit of the group of Baptist students usually enrolled in its classes. The lectures will be given by Dr. Edward Judson.

Von Ogden Vogt, who succeeded John Willis Baer as general secretary of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, has now resigned that office to take charge of the young people's department of the Presbyterian board of home missions.

An American sculptor, Thomas Ball has recently completed a study of Christ chiding Martha, which possesses peculiar interest from the fact that the work was begun fifty-three years ago. Not until the present time has the sculptor been able to satisfactorily work out his conception of this subject.

The fact that America, through its missions, puts as much money into India as England does, and draws out nothing, whereas England draws out $100,000,000 a year, was cited by W. J. Bryan as evidence that the United States was the most altruistic nation in the world, when this statement was challenged by a group of Anglo-Indian officials in India.

A movement was started in New York City during the past month whose threefold object is a campaign of education among laymen concerning missions, devising a comprehensive plan to send the Christian gospel to the entire non-Christian world during the next twenty-five years, and to organize a commission of fifty or more laymen to visit the mission fields and to report from these to the church at home. Many of the men present at this conference are widely known in the business world in the United States and Canada, and resolutions were adopted by the meeting declaring the duty of responsible business and professional men to secure the best results from the missionary agencies now at work.

CHURCH SERVICES.

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 30.

ST. PAUL'S PRO-CATHEDRAL, 328 S. Olive st. The Very Rev. J. J. Wilkins, D.D., dean and rector. Sunday, December 30. Holy communion, 7:30 a.m.; Sunday-school, 9:30 a.m.; morning prayer and sermon, 11 a.m., young people's meeting, 6:45 p.m.; evening prayer and sermon, 7:30 p.m. In the morning the Rt. Rev. J. H. Johnson, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Los Angeles, will preach. The organ, the Rev. T. M. Hilliman, will preach in the evening. All are welcome. Strangers are invited to tarry a few moments after service to meet the clergy. On Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, December 31, there will be a social gathering in the parish house, followed by holy communion in the Pro-Cathedral at midnight. All members of the congregation and their friends are cordially invited to be present. 29

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, FLOWER ST. between 7th and 8th. Dr. Northrop preaches at 11 and 7:30. Tourists and Baptist newcomers are especially welcome. This church is known as the young man's church home. The young men of the congregation take great pleasure in welcoming young men to all services. Sunday-school occurs at 9:30. Each class has a room by itself and well-chosen teachers; a fine orchestra makes one forget they are away from home. Come to all our services and make yourself feel at home. We need you and you need us. 29

TEMPLE BAPTIST CHURCH, TEMPLE Auditorium, corner Fifth and Olive. Preaching at 11 and 7:30 by Pastor Robert J. Burdette. Bruno Oerder, Kingsley, musical director. Topic of morning sermon, "The Old and the New." Evening sermon, "A New Year Runaway Sale." Mrs. Walter Raymond will sing at the morning service. Come early and hear the New Year chimes on the great Austin organ. Last Sunday evening a thousand people were turned away, but there is room and welcome for all who come early. 29

IMMANUEL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, corner of 10th and Figueroa sts. Rev. Hugh K. Walker, D.D., the pastor, will preach tomorrow at 11 o'clock a.m. and at 7:30 o'clock p.m.; subjects, morning, "The Interpretation and Measure of a Man's Life;" evening, "The House that We Built." Strangers are especially invited to attend the services of our church. The chorus will assist the quartette in the evening service. 29

CREDIT MEN GIVE CREDIT.

At Annual Banquet Present W. C. Mushet With Silver Set and Compliments of Worth.

The Los Angeles Board of Trade and the Credit Men's Association held their annual Christmas banquet and high jinks at Levy's last night. More than eighty representative citizens gathered around the lavishly-decorated banqueting board to celebrate and at the same time do honor to the retiring secretary of the board, W. C. Mushet, who, on the first of the year, will assume the duties of City Auditor. At the same time a surprise was sprung on Mr. Mushet, for he was presented by the members of both associations with a magnificent silver set and an immense cut-glass punch bowl and glasses.

Herman Flateau of the M. A. Newmark Company made the presentation address. He prefaced his remarks by solemnly asserting that he regretted the fact that he was compelled to make serious charges against a prominent member of the association, whereupon certain of the members present who had declared themselves opposed to the provisional contract act, the passage of which is agitating mercantile circles, glanced guiltily at each other. He eventually made his meaning clear, for, during the course of his address he accused Mr. Mushet of "flirting with that "aged and fickle Dame Politics." Mr. Flateau spoke eloquently and drew continuous applause from his auditors. Before presenting the gift of the association he told Mr. Mushet a great many things which must have sounded sweet in the ears of that much embarrassed gentleman.

He also spoke of Mr. Mushet's election and said: "In your case the office was seeking the man and not the man the office. The Board of Trade has lost a most efficient secretary and the City of Los Angeles has gained a most efficient official. I express the wish of every one who is present tonight and of the entire membership of the association, when I ask you to always remain with us. I wish you to accept these gifts on behalf of the Credit Men's Association and Wholesalers Board of Trade."

Mr. Mushet spoke feelingly in response. He said in part: "I feel it a great honor to be the secretary of the Los Angeles branch of the National Credit Men's Association and I would rather resign the office of City Auditor than voluntarily cease my connection with you. I thank you for this magnificent gift and I will say this, that as far as lays within my power, I will do my best during the next three years, to give every one a square deal."

The silver set given to Mr. Mushet is the most costly and complete ever given to any one in Los Angeles and practically every wholesale house in the city contributed toward its purchase. There are 175 pieces in the set, which is inclosed in a massive oak chest and the entire set cost over $500.

SAVED BABY LYON'S LIFE

Untold Suffering and Constant Misery—Awful Sight From that Dreadful Complaint, Infantile Eczema—Commenced at Top of his Head and Covered Entire Body.

MOTHER PRAISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our baby had that dreadful complaint, Infantile Eczema, which afflicted him for several months, commencing at the top of his head, and at last covering his whole body. His sufferings were untold and constant misery, in fact, there was nothing we would not have done to have given him relief. The family doctor seemed to be wholly incapable of coping with the case, and after various experiments of his, which resulted in no benefit to the child, we sent to Mason, Ill., to a druggist and got a full set of the Cuticura Remedies and applied as per directions, and he began to improve immediately, and in about three or four days began to show a brighter spirit and really laughed, for the first time in a year. In about ninety days he was fully recovered, with the exception of a rough skin, which is gradually disappearing, and eventually will be replaced by a healthy one.

"Praise for the Cuticura Remedies has always been our greatest pleasure, and there is nothing too good that we could say in their favor, for they certainly saved our baby's life, for he was the most awful sight that I ever beheld, prior to the treatment of the Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Maebelle Lyon, 1628 Appleton Ave., Parsons, Kan., July 18, 1905."

COMPLETE TREATMENT $1

Complete external and internal treatment for every humor, consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may now be had for one dollar. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, and scaly humors, eczemas, rashes, and irritations, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston. Send for "The Great Skin Book."

MAY BE BURGLARS.

Police Capture Two Men Who, They Think, Are Wanted for Crime in San Bernardino County.

In the capture of James Butson and John Flemming yesterday, the police believe that they have secured two of the trio of burglars wanted in Highland.

Butson was first arrested several days ago on the charge of petty larceny, but was released on payment of a $30 fine. At that time the police did not suspect him of any other crime.

Through the descriptions of the Highland robbers a detective claims to have recognized Butson as one of them. While the detective was discussing the case with another officer yesterday on a downtown street he saw Butson walking toward him and arrested him.

Through the arrest of Butson the police secured information that led to the arrest of Flemming. The men will be questioned today in regard to their connection with the crime in the interior town. The police say that it is not unlikely that the men might have been implicated in recent robberies in San Bernardino.

Officers are now looking for the other man who is said to be implicated in the Highland crime.

ARCTIC MYTH EXPLODED.

The Paleocrystic Sea of Nares Proved to Have No Existence by Late Explorations.

[New York Sun:] It was proved by Peary in his long journey westward along the coast of Greenland last spring that the Paleocrystic Sea does not exist. It was thirty years ago that the world first heard of it. When Nares first sailed up through the Smith Sound channels to the Arctic Ocean, he saw, instead of the open sea that Kane had reported, an ocean blanketed with floe ice, deeply covered with snow. Rising here and there above the general level were huge masses of ice, not at all like the Greenland icebergs, with sharp points and irregular domes, but presenting vertical walls and flat upper surfaces like the enormous cubic blocks of ice that are seen in Antarctic waters.

Nares, therefore, changed the name of this part of the Arctic Ocean from the open sea to the Paleocrystic Sea, or, in other words, the sea of ancient ice.

Greely found later that while the pack ice rarely exceeds seven or eight feet in thickness, many of these erratic blocks were from ninety to 200 feet thick.

Greely also discovered that these masses were not composed of frozen sea water, but that the originated on the land. The theory was adduced that they were formed on comparatively level plains and were pushed forward into the sea and set adrift as ice rafts. For many years there was much speculation as to their place of origin and their distribution over this part of the Arctic Ocean.

Peary has now shown that the place of origin of these prodigious, flat-topped masses of ice is not far to seek. As he went westward on his journey to complete the survey of the Land coast, he discovered that to the west of Cape Hecla all the country was covered with a continuous glacier, having a width of from one to fifteen miles.

The extensive ice formation has an enormous elevation, but every inland is buried under it and only bays are filled with it; and from the outer edge in summer huge masses of the ice break off, forming the so-called paleocrystic floes. As the current sets to the east, they are floated away into the Lincoln Sea, where Nares and Greely saw such numbers of them.

Peary's discovery increases the probability that, as has been contended, the higher masses of this glacier-ice are formed by enormous ice pressures which crushes some of the bergs together and forces others under mass. At any rate, they are now of recent origin, and the name of paleocrystic Sea is a misnomer.

MILL GRINDS GOOD CHEER.

Unique of Christmas Entertainments.

Claus Winding Up His Busy Season.

Parties Preparing for the Watch Meetings.

Several early Christmas entertainments for Sunday-schools were held last night, but Santa Claus was none the less kind, because he came late. In fact, the rush was off his hands, and he had time to be deliberate, and appeared at his very best.

The most unique entertainment of the week was that given last night by the Sunday-school of the University Christ Church, in the form of a play, written by Mr. and Mrs. Lee [illegible].

The main feature of the decorations was an enormous, old-fashioned windmill, standing in the center of the room. It was twenty-five feet high and the arms twelve feet long. The play, "The Miller" was taken by Irving Miller, who made a hit by walking to the door of the mill and singing a song. There were representatives of all nations, in costume, who brought their "grist" to the mill, and when the miller sailed on the mill to grind, the arms began to revolve and out the chute dropped neat packages, each in the shape of sacks of flour, and marked "Brownie Mills; good [illegible]."

More than 700 of these unique packages slid down the chute before the mill stopped. They were filled with candy, nuts, and were distributed by members of the school.

To illustrate the lesson of giving, as the result of receiving gifts, the children placed packages in front of the mill to the value of $125, the contents of which will be distributed to the poor [illegible].

The entertainment was a great musical success, and was witnessed by 1800 people last night. It will be repeated on Saturday evening of next week, for the benefit of the piano fund of the [illegible].

AT PRO-CATHEDRAL.

St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral a devotional service was held in advance of the children's service. The decorations were original, consisting of scores of small trees. A long row of them extended entirely across the big auditorium in front of the chancel rail, while the entire back of the rail and all around the room was transformed into a miniature forest. At the close of the service the children enjoyed an entertainment of their own in the parish hall, where a Christmas tree was set up and handsomely decorated. When the exercises were concluded the children were all treated to sweet meats and [illegible] of various kinds.

St. John's Episcopal Church also held a delightful entertainment for the children of the school last night, the parish hall being handsomely decorated for the occasion, and all received tokens of remembrance.

WATCH NIGHT MEETINGS.

SEEING THE OLD YEAR OUT.

Preparations are being made by many churches, especially Methodist churches, to hold the usual watch-night services on New Year's eve. To quote Dr. McIntyre's terse reply to an interviewer, it may be said that most of the churches will hold the services, as there is "nothing to holler about." At the watch meeting in the First Methodist Church, however, he will follow the example of John Wesley in England 150 years ago, and will have a "renewal of the covenant" by all the members of the church. At the close of the devotional service, as the clock tolls the hour of midnight, they will greet each other with "A Happy New Year" and [illegible].

The Simpson Methodist Church, Rev. Dr. B. Foster, pastor, will hold its watch meeting in the hall at No. 729 South Main street, beginning at 8 o'clock, in order to hold the people, lunch will be served midway in the evening. There will be several short addresses, readings and plenty of music.

At St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral the new year will be ushered in by a watch-night service. The evening will begin with a social gathering at 8 o'clock, in the parish house, during which there will be music and readings. The vested choir of men and boys will [illegible] in the late service, and the communion will be celebrated at midnight hour.

LISTENING MISSIONS.

LISTENING EVERLASTINGLY AT IT.

"Listening at it," might be a motto for Union Rescue Mission, 138 North Main street. They have called another meeting, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, making nine meetings the day. Sunday School Crawford, the converted "moonshiner," will be the speaker. The evening at the Saturday night will be a number of "live ones" and "Bowery Angler" will tell how they [illegible].

The meeting of three business men's meetings will be given at the City Rescue Mission, No. 806 East Fifth street, conducted by O. D. Conrey, who will speak on the topic, "Business and Religion." On Sunday evening W. E. Dunn will talk on the question, "Can a Business Man Be a Christian?" On Monday evening R. F. Pearson will speak to "The Down and Out Club." There will be special vocal numbers at each of these meetings by ladies who have volunteered for the service.

RELIGIOUS BRIEFS.

MEMORIAL SERMON.

Father Murphy's gospel temperance meeting in Reinhard Hall on Sunday afternoon will be presided over by S. P. Andrews, and the subject of Mr. Murphy's talk will be "Liberty." J. W. Eccleston, Wayland Trask and Miss Ethel Bigg solos, and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, the well-known blind people, will sing. The congregational singing will be led by A. J. Park.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the International Bible League will be held in the First Baptist Church, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. A notable array of Bible students is announced as speakers at the meeting, and it should attract a number of students of the scriptures. They include Rev. W. E. Blackstone, G. B. Wilson, A. B. Prichard, Maj. G. A. Pond, S. A. Northrop, Rev. S. E. Wishard, Rev. E. P. Ryland, Rev. R. A. Torrey, Rev. R. W. Cleland, Rev. Thomas Filben, Rev. J. N. Field and Rev. J. P. Brown.

Perpetual adoration will commence at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Alameda, on Sunday morning, at the close of the 10:30 o'clock high mass. Father McManus of the cathedral will preach the opening sermon, and Father Sleep of Santa Monica will preach in the evening. Father McManus on Monday evening, when will be concluded on New Year's morning at the close of the 9 o'clock high mass.

"Christmas Customs in Other Lands" will be the subject of a talk by Miss Luderna Sayre, at the Young Women's Christian Association, at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. There will be music by a quartette of brass instruments in the hands of R. B. Sumner, Mrs. Harry Cardell, J. Moyse and H. S. Richardson. There will also be a soprano solo by Miss Luella Craft; contralto solo by Miss Mollie B. Wilson, and a violin solo by Carl Miner.

Dr. Robert McIntyre, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will preach a Bishop McCabe memorial sermon on Sunday morning.

"The Rescue of Hicks" will be the subject of Rev. Arthur S. Phelps of Central Baptist Church, tomorrow evening. In the morning he will speak on "Memorable Sayings."

MARSHAL NEY NOT EXECUTED.

EVIDENCE THAT HE BECAME A REFUGEE IN AMERICA.

Visited Indiana at Different Times and Has an Aged Son Now Living in That State Who Says the Grand Marshal Became a School Teacher in North Carolina.

[South Bend, Ind., Tribune.] "It was either in 1843 or 1844. We were seated on the front porch at our old home at Knightstown, when an aged man of powerful build came along the walk, and my father, Col. J. J. Lehmanowsky, of France's famous Old Guard, marked from afar his majestic bearing. My father was before Toulon with Napoleon when the Corsican's star began to rise, and later became one of his aides and under his command participated in the Spanish, Egyptian, Italian, Austrian and Russian campaigns. With Grand Marshal Ney he covered the retreat from Moscow, and again with Ney—"the bravest of the brave"—he made the last stand of the Old Guard on the plain of Waterloo and covered that disastrous retreat. On returning to Paris he was arrested with Ney, thrown into prison with Ney and, like Ney, sentenced to be shot.

"As I am saying, we were on the porch of our old Knightstown home when an aged man came along the walk. He seemed to be looking for some house. As he neared our house his face lit up with a smile. My father jumped to his feet, ran out and grasped him in his arms and they hugged and kissed each other and probably cried.

REMAINED OVER NIGHT.

"I was only six years old at the time and my brother, Martin Lehmanowsky, who lives at DePauw, in this, Harrison county, was only a little older, but we both remember the scene as though it were only a week instead of over a half century ago. The stranger was Grand Marshal Ney, of France. He stayed at our home over night and he and my father sat up almost until morning talking. My father made record of this visit in his autobiography, which was stolen after he placed it in the hands of the printers. I know that any one who raises a voice against the old story that Ney was executed back of the Luxembourg gardens meets with disapproval and I also know that it has been insisted by some that the man who visited our home at Knightstown was a Polish doctor."

Mrs. Nicholas Reising, daughter of the Polish military genius of the French army, who, after escaping the same kind of execution to which Ney was sentenced and who finally, after several years in the East, where he was recognized by Lafayette, came to Indiana and lived and died here, sat before her fire in her farmhouse near the last old Lehmanowsky homestead in which he died. Her story was very simple and is parallel with the record made by the Rev. W. A. Sadtler in his historical record of Lehmanowsky—"Under Two Captains"—written in the form of an autobiography of the dead aide of Napoleon and associate of Ney. Mrs. Reising and her brother, Martin, who lives only ten miles from her home, take more than passing interest in the discussions that follow any article even raising the suspicion that Ney was not shot by his own soldiers who idolized him and were assigned to execute him.

Only one who has tried in France to investigate this great mystery can appreciate the official forces that, insisting that Ney shall be recorded as having been executed, refuses even to permit pictures being taken of his unmarked "grave"—probably the only unmarked grave in the famous Pere LaChaise Cemetery in Paris. For some reason there is in this country, and especially in Indiana, as strong determination on the part of many to insist that the man who appeared in this country a few years after the battle of Waterloo and who taught school and died in North Carolina was not Ney.

"There can, at all events, be no doubt," said Mrs. Reising, "about my father's having been arrested, placed in prison like Ney and like him sentenced to be executed, and that he received files handed into him in a cake, and was helped to escape to this country, where he was recognized by Lafayette and other prominent men and by them placed in a government position. Of course, he was not so prominent a man as the great marshal, but if he was thus helped to liberty and to this country, is it at all improbable that Ney was slipped out through the same agencies and was not shot by his soldiers, who idolized him."

Thus Mrs. Reising reasons concerning the "probability" of Ney's escaping execution, and it happens that her reasoning runs parallel with that of the several men who have written volumes on the mystery surrounding the demise of the historical grand marshal and the man who was so clearly his double, who appeared in America shortly afterward, and who Mrs. Reising and others say they saw in Indiana in 1843.

HARBOR A KNOT TO CUT.

title, but no move toward compromise has been made, and the present prospect is that litigation will drag along for years and prevent improvement of the harbor.

Possibly there may be another solution of the problem. When patents to land fronting on Wilmington Bay and lagoon were issued, the government specifically excepted all the land below high-water mark, and the presumption is that the exception was made in the interests of navigation and commerce. It is a question if the government ever relinquished the right to devote the tide lands to public use and benefit, or if the State ever acquired the right to dispose of them to private parties. If the right of the Federal government to utilize tide lands for the benefit of navigation and commerce is paramount, purchasers from the State hold title subject to the exception noted when patents were granted.

The question is one of law, but in similar cases the government has asserted successfully its right of eminent domain and has taken private property when required for river and harbor improvement.

Should it be determined that the area of Wilmington lagoon below high water mark can be taken by the government for public use in the interests of commerce and navigation, harbor lines could be established, channels dredged, wharf frontage created and dedicated inalienably to public use, and the vexatious, obstructive complications and quarrels now tying up harbor improvement would vanish into thin air.

There are no complications, however, preventing improvement of the outer basin of San Pedro harbor, which is accessible to the largest ships afloat, having a depth of fifty feet along the inner side of the breakwater. Ships and wharves can be built and kept free from corporate control, and the railroad track on the breakwater can be maintained as a public utility.

In order that the breakwater may be made available for wharfage, it will be necessary to close the gap between the west end of the breakwater and the shore, a distance of 1800 feet. Capt. Price, United States engineer in charge of the harbor work, says the 1800-foot gap could be closed for the cost of building the last 250 feet of breakwater at the eastern or outer end, provided the work be done before the trestle now bridging the gap is removed.

In the opinion of the engineer, it would be advisable to make the breakwater continuous from the shore. The gap is of little use to shipping, and it leaves the waters of the basin subject to disturbance by southwesterly storms. No injury would result from cutting 250 feet from the outer end of the breakwater as planned and spending the cost of that section in filling the shallower section at the shore end. The present trestle and railroad might be left standing and made a part of the structure. The railroad remains public property, the Southern Pacific's attempt to secure control of the only means of access to the breakwater from the shore having been turned down by the government engineers.

If the commercial bodies of Los Angeles take the matter up and induce Southern California's representatives in Congress to request the necessary modification of harbor plans, there is no doubt that Capt. Price will approve the application when it shall be referred to him.

The improvement suggested is important and will make the outer harbor available for the free docking of ships and the loading and discharge of cargo. It will be necessary for someone to take the initiative and put in an application on which the United States engineer can base a recommendation.

BURGLAR CONFESSES.

Son of Highland Hotel Man Admits Robberies There and in Los Angeles.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 28.—The week before Christmas Highland was startled by a series of burglaries, including the crime committed during the night of December 20, when thieves secured from the Highland Hotel, jewelry and other personal property.

Suspicion pointed to J. W. Harris, aged 18, Charles Furrian, aged 20, and James Buxton, the son of the Highland Hotel-keeper.

Deputy Sheriff Ward was apprised today of Buxton's capture, with two companions, and that he had made complete confession, implicating his pals, and two men yet uncaught in a series of burglaries committed in Los Angeles. He also assisted officers in locating much of the loot secured in Highland and Los Angeles.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

ENGINE HELPS; MORE NEEDED.

BETTER FIRE PROTECTION IS TALK OF PASADENA.

Installing of New Apparatus Will Be Followed by Overhauling of Engines Now in Use—Residents of the Northern Part of Town Hoping for Share of Department Service.

Office of The Times, No. 36 S. Raymond Ave.

PASADENA, Dec. 28.—Word has been received by the fire department that the new engine ordered by the Council from the Knott Fire Engine Company has been shipped and may be expected here some time within the next thirty days. This is grateful news to the members of the department, who are anxious to have the new apparatus installed as soon as possible.

At present considerable inconvenience is being experienced owing to the fact that the engine at present in the Dayton-street house is seriously in need of repairs. When the new engine arrives the old one will be laid up for a time and put into good condition before again being placed in commission. When it is ready the Villa-street engine will probably be given an overhauling.

Although the addition of one new engine will make a considerable difference in the efficiency of the department it is but a makeshift and very little can be accomplished until the money is on hand to make some very material additions to the department. There are parts of the city which are at present wholly without protection and engines are needed for them.

Residents of North Pasadena are living in hope of having something done for them soon and, probably the first extensions made will be in their direction. At present the section is practically without protection against fire and, as building is going on steadily and some very fine houses are being erected, it is realized that something will have to be done at once if insurance rates are to be kept down as low as they are now.

MEDALS ARE RECEIVED.

The Tournament of Roses Association has received the handsome medals which will be worn by the officials on New Year's Day. The design was drawn up by F. S. Allen and is artistic. The medals are about the size of a silver dollar and the design is a wreath of intertwined roses. Four styles are used, gold, silver and bronze, the former being for the directors, the second for the judges and marshals and the latter for aids and committeemen.

Although the rain has delayed work at the park the office force of the association under the supervision of Secretary Cary has found plenty of work to occupy its time and No. 155 East Colorado street is about the busiest spot in town. Meetings of the various committees take up most of the time of the members and private business has been neglected in favor of public duties.

The sale of seats for the afternoon sports at Tournament Park opened yesterday morning, and in spite of the fact that the wet weather kept most people within doors the box-office man was kept busy handing out seats and making change. From the present outlook, it appears that long before Tuesday next, all of the boxes and other best seats will have been disposed of and that the late comers will have to take their chances at getting desirable accommodations.

ELM GRADE SETTLED.

The long-drawn-out dispute between the people of Pasadena and the Santa Fé Company relative to the lowering of the track on Elm avenue has finally been settled and the company has acceded to the desires of the citizens. Arrangements have been made for lowering the tracks and the work will be undertaken at once.

The track dispute has occupied the attention of the Council for several months and for a time it looked as though the authorities might have to resort to litigation to achieve their end. The company made a strenuous objection to changing the grade of the tracks and the residents of the street were equally unwilling to change the street grade in order to accommodate the tracks. The announcement that a settlement has been reached meets with general approbation and it is hoped that the final chapter has been written in a disagreeable episode.

ARREST ALLEGED THIEF.

Iden H. Krause, a young man lately employed by the Pasadena Electric Express Company, appears to have laid up for himself several good-sized bunches of trouble if the surmises of the police are correct. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning he was placed under arrest by Officers Hayes and Favor on a larceny charge and later the discovery was made that there was a warrant out against him charging him with embezzlement. He will have his hearing next Wednesday.

According to the evidence which the police have secured, it appears that Krause, since his arrival in Pasadena several months ago, has worked for a number of people and that in each case he has left under rather suspicious circumstances. Finally he secured a job with the Electric Express Company, and when he left, it was discovered that his accounts were far from straight.

The charge on which he was arrested, however, was the theft of a revolver for the cash drawer in Grimes's restaurant. It is supposed that he intended selling the weapon to secure money with which to leave the town. The crime was committed late Thursday night.

WATER IS HIGH.

The usual bunch of sandbags was called into play yesterday to protect that northwest corner of Hotel Green. The slope of the pavement is such at that point that a heavy rain sends a flood of water tearing along and without the improvised levee the lower floor of the hotel would be flooded. Steps will probably be taken to remedy the defect when the work of grading Fair Oaks avenue has been completed.

CARRIAGES ARE BUSY.

Public carriage men have been reaping a rich harvest during the past few days and with a few more days of stormy weather several of them will be able to retire and live on their money. Two dollars per hour is the usual stormy-weather charge and most of the drivers have had all of the business that they could handle. When a car from Los Angeles stops at Colorado street there is usually a stampede for the public carriages and the drivers reap the harvest.

PASADENA PERSONALS.

Yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. L. Gaylord, at No. 720 South Orange Grove avenue, Miss Gladys Palmer and Miss Jessamine Rockwell entertained the members of the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Whist Club. For the decorations brilliant red geraniums and poinsettias and smilax were used. Dainty little water-colored score cards were the handiwork of Miss Rockwell. The prize for points, a handsome bound book, was won by Mrs. J. F. Rhodes and the prize for honors, a set of pearl-set combs, by Miss Stehman.

Miss Eleanor Merrill of Berkeley is a guest of Mrs. James Craig and the Misses Craig at their home on Craig avenue. Miss Merrill is the daughter of Prof. Merrill of the University of California and is the fiance of Volney Craig. Mrs. Craig and the Misses Craig will give an afternoon tea in honor of Miss Merrill on January 5 at the Shakespeare Club House.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bragdon were the hosts last evening at a box party at the performance of the "Mikado." Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Coleman, and Mrs. Hiram Barlow and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bragdon.

Mrs. Katherine Ferrand of No. 85 Yale street, was the hostess on Thursday afternoon, at a luncheon and shower given in honor of Mrs. Lester Packard, who was formerly Miss Gertrude Williams and has only been married a couple of weeks. The decorations were carried out in delicate pink and green and covers were laid for ten. The bride was the recipient of many pieces of cut glass and china.

Thirty former students of Throop were present at the Alumni Association meeting in Stickney Hall, Thursday evening. The hours were passed with a varied and interesting programme. Prof. Walter A. Edwards, who is visiting in the East, sent a telegram.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Miller and family of Grand Rapids, Mich., arrived here to spend the winter and will occupy the bungalow of W. D. Russell on South Marengo avenue.

Dr. D. S. Green, who has been away superintending his mines, is spending the holidays with his family at No. 311 North Raymond avenue. His brother, William Green of South Dakota is also visiting here.

MARSHAL'S CHRISTMAS.

Monrovia Officer Expresses His Gratitude for the Arrest of Albitre, the Alleged Murderer.

MONROVIA, Dec. 28.—"The capture of Delfino Albitre was the best Christmas present that I could have received," remarked Marshal Miller today. "Days and I might say weeks, I have tramped the wash at night, routed out the Mexicans in their homes along the valley, and spent many anxious hours awaiting home news of his whereabouts. Now that he is caught the law defying will be taught a lesson that will be good for the community.

On Saturday morning Judge Holliway's court will be opened for the arraignment of Albitre. Those who know him best believe that he will ask for counsel, and that there will be a continuance of the hearing. He has a brother residing here and Delfino himself was raised in this vicinity. He was an expert landscape gardener and at the time he is alleged to have committed the crime he was engaged at Pottenger's Sanatorium. The crime was committed on the morning of September 5.

Between 7 and 8 o'clock neighbors were attracted by screams, and upon looking across the street, saw Albitre clutching the hair of his wife and dragging her out of the door. A few seconds later he lifted the revolver he had in his hand and fired two bullets into her body causing instant death. He had on an undershirt and a nightshirt, and in this attire he made for the wash and was soon lost to sight. Albitre was considered a peaceful citizen, but an everindulgence in drink brought about the crime.

NOT THE MAN.

It was a curious combination of marks that yesterday caused the arrest of Silvestre Duran by the officers here, thinking him to be Romaldo Silva, who on the night of October 6, slew Eulogio Delgado. Four identification marks were identical. Duran had the cut over the eye, the mole on the side of the neck, the cut on the thumb, and the scar on the knee cap, all answering perfectly to the description of the much-wanted Silva, but he was not the man and was released after he was carefully looked over by the Los Angeles detective and a man he brought with him who knew Silva.

WRESTLER BREAKS LEG.

AVALON, Dec. 28.—While engaged in a friendly wrestling bout with a companion yesterday, Cyrus Croton fell so as to break his left leg. Croton is a steam fitter in the employ of the Santa Catalina Island Company.

Frank Jerrue returned to the ranks of the benedicts yesterday, marrying Mrs. Emma T. Stevenson. The wedding was planned very quietly and all worked well till Capt. Crocker, of the Hermosa, worked his whistle a bit overtime, giving five extra toots, which is notice to the world at large that a local bridal couple are on board. Their friends all met them and there'll be rice sprouting about the wharf gate for weeks to come. The wedding took place in Los Angeles.

Another bridal couple was Fred J. Braxton, an employe of the Pilgrim Club, who married Miss Marie Holloway, in Los Angeles, Wednesday night, and returned to Avalon yesterday.

POMONA PARAGRAPHS.

POMONA, Dec. 28.—Hon. A. A. Sill of Colorado Springs is visiting his sister, Mrs. M. A. Matthews.

Miss Lucy Lewis is here from Mesilla, N. M., visiting her father, J. H. Lewis, and family.

Max. F. Schwichtenberg and family of Portland, Or., are guests of the former's brother, H. E. Schwichtenberg.

J. J. Swigart and son, Robert, of Toledo, O., are here for a few weeks. Mr. Swigart has a small orange grove on Cucamonga avenue.

E. A. Reynolds, who has been supervising janitor of all the local public schools for twenty years, has given up his position to go into the cabinet-making business.

Miss Ruth Bogue has returned from Pasadena, where she spent three days.

FLEECED ONE IS MISSING.

WITNESS IS OUT OF SIGHT IN LONG BEACH.

Man Whose Evidence Is Desired Against Alleged Sure Thing Operator Has Disappeared—Officers Fear That He Has Listened to Siren Song of Easy Money Men.

LONG BEACH, Dec. 28.—In all probability the work of the police in arresting C. H. Odam, who they think is the leader of the gang of sure-thing men, who have been working in Long Beach for several months, will go for naught as the prosecuting witness in the case, Louis Meinhard, has disappeared, and is probably back in his old home in Illinois.

A week ago young Meinhard, who was visiting the Coast for his health, fell in with one of the gang in Los Angeles, and came to the beach on a pleasure trip. Strolling along the strand, Meinhard was induced to show his money, when it was snatched from his hand. A woman living near by saw the act, and promptly telephoned to the police, and fifteen minutes later Odam was arrested, and twice identified by his victim.

A roll of money answering Meinhard's description of his stolen property was found inside Odam's sock. He was held to answer in $2500, and has been in the County Jail. The next day young Meinhard reported to the police that an attempt had been made to bribe him to leave, but he has refused. Since that time he has not been seen, and the police think he fell to the temptation and has skipped. Odam will probably be released with a warning to get out of Southern California with haste.

PREPARE FOR BARBECUE.

Under the supervision of Forester Doyle of Los Angeles long brick walled pits are being constructed at the foot of Locust avenue. Saturday four loads of round cobblestones will be dumped into the pits, and great fires built upon them. Sunday noon twenty beeves will be cut into fifty-pound chunks, wrapped in canvas and sacking and placed upon the hot stones, to be steamed and cooked until they have reached the perfection of barbecued art. Monday noon the meat will be served to the thousands of hungry visitors gathered from all parts of Southern California to assist in the initiation of 1000 candidates and enjoy their annual rally and picnic.

LONG BEACH BRIEFS.

The rendering of the oratorio, "The Messiah," at the Auditorium tonight was the society event of the week, and was witnessed by a large audience. Leading society women of the city acted as ushers and seated the audience with the skill and ease of professionals. The oratorio was given by the Long Beach Philharmonic Society, assisted by 100 members of the Apollo Club of Los Angeles. The solo parts were taken by four artists of Los Angeles, Mrs. Catherine Collette, soprano; Mrs. Elizabeth Ponda, contralto; Earnest Leeman, tenor, and Charles Bowes, baritone. An orchestra of thirty-one pieces, under direction of Prof. George Derby, furnished the music.

"Curley" Miller, one of the city prisoners paroled on Christmas Day, in order that he might eat dinner at home, turned up at the jail last night, two days overdue. Curley when released, went to San Pedro, got drunk and landed in jail. Yesterday friends paid his fine, and he came back to Long Beach to report. He was locked up, and will have to serve his full sentence, because he fell by the wayside.

Mrs. E. H. Horsch, living at No. 553 Magnolia, proved herself a heroine this morning when, unaided, she successfully fought a fire in the dining-room, which, starting in the wood box, threatened to destroy her home. She first dragged the burning box into the yard, and then with buckets of water extinguished the burning woodwork in the dining-room.

For several days rumors have been floating about that Eugene Bailiff, a resident of Signal Hill, was flying a French flag on a pole in front of his house. The Sons of Veterans grew incensed, and threatened all sorts of vengeance. Mr. Bailiff only laughed, and said he could do as he pleased on his own property. Investigation of the troublesome emblem shows that it is simply a bit of white cloth, with a red border, while in the center in red letters is the name of his country residence.

Last night Y.M.C.A. workers organized an Ushers' Club for the purpose of furnishing trained men for seating at all religious gatherings. The officers elected are George E. Wilson, president; S. A. Mayhugh, vice-president; H. W. Metcalf, secretary.

All the laundry work of Avalon will be done in Long Beach, the contract being signed yesterday with the Soft Water Laundry Company, the first enterprise to locate on the inner harbor.

Yesterday the Salt Lake Railroad paid $2100, and the Pacific Electric $2000 city taxes for 1906 into the treasury.

SANTA MONICA TO FORE.

Town Will Open Free Information Bureau in Los Angeles—Excursions Planned.

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 28.—The Santa Monica Board of Trade has decided to open an office and free information bureau in Los Angeles. The object is to get in touch with prospective homeseekers and turn the tide of immigration to these shores. Secretary Smith will be prepared to open the office early in the new year and will have charge of the free excursions to this beach. These are to be instituted by the board about February 1.

F. A. Short, general passenger agent of the Los Angeles-Pacific electric line, attended the meeting and said his company had been considering the matter of a reduced round-trip rate between the beach and the city and held out the hope that just as soon as the travel was such as would justify a cut rate the company would grant the concession.

HOPE FOR MIDWAY.

VENICE, Dec. 28.—Better times and livelier things are in store for the Midway Plaisance. Contracts have been drawn, and if they are signed, as it is expected they will be soon, the entire concession will pass from the hands of the Venice Concessions Company to those of the Los Angeles-Pacific Company. At least one official of the railway line (Mr. Short) has been interested in the Midway ever since it was reorganized several months ago. Now the electric line is about to take charge of it all and the promise for the new management is that there will be fresh attractions and such frequent changes as will draw the crowds.

ENGLAND'S COAL CELLARS.

FUEL STATIONS FOR BATTLESHIPS WELL LOCATED.

Vast Millions Spent for the Establishment and Maintenance of Coaling Stations and Repair Shops for War Vessels at Eligible Points About the World.

Scattered about various parts of the globe are dozens of John Bull's coal cellars, the places that are kept especially and almost entirely for His Majesty's ships of war to put into when in need of coal.

In the days of sailing ships, fleets could remain at sea for months. Nowadays, unless the modern battleship can be sure of a port where she can find dock accommodation, workshops to repair machinery, and above all, coal, she is little better than a dangerous derelict, says Pearson's Weekly.

Thus, coaling places in accessible places to the British fleet in all the principal seas of the world are as vital a necessity for the safety of our empire as battleships and cruisers.

Without his coal cellars, John Bull could not retain command of the sea. For experiments have failed to find any satisfactory substitute for them.

Coaling ships at sea from colliers attached to a fleet is of little value, because the consumption of coal by battleships is so great that the limited amount colliers can carry is soon exhausted.

Being of such importance to us, every coaling station must be secured against hostile attack, and be more or less strongly fortified and garrisoned, so that in time of war it can take care of itself. Its size and importance, of course, varies according to its nearness to British possessions, a country which may at any time be Britain's enemies. That is why Gibraltar and Malta are the two leading coaling stations, while others in the Pacific Ocean are little more than uninhabited islands.

As the object of our navy is to protect our mercantile marine, which in itself is larger than the rest of the world's merchant navies put together, John Bull's coal cellars are to be found chiefly on the two great roads by which British goods are carried to all ports of the world. One road runs west and southwest to the United States, the other to the Mediterranean, Africa and Australasia. A minor road runs eastward across the North Sea into the Baltic.

On the great trade route by the Suez Canal to India and to Australia, Great Britain has a continuous chain of coaling stations. It is by this route, moreover, that reinforcement of troops and necessary supplies, in the contingency of war, would be dispatched to the East with the least exposure to capture.

The great fortresses of Malta and Gibraltar, where over 18,000 men and 5000 men, respectively, are always in garrison, and where upward of 20,000 tons of coal are stored, are maintained out of resources provided by the imperial exchequer.

Aden, which is 1300 miles from Suez, 1970 from Mauritius, 1637 from Bombay and 2130 from Ceylon, all of which places are themselves coaling stations, is further important because, in the event of war with any of the Mediterranean powers, it would be the only place from which a British fleet could prevent foreign battleships gaining access to the Indian Ocean through the Suez Canal.

From Ceylon to the Cape of Good Hope is 4400 miles, for Singapore, 1510, and from King George's Sound, 3400. Colombo, the Ceylon coal hole, is protected both by batteries on shore and by floating defenses. Singapore, which trades to the extent of £100,000,000 annually, supplies about 5000 tons of coal per week to passing steamers. It has extensive wharves, three graving docks and all appliances for repairing battleships.

Hongkong is similarly provided. The intermediate coaling stations between the Cape and England are Lisbon, Gibraltar, Madeira, St. Vincent and Sierra Leone, which has a secure and capacious harbor. Ascension is the coaling and supply depot for our warships on the west coast of Africa, as is also St. Helena.

The whole of the Cape Peninsula is fortified by a series of forts and batteries, which are also coaling stations. St. Simon's Bay has besides a graving dock that will receive the biggest ironclads.

Mauritius, midway between the Cape and India, at a distance of 4400 miles, is another coal hole, while Port Royal in Jamaica has a safe and commodious harbor.

Turning to the westward road to the United States and Canada, our navy has to protect British trade to the value of £150,000,000. Though the possibilities of our ever being at war with the United States is not contemplated by politicians, were John Bull to take his coal off to other powers, it would only be necessary to afford protection to merchant steamers near the coast at each end of their journey. For the intermediate portion they would have to trust to their sped for safety.

Many millions have been spent on the defense of Australasian ports and coaling stations, and a special squadron cruises in Australasian waters.

Scattered about, too, are many other coaling stations, the expenses of which are shared by the colonies in proportion to their population.

AMERICAN ART OVER SEAS.

Friday Morning Club Women Treated to Delightful Dissertation on Painting in Paris.

The fruits of a rich artistic experience, and the deeps of a rare artistic temperament expressed in classic language, afforded a morning of pleasure to the members of the Friday Morning Club yesterday. Mrs. Eleanor Bingham of Chicago gave the club the benefit of new and fresh standpoints from the world of painters and sculptors.

"American Artists as Seen From the Other Side" was a fascinating and instructive study, seen through the speaker's practiced eyes, having many personal anecdotes and charming sidelights, besides the solid worth of a trained artistic sense brought to bear upon the works of the masters of the day. Mrs. Bingham has lately lived for months in Paris and London with the most exceptional advantages of seeing and hearing what is most worth while, and she knows whereof she speaks.

She began her talk by tracing the development of American art on the other side, not as one might read it in books or magazines, not as one might hear it from a prejudiced Englishman, but as one who seeks the real truth in regard to the Americans who are striving to walk shoulder to shoulder with the masters of the time. She spoke first of Edwin Abbey, who painted the story of "The Holy Grail," as he saw it himself, for the Boston Public Library. The presentation of Sir Galahad at the court of King Arthur, she declared to have been shown in London, and to have been the means of convincing King Edward VII that here was the man to paint his coronation scene. She quoted the King as saying that he thinks Abbey's picture will be the greatest coronation picture ever painted, and told how many of the titled participants in the gorgeous pageant had given this great American, chosen above the men of the King's own country, private sittings, that he might find full scope for his power of character delineation.

"That great master, John S. Sargent," as Mrs. Bingham heard him dubbed on the other side, who studied Velasquez on his knees, she found to be the greatest psychological portrait painter and a teacher of the greatest personal power.

Rodin, that great, strong Santa Claus man, who, in Paris, she says, is known as "Rodin, the sculptor," Mrs. Bingham denominated as a leader of the third of the great artistic schools that the world has seen, the first mentioned being the Greek reproduction of the beautiful; the second, the Michael Angelo school, which demanded life, movement and strength, and the one of today, which seeks to express emotion, feeling, the spiritual mind and the condition of the soul.

Rodin, Mrs. Bingham declared, demands every power of expression for sculptor that is accorded to painting, and she contrasted some of his greatest pieces with St. Gaudens's conception of similar subjects.

Frederick Macmonnies and his "Dancing Bacchante," rejected by the Boston Public Library, but now become one of the greatest artistic joys of the French people, was delightfully dwelt upon by the speaker, and as beautiful as an artist's dream was her expressed appreciation of Whistler's "Nocturnes," whose mood must be courted to come at a true appreciation of the dead master's genius.

Mary Macmonnies and her mural decorations, John Boyle and his work, as well as the four wonderful Klumpke sisters and their varied attainments, were made most interesting by Mrs. Bingham.

CHINESE ANTI-OPIUM LAW.

Drastic Legislation Intended to Stop the Use of the Drug Throughout Country.

Some of the provisions of the Chinese anti-opium law are extraordinarily drastic. Not only the cultivation of the poppy, but the use of opium must cease within ten years. No new ground can be placed under cultivation, and ground under cultivation must be restricted by one-tenth annually. If the regulation is evaded, the ground can be confiscated. All consumers of opium are to be registered with the amounts they consume. Without being registered no one can buy the drug. Allowance is to be made for opium consumers who are more than 60 years old. Those under this age must decrease their use of the drug 20 per cent. a year. Magistrates who break the rule will be cashiered, scholars deprived of their certificates. All opium dens are to be closed within six months. All opium shops are to be registered and closed gradually. Antidotes to the drug are to be distributed at cost price, or even gratuitously in case of need, by specially-appointed officials. All high officials, princes, dukes, viceroys and Tartar generals under 60 must inform the throne that they will abandon the drug within a certain time. During that time they can have a substitute. When they are cured they can resume their duties. All other officials under 60 must abandon the use within six months. If unable to discontinue the habit, they can retain their rank, but must retire from office. Those who continue the use of opium secretly will be deprived of both rank and office. All teachers, scholars, soldiers and sailors will be allowed three months wherein to abandon the habit. Manifestly there is all the difference in the world between the issuance of such an edict and the enforcement of it.

SINGES SANTA BY THE TREE.

SAN BERNARDINO MAN HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

While Acting the Part of the Reindeer Sleigh Driver His Make-up Catches Fire and His Ears, Nose and Eyelashes Suffer—Rare Luck of Railroad Clerk.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 28.—E. D. Roberts, president of the San Bernardino National Bank of this city, had a narrow escape from being terribly burned while imitating Santa Claus, at the family Christmas tree gathering at the home of S. S. Wood, last Monday night. News of his experience has just come out.

With all the cotton and other inflammable trappings appropriate to a St. Nicholas, Roberts entered the room where the family and children were gathered, the only illumination coming from the incandescents on the tree, and pausing as though searching for a match, he struck a match.

Instantly his inflammable covering took fire, panic seized the gathering, but with quick presence of mind, J. S. Wood, Eugene Wilkerson and Ed Buttgenbach came to Roberts's assistance. They succeeded in tearing off the burning mass before the victim had been severely burned, though his ears, nose and eyelashes suffered.

THIS CLERK IN LUCK.

Jerry Draper is experiencing the rather sensation of suddenly leaping from a clerkship in a desert railroad office to the condition of independent wealth. His luck came about through a recent mining craze. Three months ago while working as a clerk at Ludlow for the Tonopah-Tidewater Railroad, he took two days' lay-off and, going to the Avawatz Mountains, located several prospects. Since then he has made occasional trips to the property, developing a ledge. Though the butt of many a good-natured joke he stuck to his claims until Wednesday, when a representative of the Dupont Powder Company, who has been looking over the district, paid him $12,500 cash for two of his claims, and has taken an option on six others, the latter agreed to being $50,000. Draper's sudden windfall has affected other of the desert railroad offices, and they will have quit their duties, and gone to the hills, thoroughly excited.

Deputy Sheriff Spittler brings in the news. He also reports the sale of a group of Dry Lake mines owned by Messrs. Von Kemp, Murphy and Lewis to San Francisco capitalists for $11,-000. Another sale was made by Charles Washburn of this city to J. E. Kleinhans of Los Angeles, of two claims in the Silver Mountain district, seven miles north of Victorville, for $1000.

BLOCK IN LITIGATION.

The Hicks Block, at the northeast corner of Third and C streets, which was sold Wednesday to Joseph Bucher for $85, is the scene of exciting litigation. The property is now in possession of the constable. Several attachments have been sued out, one by a local real estate agents, who demands a percentage from the sale of the property. They allege that a contract existed between them and Mrs. M. L. Hicks, the owner, whereby they were the exclusive agents for the sale of the property. The other attachment is secured by L. D. Houghton, to recover $35 on a promissory note. Besides these attachments others are said to have, as it is claimed Mrs. Hicks owes numerous persons. In the meantime Mrs. Hicks has vanished from the scene of the rumpus, after having received $8000 from the sale of the building, and it is not thought that she will appear in these parts soon, all claims having been settled so far as her personal interests are concerned.

DANA IS SET FREE.

Frank Dana, charged with burglary, having broken into the residence of Mrs. Hutchings, and slept every night in the entire week in one of the beds, without the knowledge of the family, was discharged from custody today. The evidence was insufficient to sustain the charge, and Colton men whom he is alleged to have defrauded of sums by misrepresentations, refuse to appear against him. Dr. Harris of this city informed the authorities that Dana comes of a well-known Los Angeles family, and that he has always been regarded as of weak mentality and is a victim of epilepsy.

REPORTS FIND OF BONES.

Hugo L. Graham of Las Vegas, Nev., went through this city yesterday on his way to Los Angeles to interest wealthy friends in the scheme, which has for its object the mining of fossil bones and sea shells to be used as fertilizer and other agricultural and manufacturing purposes.

Graham tells of a great find of bones of animals about twenty miles from Las Vegas. Numerous acres are said to be covered with these relics of an age when the desert was a heaving sea and mammoths roamed where now the prospector urges his burros. Graham has driven a tunnel into these deposits to a depth of nearly twelve feet, and says he finds an almost solid layer of bones and shells.

The deposits are within a short distance of Corn Creek. Graham's attention was attracted to them by the discoveries of Prof. Bachtelle of Pomona, who has been commissioned to make specimens, and he has already made a consignment to Rochester, N. Y., for the Ward Scientific Establishment.

Graham, who is a well-versed amateur mineral and prehistoric specialist, intends to submit a report on his finds to the Cordilleran section of the Geological Society which holds its annual meeting at Stanford next week and Saturday.

DODSON MAN ASKS DIVORCE.

Frank Dodson, a well-known citizen of Colton, has filed an action for divorce against Anna Amelia Dodson, who, also of a widely-known Colton family, charging desertion. The parties principals of a quite prominent wedding, which took place in Auburn, Cal., and three months after the wedding the young bride bundled up her duds and returned to her home, stating that she had no use for Dodson, as he had not made a desirable husband. Since then the couple have met each other on the streets almost daily, but there has been not the slightest sign of recognition. The proceedings instituted by Dodson will not be pressed.

HUNTING WIFE AND LOVER.

DESERTED HUSBAND NOW HERE WITH GUN.

San Bernardino Man Proposes to Give no Quarter to Alleged Descendant of Lord Nelson Whom He Accuses of Destroying His Domestic Happiness.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 28.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A report of a marriage license issued in Los Angeles on the 20th inst. shows the following:

"Nelson-Stothart: Francis H. Nelson age 30, a native of England, and Margaret Stothart, age 34, a native of England, both residents of Los Angeles."

This license, issued in Los Angeles on December 20, tells the story of the marriage of a couple who eloped from this city on that day, taking with them, it is alleged, Mrs. Stothart's 6-year-old daughter. Nelson, who claims to be a descendant of Lord Nelson of the British admiralty, had come out from England to live with Mr. and Mrs. Stothart, as they were known here.

Thursday before Christmas, Stothart returned home to find his family and Nelson gone. Everything in the house was arranged in the neatest order, lamps were burning, and for a time he supposed that his wife and Nelson were hiding from him for amusement. He claims that Mrs. Stothart took all his savings, amounting to $300.

Nelson has written from Los Angeles, telling of the marriage, and charging that Stothart's real name is Wright. He declares that Wright, alias Stothart, deserted his family in England, went off with Mrs. Stothart, assumed her name, and that under the circumstances Wright had no claim upon Mrs. Stothart's affections.

Now Stothart has gone to Los Angeles with a gun, and it is said that he proposes to show Nelson no quarter.

Whether the couple were actually married under the license obtained at Los Angeles, is not known here, but the friends of both men are greatly worried about what may happen when they meet.

TESTING ELECTRIC PLANT.

Inspection in Redlands of Institution for Supplying "Juice" There.

REDLANDS, Dec. 28.—The electric plant of the Home Gas and Electric Company is being tested preparatory to its acceptance by the company. The main part of the test is being made by Prof. W. F. Durant, head of the mechanical engineering department of Stanford University.

In speaking of the test, Prof. Durant said: "The point is to determine the relationship between the starting of the oil into the burners under the boilers and the delivery of the electricity at the switchboard. The problem is to ascertain the cost of production in relationship to the receipts from the sale of electricity. What electricity must be sold for is governed by the cost of its production. It will require about two days to ascertain the cost of electricity as turned out by this plant. It is an excellent plant and ought to produce electricity very cheaply."

Prof. Howell of St. Louis is another specialist in the line of electrical affairs, who is present to test the plant. The Westinghouse company from which the generators were purchased has a representative, Mr. Haskings, on the ground to witness the working of their machinery. T. C. Tracy, president and general manager of the Tracy Engineering Company of Los Angeles, which firm installed the whole of the electrical plant, is present, in company with several members of that concern. Other experts arrived this evening to witness the final tests tomorrow.

RAILROAD BRIEFS.

The holiday season is witnessing a large number of weddings. One of the most notable of these was a double wedding which was solemnized Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wiley, when Miss Maud E. Wiley and Albert R. Taylor were united in marriage, and Miss Era Wiley and George A. Teague were made husband and wife. About twenty guests were present. The former couple will reside in Redlands and the latter in Ventura.

Arthur Gray Reynolds and Miss Lottie Ethel Culbertson were united in marriage Sunday evening in the Congregational Church at Mentone, Rev. George Robertson officiating. Miss Minnie Culbertson was maid of honor, and Russell Reynolds was best man. Mrs. George S. Gay played the wedding march.

Miss Grace Flint and Herbery Elwood Dyar of Redlands were united in marriage at the home of F. A. Hill on Christmas morning, Rev. George Robertson officiating. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dyer left for Yuma, where the groom is connected with the Southern Pacific company.

Miss Anita Lewis and Arthur M. Cooley were united in marriage at the J. S. Edwards home on Cajon street this afternoon, in the presence of about a score of friends. Rev. J. H. Williams officiated. Mr. Cooley is a graduate of Berkeley, is a well-known athlete, and is a member of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity. After a trip through California, Mr. and Mrs. Cooley will reside in San Francisco.

Miss Pearl Dutro and George H. Rice were united in marriage Christmas by Rev. J. N. Field. Only relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Rice will reside in Santa Ana, where the groom is connected with the Home Telephone Company.

Miss Grace Sommerville and Geo. W. Edgar of Phoenix, Ariz., were united in marriage by Rev. M. L. Butler Wednesday at noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sommerville. Only a few relatives and friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar will reside in Phoenix, where the former is in business.

THINK ALL FOUR ARE YEGGMEN.

COLTON POLICE GATHER IN ALLEGED HOTEL THIEVES.

One of Them Escapes from Officer and, on Being Recaptured, Is Found to Have Stolen Goods in His Possession—Quartette Is Held Under Stiff Bonds.

COLTON, Dec. 28.—L. Harmon, a carpenter, who is staying at the Southern Hotel, which is owned by Mrs. L. Pence, reported to the police that his room had been entered between 7 and 8 o'clock last evening, and a gold watch, razor, umbrella, and other articles taken.

Constable Bagley and Officer Magill immediately rushed to the hotel. Officer Magill discovered two men near the Carter Block, on Ninth street, and while interviewing these men, Constable Bagley proceeded to the Southern and arrested a man coming down the stairs, who had in his possession the umbrella owned by Mr. Harmon.

Officer Magill brought the two men down to the hotel, and as he was about to enter the door, one of them escaped and ran toward the Southern Pacific yards. The other prisoner was turned over to the constable, and Magill pursued the escaping one, firing several shots at the fellow before capturing him at the corner of Tenth and J streets.

Before he was captured the man threw a heavy missile at the officer, striking him on the breast. Most of the goods stolen from the room were found in this man's possession.

A few minutes later Mr. Pence reported to the officers that they had another man locked in the bathroom, who was discovered by Mr. Harmon. He was placed under arrest, and lodged in jail.

It is the opinion of the officers that they have four yeggmen in jail, who give as their names, James Burns, Charles McCoy, Thomas Welsh, and James Murphy. Justice Hanna placed their bail at $500 each. They will have their preliminary hearing tomorrow morning.

Sunny days at Coronado.

DEPUTIES ARE NAMED.

Riverside County Officers Make Announcements of Their Office Assistants.

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 28.—Announcement was made today that Arthur B. Pilch, County Clerk-elect, has selected Holton D. Webb for chief deputy in that office. Mr. Webb will take the place which Mr. Pilch leaves to become head of the office. Miss Edna Kennedy will continue as office deputy, and nearly all of the outside deputies who have served under Mr. Phelps will be retained. Mr. Pilch will continue in the active work of clerk of the Board of Supervisors, which he has had charge of during the administration of his predecessor.

Raymond Cree, County School Superintendent-elect, has made announcement today of the appointment of Mrs. Dolly A. Garst as deputy in his office. Mr. Cree will fill the office which Mr. Hyatt leaves to become State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mrs. Garst has been a teacher in the Washington school for a number of years. The office of deputy School Superintendent was created by the last Legislature, and carries with it a salary of $1020 a year.

DIE CLOSE TOGETHER.

Husband and Wife of San Diego Die in Los Angeles Only a Few Hours Apart.

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 28.—The funeral of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Barrett will be held tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Barrett went to Los Angeles three weeks ago, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Eva F. Kehn. After one day's illness, both died Christmas night, the deaths being four hours apart. The children are W. H. Barrett, George N. Barrett, San Diego; Charles F. Barrett, Bakersfield, and Mrs. Eva F. Kehn of Los Angeles. Mr. Barrett, who was a veteran of the Civil War, came here from New York in 1875 and engaged in the cattle and bee business in Bear Valley.

At the mass meeting yesterday for the discussion of proposed legislation before State Senator-elect L. A. Wright and Assemblyman-elect W. F. Luddington, the harbor commissioners and commercial clubs were prominently represented. Among other legislation suggested is $2,000,000 for a seawall; $20,000 for determining and monumenting the high-tide line, settling conflicting titles between individuals and the State as to the ownership of the lands; giving the harbor commissioners power to lengthen leases on the water front, twenty years being the present limit; for the western slope proposition, a project to have the government control and develop the water resources west of the mountains; also empowering the harbor commissioners to grant leases of tracts not to exceed twenty acres.

D. F. Harbison of the Logan Heights section of the city has offered the city, for a small consideration, the Brewery tract, so-called, for a public park. The property consists of about five acres.

The city now has eighty-one miles of sewers, and the head of the department has asked the Board of Works for additional help. The board has requested the City Council to include in the bond issue an item for the expense of installing drains in the principal streets to carry off surface water in case of storms.

The Indurated Leather and Tire Company, recently incorporated for half a million dollars, has leased the old crematory on the flats west of Twenty-second street, for manufacturing purposes.

Articles of incorporation of the Hearne Training School for Nurses have been filed, with Dr. J. C. Hearne, E. W. Hendrick and G. W. Fishburn as directors.

David F. Hendrickson, a deputy county recorder at Los Angeles, was married yesterday to Miss Orrie Matthews of Glendora, the couple leaving last night for Monrovia, where they are to reside.

WALNUTS MARKETED.

SANTA ANA, Dec. 28.—The walnut crop is practically all marketed, and from the best figures obtainable the product will reach between 4,500,000 and 5,000,000 pounds. Full half a million dollars has been put out to ranchers as a result of the crop harvest. This year the county went below its last year's mark. The Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers' Association, which markets the nuts of its members only, sold 1,-929,565 pounds of nuts for which the return in cash at 11 cents was $194,-343.15. Gowen & Willard, independent packers, shipped 622 tons of walnuts, Guggenheim Packing Company, 580 tons; Smith & Minor, 316,275 pounds, and C. C. Collins, 250,000 pounds.

Strenuous efforts on the part of E. I. Tolle, local manager of the Pacific Electric, resulted last evening in driving off a lot of armed Japs bent on slaying J. R. Fuller, a real estate man. Fuller's grandson and several other children playing with an air gun exasperated the Japs, which led to the trouble.

FAREWELL SERMONS.

CORONA, Dec. 28.—Rev. W. N. Burr, for nine years pastor of the Congregational Church, is to preach his farewell sermons Sunday morning and evening, and will next week move to La Jolla, where he has accepted a call. Rev. and Mrs. Burr will be greatly missed in church circles and in the community at large.

TWICE FOILED.

Police Say Medera Tried to Rob McBride in Saloon and Later in Alley—Both Arrested.

J. C. Medera was twice foiled in an attempt to rob J. H. McBride at Fifth and San Pedro streets last night, according to the police.

When an officer arrived at Gus Nables's saloon, he was told that the bartender saw Medera take $50 from McBride's pocket. When the bartender attempted to recover the money Medera, according to witnesses, resisted and the bartender knocked him down and took the money from him.

The police were informed that Medera then went to the alley in the rear of the saloon and there waited for McBride. When McBride came out of the saloon Medera attacked him, it is said. The officer arrived about that time and sent Medera to the City Jail on the charge of suspicion and McBride on the charge of drunkenness.

Colds on the Chest

Ask your doctor the medical name for a cold on the chest. He will say, "Bronchitis." Ask him if it is ever serious. Lastly, ask him if he prescribes Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for this disease. Keep in close touch with your family physician.

MEN

A Cure Is What You Need Come Here and Get It

My reputation as the leading specialist in men's diseases is firmly established by my work of the past, and there is no necessity of my resorting to irregular methods in order to keep busy. My skill, ability and straightforward methods entitle me to the success that I have won, and to the full measure of public confidence that I enjoy.

Varicocele

Is indicated by knots and enlargements and soft and flabby parts. It results from partial paralysis of the delicate nerve fibers that have a part in controlling local circulation of the blood. The blood vessels expand from the pressure, within, the circulation becomes sluggish, and frequent stagnant pools form in little nooks and pockets that constantly enlarge as the relaxation continues. Clots may form in these stagnant pools and then pass out into the general circulation. Should one find lodgment in a valve of the heart the result might be instant death, or should it be carried to the brain general paralysis would follow. I cure varicocele by a safe, painless method.

Weakness

You've probably been treated for so-called weakness and helped temporarily or not at all and the reason is very apparent when cause of loss of power in men is understood. Weakness is merely a symptom of chronic inflammation of the prostate gland, which my treatment removes, thereby permanently restoring strength and vigor.

Advice and Consultation Free

No matter what your ailment is, come and have a private talk with me. Even if you are not prepared to undergo treatment at this time, I can always give helpful suggestions to men who are diseased or weak. If you cannot come to Los Angeles, write.

ELECTRICITY

The Fire of Life

Every man who is weak and "going back" knows that there ought to be something that will restore that old "steam" to his physical body. He has tried the usual drug method and found that a fizzle, and yet he knows there must be something.

We knew it, too, and we've got it. It's Electricity. You can't name anything more likely to have that force which a weak man lacks. It's a natural power. We can pump it into a weak man while he sleeps, and make him feel like a Sandow in no time. It's the fire of life.

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt

Makes men noble; it causes the nerves to tingle with the joyful exhilaration of youth; it fills the heart with a feeling of gladness, makes everything look bright and makes the nerves like bars of steel.

It is a wonderful renewer of the vigor of men. Its touch is the touch of magnetism. It charges the body with a grand force of vitalizing energy, and turns back the hand of time for men who have begun to feel old, broken-down and feeble.

It does this while you sleep, by pouring electricity, which is nature's energy, into your nerves and blood. Electricity is life to the vital parts; when they are weak it will make them strong.

I was cured of kidney and liver complaint of 20 years' standing. The belt also cured my stomach trouble and I have gained 32 pounds in weight since I began its use. E. E. AUSTIN. Coulterville, Cal.

Since wearing your belt, the losses I complained of have ceased. V. C. SMITH. Camp No. 5, Scotia, Cal.

Certainly your electrical treatment is all right, for it cured my rheumatism from which I suffered for years. W. BRADFORD. Arlington, Cal.

Your electrical belt has restored my power and I have no nervousness or pain of any kind. G. D. SMITH. Redlands, Cal.

Wherever you are, we think we can give you the name of a man in your town that we have cured. Just send us your address and let us try.

Now, don't delay. Enjoy all the happiness you may in this world. You can have none without health and strength.

FREE BOOK. Write us today for our beautiful illustrated book, with cuts showing how our Belt is applied, full of good reading matter for men who want to be "The Noblest Work of God"—A MAN. Inclose this coupon and we will send this book, sealed, free.

CALL TODAY—If you can, call and see us and we will show you how you can be cured and give you a free test of our Belt. CONSULTATION FREE.

Yesterday's Forecast and Report.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Dec. 28. [Reported by A. B. Wollaber, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the thermometer registered 52 deg.; at 5 p.m., 54 deg. Relative humidity, 6 a.m., 100 per cent.; 5 p.m., 70 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., east, velocity 5 miles; 5 p.m., west, velocity 2 miles. Maximum temperature, 62 deg.; minimum, 52 deg. Rainfall past twenty-four hours, 1.32 inches; rainfall for season, 5.52 inches.

Weather Conditions.—A storm which was central at sea off the California coast yesterday moved rapidly inland during the last twenty-four hours and caused general rains in Southern California, Utah and Southern Arizona, and snow in Northern Arizona. The storm will cause a continuation of unsettled, rainy weather in Los Angeles and vicinity during the next twenty-four to thirty-six hours. Light rain and snow has occurred in the Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, the Middle Atlantic and the New England States, and light precipitation is also reported in the Pacific Northwest east of the Cascade Mountains. Elsewhere fair weather has prevailed.

Forecasts.—Local forecast for Los Angeles and vicinity: Unsettled, cloudy weather with rain this afternoon, tonight and probably Saturday; variable winds.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28.—Rainfall data:

Fresno	.00	3.42	1.34
San Luis Obispo	.00	4.46	1.22
San Diego	.02	4.39	1.34

Fair weather prevails in California except south of the Tehachepi, where generous rains have occurred. The temperatures are moderate throughout California. Forecast:

San Francisco and vicinity: Fair Saturday, light north wind.

Sacramento Valley: Fair Saturday, possibly light frost in the morning, light east wind.

San Joaquin Valley: Fair Saturday, light frost in the morning, light north wind.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Clearing Saturday, light north wind.

Arizona: Rain Saturday; Sunday fair.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Weather conditions were strongly against the demand for produce yesterday, and the general market was tame, with little business. Attendance on 'change was light, and no sales were made to feature the session. Several of the heaviest dealers in eggs stated that there is little truth in the rumor that the egg market is weak. Supplies of ranch eggs were particularly short yesterday, and some jobbers said they had experienced considerable trouble getting supplies to fill out the day's orders. There is no doubt that reductions will occur in egg prices as soon as there is a period of bright, sunny weather, but as long as the rain continues supplies will not increase materially, and drops will not take place until there is an increase in egg arrivals.

A moderate sized shipment of butter came in by steamer yesterday from the North.

Pineapples are in active demand at $.50 @.75 per crate.

MORE BRISKNESS IN 'CHANGE CALLS.

BUSINESS during the early call was much more brisk Friday than it has been since the holiday season begun. Brokers evidently had been rustling for a few orders, and this, combined with the return of H. L. Percy to the caller's desk, made the session move along with a snap that was encouraging.

Central oil was undoubtedly the market leader, as 12,000 shares changed hands at prices varying from 1.13 regular to 1.14¼@1.16 buyer thirty days. The stock opened in apparently slack demand, but business soon developed and the stock at the close showed an advance of 1¾ points on the bid and fully 2 on the holding price, closing at 1.13¾@1.15¼. Bidding was extremely lively and ran up quickly, the offering price at first at 1.14¼ was offered down as low as 1.13, and as the offering was always snapped up, the holders raised the asked. For the future trading the bidding was especially strong, 5000 shares of the total sold being at 1.14¼@1.16 buyer thirty. The bidding ranging under these conditions from 1.12 to 1.16, with the offerings all the way from 1.17 to 1.14½. Bidding for the thirty-day options was brisk also, the prices offered ranging from 1.18 to 1.21½, the bidder wanting a call on any part of the capital stock. None was offered.

Olinda Land Company was next in importance in the way of actual trading, 8000 shares changing hands at 20 buyer sixty, and 19 for regular delivery. The stock, however, shows no advance on the bid of the previous day's close, the quotations posted at the end of the session being 18½@22. Buyer thirty contracts were offered at 22, while 20 was bid for the thirty-day calls.

Rice Ranch Oil was the only other trader, 1000 shares changing hands at 1.48 buyer ninety days. The stock closed at 1.25@1.50, a gain of 5 points over the bid posted Thursday. Bidding was confined almost exclusively to the buyer ninety contracts, which were bid for at 1.48@1.48 with the asked at 1.70@1.50.

Union Oil was in strong demand, and shows a gain of 2 points over the closing quotation of Thursday, closing Friday at 202.50@205. While no official sales were made, several have been reported on the street at 202.50, immediately after the call. The stock opened strong at 200 bid with 206 asked. United Petroleum raised 17 points over night, closing with a strong bid of 342, with no stock for sale. Union Provident was offered at 202, seller three days, but found no takers, and the stock closed without a quotation. Columbia Oil was again in demand, the stock advancing 2 points, closing at 32 bid with the asked at 44. No sales were made. Globe Oil was raised in the bid 3 points, but none was offered. Little attention was shown Mexican Petroleum, the stock closing without a bid, the offering being at 1.44. Buyer thirty's were held at 1.50@1.46. Thirty-day puts were offered at 1.15, while a bid was made for the sixty-day variety at 1.20. Other oil securities were quiet.

While no transactions were reported among the miscellaneous stocks, the securities were fairly strong. Home common stock shows a rise of ½ on the bid, closing Friday at 24.50, with none offered. A strong cash bid was made at 24 for 100 shares or any part. No offering of any kind was made. The preferred stock of the Home Telephone Company shows a loss of ¼ point, closing with no transactions at 64.75@67. Bidding for futures was more pronounced than it was for the common stock. Bids for the thirty-day buyer contracts ranged from 65.75 to 66.50, with the stock offered at 68. Edison common shows an advance of ½, closing at 61.50, with none offered. Bids for large lots ranged from 60 for forty shares, to 61.50 for any part of 100 shares. Santa Monica Home was offered down from 19 to 15, the bid at the same time advancing from 6 to 10.

The first mortgage bonds of the Home Telephone Company were the only ones showing any improvement over the preceding day's quotations, these closing with a bid of 92¼@94½, an advance of ½ point on the bid. Other securities were inactive. The banking stocks were steady and quiet.

ON MINING CALL.

Trading on the mining call was mostly confined to California Hills, fully 29,000 shares being traded in at prices ranging from 7 7-8@8, buyer thirty days, to 7 7-8 for immediate cash delivery. Business was good in this particular security, and while the stock shows no gain on the bid, closing at 7 3-4@7 7-8, the demand was much stronger. Bidding for futures was confined to buyer thirty's, with a range of offerings at 7 3-4@8 1-8, with the holding price at 8 1-2; 8 was bid for buyer sixty days, a block of 5000 shares being wanted. Cash bids for large blocks were numerous, 7 1-2 being offered for any part of 5000 or 20,000 shares. Several large blocks were sold.

Nevada Searchlight sold well also, 4000 shares being traded in at 7 3-4. The stock closed at 7 3-4@7 7-8. This is a gain of 1 1-8 points on the preceding day's closing bid of 6 1-4. Bidding for calls at thirty days was at 7 1-2, with an offering at 10. No sales were made under these conditions.

Johnnie Consolidated is on the sales sheet with transactions amounting to 2000 shares, the prices being at 17 1-2 @18. The stock closed at 17 1-2@18 1-4, a fractional loss on the bid as compared with that of Thursday. Bidding for futures was for buyer thirtys only, 18 being offered. Thirty-day calls were offered at 21, but no bidding was heard.

Eldorado Cañon sold to the extent of 7000 shares, the price being at 3 1-8, buyer thirty days. The stock closed with a fractional gain at 3 7-8@3, no cash sales being recorded.

Clark Copper fell one point below the flotation price, to 49 bid. No sales were made and bidding for futures was entirely lacking. The stock was offered at 60. Other mining stocks were inactive.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The restraining influences of the coming January settlement asserted itself on the stock market again today. A shifting of loans began early in the day, which ran the call loans up to 18 per cent. and dislodged some holdings of stocks. The covering of short contracts, which was effected in yesterday's rising market, left that of today deprived of that much demand. There was evidence, as well as renewed pressure of liquidation, in the bill stocks, and the subscription rights for St. Paul ran off 1½@1.90 from Nevada Put-Ups, the demand for the new stock. A new story was in circulation that a large speculative holding of the Hill stocks, which was in a vulnerable position had been taken over by private bank, and it was hoped that this would relieve the stocks from the pressure of the liquidation which has been forced on them for several days, and the renewed depression was more disappointing. Long decline in these stocks gave rise to persistent rumors about the Stock Exchange today, of damage which might result. These rumors were discredited in well-informed quarters, and passed out of consideration when prices began to recover late in the day. This was after the principal money requirements had been met at the Stock Exchange. As long as made today carry over until Monday, which is the last day of the year, there was a growth in the feeling of confidence that the year-end would be bridged without a violent flurry in the money market. The contrast in the action of the stock market, in view of this tranquil condition in the call money market, with the rapid rise in stocks at this time last year, when money went to 12% per cent. on call, was the subject of much comment. The most plausible explanation of the contrast is the accentuated stringency in the world's money market this year, which obstructed the efforts of the holders of securities on margin to secure resources for carrying them in foreign markets, and thus to ignore the fluctuations in the local rate. The usual estimate of the currency movement showed a balance in favor of New York, a large proportion of which was believed to be by receipts from Canada. The news of the death of President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad was of almost of no effect on the stock market, and did not come as a surprise. The late recoveries in the market were well held, and the closing tone was fairly steady. Bonds were irregular; total sales, par value, $1,954,000. United States bonds were unchanged.

New York Money Market.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Money on call steady and higher, 15@18 per cent.; ruling rate, 16 per cent.; closing bid and offered, 4 per cent. Time loans easier; sixty days, 7@7½ per cent.; ninety days, 7 per cent.; six months, 6@6½ per cent. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 6@6½ per cent. Sterling exchange heavy, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.82 7-16@4.82¾ for demand, and at 4.87 7-16@4.87¾ for sixty-day bills. Posted rates, 4.79@4.79½ and 4.84@4.84½. Commercial bills, 4.77¾. Bar silver, 69¾. Mexican dollars, 55¾. Bonds—Governments, steady; railroad bonds, irregular.

STATE OF TRADE.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade will tomorrow say that Christmas week made a favorable comparison with previous years as to the volume of trade. Retailers' stocks of winter goods have been so well distributed that there remain less than the usual assortments for bargain sales. Lack of snow greatly facilitates building operations at many cities, and work is making rapid progress, although delayed deliveries of materials retard operations in this industry. Prices for packers' hides are firmly maintained, and some varieties have risen still higher. Tanners in need of prompt shipments are often compelled to pay a premium. Narrow holiday markets have prevailed for leading staples of the farm, small changes in prices occurring, and no developments of significance being recorded.

Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that with an unparalleled volume of business for 1906, increased by a record holiday trade and a heavy volume of future orders booked, the commercial and industrial interests of the country look forward with confidence to the developments of 1907. Car shortages still prevail, though the situation is somewhat better in such sections as the Northwest and parts of the South.

Copper is higher, per being from 23% to probably 25 cents a pound, the latter figure being for spot lots. Raw sugars at New York have receded 1/8 to a level corresponding to the quotation for new Cuban sugar, dropping from 3.875 cents to 3.75 cents (30 points) without sales. Cuban production is larger. Best sugar production this year exceeded that of Louisiana cane. Hides are easier, but tanners take only immediate requirements. Trade in alcohol is in a transition period. Wood alcohol has dropped 20 cents a gallon, owing to the going into effect of the new law January 1. Little buying is reported pending the changes. Business failures for the week ending December 27, in the United States, numbered 161, against 227 last week, and 213 in the like week of 1905.

Bank Clearings.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The following table, compiled by Bradstreet, shows the bank clearings at the principal cities for the week ended December 27, with the percentage of increase and decrease, as compared with the corresponding week last year.
